STEEL CHIEFS BID FOR PEACE

CONGRESS GETS OUTLINE OF NEW SOCIAL THEORY

Points Future Path of New Deal.

The text of President Roosevelt's "design for living" address will be found on Page 6.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—A Rooseveltian manifesto for extending the New Deal farther and deeper into American life was presented to congress today.

President Roosevelt sent to the lawmakers a long message in which he gave notice of vast social experiments which he intends to commence in the coming winter.

The President showed his purpose of remaking American existence; of transferring whole populations; of abandoning millions of acres of farm lands and of sending the people of these areas by the hundred thousands on to newly reclaimed lands.

Government Ordering Existence.

In the vision he held before congress Mr. Roosevelt saw the federal government ordering these lives in a new planned existence, and ordering also a new controled use of all the lands and resources of the nation.

He spoke of adequately housing the people, and of providing under federal government supervision huge funds for protecting them in times of unemployment and in old age.

The message was deemed unique first in that it sought no specific legislation, but merely acquainted the congress with his purposes. To some critics it was as a Cæsar communicating his will to the Roman senate.

The President's language was polite, suavely diplomatic, and he spoke of "plans" and "recommendations" he would submit to the next congress, but through the message ran a strain that this would be the program of Roosevelt, not the program of congress. There was also perceived the social philosophy of the collectivist leadership of the brain trust, of Moley and of Tugwell and of Berle and Taussig.

Regarded as Election Manifesto.

In another sense the message was unique in that it is regarded as the political manifesto for the coming congressional elections. Thus the message is accepted as the Roosevelt creed for the Democratic party, and in some respects as a reply to the Republican platform as adopted at Chicago.

The message discussed the three factors of housing, land, and resource planning and old age and unemployment insurance.

Expressing satisfaction over progress in relieving industry, agriculture, and unemployment, the President, asserting his right to chart social reforms, declared, "It is childish to speak of recovery first and reconstruction afterward."

Gives Campaign Aim.

Encouraging Democratic congressmen to hew to his policies in their campaigns, he asserted that "the American people can be trusted to decide wisely upon the measures taken by the government to eliminate the abuses of the past."

Taking up the housing problem, he said millions of dollars had already been provided to improve living conditions, and voiced the hope that with passage of his housing program private capital would be stimulated to widen the scope of home building.

No Prospect at Present.

Discussing planned control of the land, he declared that hundreds of thousands of families now live "where there is no reasonable prospect of a living in the years to come."

Sounding the failure of the government thus far to create a "national policy" for the development of land and water resources, Mr. Roosevelt indicated his intention of providing such a policy, and for the transferring to new lands of "those people who cannot make a living in their present positions."

Outlines Security Views.

Outlining his views on providing security against unemployment and old age, Mr. Roosevelt said he was seeking a "sound means" which he could recommend to provide an immediate safeguard against these "hazards and vicissitudes of life."

Replying to the charges that New Deal measures have so crippled business and industry as to retard recovery, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"We have not imposed undue restrictions upon business. We have not opposed the incentive of reasonable and legitimate private profit. We have sought, rather, to enable certain aspects of business to regain the confidence of the public."

BRAIN TRUSTER IS RIDICULED IN SENATE DEBATE

Confirmation Move Gets Setback.

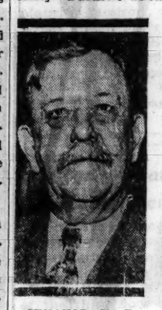
Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—Turmoil such as rarely occurs on the floor of the senate this evening greeted an attempt to confirm the nomination of Rexford Guy Tugwell, star of the brain trust, as undersecretary of agriculture.



SENATOR E. D. SMITH.

The attempt met with a temporary setback after Prof. Tugwell had been flayed for his principles, ridiculed for his inexperience in agriculture, and questioned for his loyalty to his country.

Tugwell to Be Called.

Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], appalled at the flood of invective called forth from his own side of the senate chamber, finally agreed that Tugwell should be summoned to appear at a meeting of the committee on agriculture next Monday and submit to questioning concerning his qualifications for the post.

The chairman of the committee, Senator Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.], who was Tugwell's most bitter opponent in the battle today, thereupon agreed that his committee would report on the nomination not later than next Tuesday noon. Next week should be "Tugwell week" in Washington, with many a senator clamoring to be heard on the boldest phases of the New Deal, many of which have come from the fertile imagination of the Columbia university faculty member.

Showdown Comes.

The showdown on Tugwell came late today when Senator Robinson made a motion to discharge the committee on agriculture from consideration of the nomination. He had taken this step with the knowledge that the nomination, sent to the senate on April 24, otherwise would languish in the committee because of Senator Smith's antagonism toward Tugwell.

The motion precipitated a fine free-for-all. Strangely enough, the attack on Tugwell was led by three Democratic senators. The professor's only defender was Senator George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.], and he confined his remarks mainly to a condemnation of Senator Smith's committee for attempting to smother the nomination.

Refrain from Blasts.

Many of the Republican senators, pointing out that the motion was purely a technical one and that Tugwell's qualifications were not concerned until after it had been disposed of, refrained from the verbal blasts.

Senator Smith, a practical farmer himself, had been expected to score the brain truster, who has had no actual experience in farming. But the surprise assaults came from Senator Harry Flood Byrd [Dem., Va.], perhaps the least heard man on the floor of the senate, and Senator Thomas P. Gore [Dem., Okla.].

Byrd Aroused.

Senator Byrd opened his remarks by stating that he had hitherto consumed only three minutes of the senate's time since the day he was sworn. But the Tugwell nomination aroused him to oratorical heights.

"It previously had been my purpose to vote for Dr. Tugwell," he declared. "In fact, I told him so. I arise today to announce the reason for my change.

"I believe the senate should confirm the nominations of the President unless there is great reason to the contrary. I personally believe that a farmer should be appointed undersecretary of agriculture.

Cites Need of Experience.

"I believe that a man should be appointed who has gone through the trials and tribulations that every farmer must go through. But I am willing to yield my opinion on that to the President, and I am not voting as I will vote because Dr. Tugwell is a professor and because perhaps he over the flat lands of Texas and the hills of Arizona to make a half dozen such critics as they."

To that they answered:

"We, the undersigned steel workers who have just listened to your refined speech full of hell and bluff, denounce you for making such a damnable statement over the radio, using your government position and the national radio to call us steel workers who criticize your schemes just so much skin off a saddle."

Signed by 18 Leaders.

The eighteen who signed, headed by Earl J. Forbeck and William J. Spang, who have been leaders of the insurgent movement, had been slated to visit Johnson's office together with national officers of the union at 10 a. m. tomorrow to get an explanation of what the steel plan entails.

Upon Johnson's ability to sell the plan to labor leaders tomorrow may depend the outcome of their strike threat. Since the steel proposal follows closely the labor relations system which he himself set up in the automobile industry, President Roosevelt may proceed to proclaim the system without the unions' approval.

Willingness of the steel industry, which has fought many a bloody battle with striking laborers in the past, to accept a plan of freely chosen employé representation for collective bargaining came as a surprise to many observers. Not only does the industry's own proposal allow free, impartially supervised elections, but it provides that the workers may, if they wish, vote out of existence the company unions through which the steel companies have reputedly controled their employés.

Board May Supervise Elections.

"The board," says the charter agreed to by the industry," shall have the right to supervise any election of employés' representatives under such employé representation plans, or any amended plans, and to supervise any vote to amend such representation plans, when called upon so to do, either by the employer, the committee having charge of elections under such plans or upon written request signed by a substantial percentage of the eligible voters. Any determination by the board as to who are the freely chosen representatives of the employés of any company at any such election shall be respected by the employer thereof for the purpose of collective bargaining."

An executive committee of three directors from the American Iron and Steel institute, L. E. Block of Inland Steel, E. C. Grave of Bethlehem Steel, and W. A. Irvin of the United States Steel corporation concluded the agreement with Johnson. This board in a letter to Johnson tonight set forth its full acceptance of the new labor charter but reiterated the industry's traditional opposition to the closed shop and its faith in the company union system. Their letter declared the companies confident that the majority of the workers would vote to retain the company union system.

A Day of Hectic Conferences.

Johnson's announcement of the industry's proposal came at the end of a day of hectic conferences. Repeatedly during the day the steel union men met with Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Assistant Secretary Edward McGrady, and Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], head of the national labor board.

Early in the day Secretary Perkins won a preliminary victory by forcing the two warring factions of the steel union to agree on one committee to represent them both. Formation of this committee marked a return to power of the old line union officers who previously had been pushed into the background by the more radical "rank and file committee."

LIGHT COMPANY IN MILWAUKEE LOSES ITS EAGLE

Order Follows Discharge of Employes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson today ordered the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company to surrender its Blue Eagle because of alleged discrimination against union laborers.

In a telegram to the company, Gen. Johnson directed it to turn in its Blue Eagle to the postmaster at Milwaukee and to cease displaying the insignia on any of the company's property. He declared that the company had broken section 7A of the recovery act by discharging eight employés.

Gen. Johnson's action followed decisions by the national labor board and by the regional labor board at Milwaukee. Both decisions held that the company's discharging of the eight men was a discrimination against union labor in contravention to section 7A.

Company Denies Charges.

The company has continually denied these charges, explaining that one of the eight employés was fired for unbecoming conduct, another for gross negligence and five for deliberate violation of the company's rules. The eighth employé, the company declares, was transferred because of physical inability to do the work originally assigned to him.

By ordering the Blue Eagle turned in Gen. Johnson today sided with the national and regional labor boards in holding that this defense by the company would not stand up. After the two labor boards has passed on the Milwaukee case they referred it to Johnson with the request that he revoke the Blue Eagle. Before doing so today he had the NRA compliance division investigate the case a third time. When all three recommendations, from the Milwaukee board, the national board, and the compliance division, all coincided, he decided to recall the Eagle.

Warned by Labor Board.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the national labor board, pointed out in a letter to Johnson today that the company had been given until May 29 to reinstate the discharged workers, but had not done so. After hearing the case and deciding it against the company, the board had warned the company that it might be stripped of its Blue Eagle and prosecuted by the department of justice unless it abided by the board's decision and took the eight workers back, Senator Wagner said.

The union, in presenting the case against the company, had charged that the company had sought to intimidate its employés by firing the eight men in question. Since all the men were union members, their dismissal would discourage other workers from joining the union and risking the displeasure of the company, the union representative argued.

Text of Johnson's Telegram.

In his telegram to the company Johnson said:

"The national labor board has made a recommendation that your Blue Eagle be withdrawn, based upon its adoption of the findings of a majority of a tribunal set up by the parties for the purpose of hearing and adjusting complaints of various employés that you had discriminated against them for union activity and its conclusion that by this discriminatory conduct you had violated section 7A of NIRA.

"The compliance division has concurred in this recommendation. In accordance with these recommendations I hereby direct you to surrender all your Blue Eagles to the postmaster at Milwaukee and to refrain hereafter from displaying the Blue Eagle in any manner whatsoever."

Bus Company Refuses to Enter NRA Labor Charge Hearing

John A. Ritchie, president of the Chicago Motor Coach company, last evening announced that the concern had carried out its refusal to have representatives present before the national labor board at Washington yesterday at a scheduled hearing on charges of violation of the NRA. He also made public the text of a six page letter which notified the New Deal tribunal of the company's attitude in the case.

The charges were sent to Washington by the Chicago regional labor board, at that time headed by President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, when Mr. Ritchie refused to send representatives to a local hearing a month ago. The board accused the bus company of "interference with employés' privileges to organize, which are guaranteed by section 7-A of the act, and discrimination against men because of union affiliations."

Accompanying the letter were copies of records of employés' elections sponsored by the Chicago Motor Coach fraternity, a workers' organization which has been in operation for 10 years, and a copy of a petition circulated by the workers declaring their position against outside unions.

The letter criticized the wording of a telegram from the national board, which on May 31 commanded the company to send a representative.

"Pursuant to authority vested in it by the President, the national labor board has assumed jurisdiction over labor dispute between Chicago Motor Coach company and its employé," the telegram read.

Mr. Ritchie replied:

"This company has no labor dispute or controversy with its employés. An effort is being made by outside professional organizers and labor agitators to force the employés of our company into the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America union. This is seriously objected to by the employés.

Employés' Petition Cited.

"They have circulated a petition amongst themselves protesting against such action and sent same to the governor of Illinois and to the mayor of Chicago, which protest has been signed by 1,178 employés, or 95 per cent of all employés, excluding those employed in a supervisory capacity, plus those absent on account of sickness, vacations, etc."

Positive proof that the employés are satisfied with their working conditions, Mr. Ritchie pointed out, may be found in the fact that all but temporary employés engaged for the World's Fair have been with the company for more than five years. Of the permanent employés, 34.8 per cent have been with the company for more than 10 years.

On Sept. 30, 1933, a contract between the employés' fraternity and the company was signed, restoring the hourly rates of pay of 1929. Mr. Ritchie said he believed the company was the first in the transportation field to do this.

SEMI-NUDIST FINDS HE'S UNWELCOME IN GALLERY OF SENATE

Washington, D. C., June 8.—(AP)—Semi-nudism may be all right for mahatmas, but it won't do for spectators in the senate galleries.

A man giving the name of William H. Goodell, wearing a towel, half a sheet, and a pair of sandals, and terming himself the mahatma of the United States, found this out today.

He was ejected from a public gallery under the supervision of Chesley W. Jurney, sergeant at arms.

Goodell told reporters he was attempting to get a bill offered in congress to establish nudist colonies in Panama, the Philippines and elsewhere.

He expressed the belief that much of the world's poor health is due to too many clothes.

Jury Selection Completed in Singer's $100,000 Suit

Selection of a jury to hear the $100,000 damage suit of Miss Andrea Marsh, 18 years old, former radio singer, against the Northland Greyhound Bus Lines, Inc., was begun yesterday in the court of Superior Judge Charles A. Williams. Miss March is suing for injuries alleged to have been received last Sept. 12 when the automobile in which she was riding with Truman Bradley, radio announcer, collided with a bus at 31st street and South Park way. The injuries, she says, have prevented her from working since the accident.

HUNT FOR RUNAWAY GIRL.

Chicago police were requested by telegraph yesterday to arrest Dorothy Purple, 15 years old, of Detroit. The girl is reported to have run away from her home on Thursday, and taken a bus for Chicago, where she was to meet a man who was not identified.

BILLY RANIERI KIDNAP SUSPECT HELD IN LONDON

The sensational kidnaping of Billy Ranieri, who was abducted on Sept. 6, 1928, was resurrected yesterday when the state's attorney's office received a cablegram from London, England, that Julio Romano, long sought as one of the actual kidnapers, is under arrest there.

BILLY RANIERI

Billy, now 16 years old, the son of Alex Ranieri, a contractor living at 4901 Altgeld street, was seized while on his way home from school, and was in the hands of his captors for thirteen days, in a farm house near Bourbonnais, Ill. The kidnapers released the boy, without collecting any of the $60,000 ransom they had demanded. Later, two members of the gang were caught, tried and are now serving terms of 25 years in the Joliet penitentiary.

Following his release, Billy is said to have identified a picture of Romano as one of the men who seized him and forced him into the kidnapers' automobile.

The two who were convicted are Angelo Pettiti, and Andrew Cappellano. The trial itself was a sensational one, reaching its climax when one of the state's witnesses, Ole Scully, was shot to death the day before he was to testify.

Yesterday Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty assigned Sergts. Pat McNamara and Joseph Healy to discover if witnesses can be gathered again to build a case against Romano.

BOY DROWNS IN BASEMENT.

Bennie Anderson, 7 years old, a Negro of 2029 Federal street, was drowned last night when he attempted to swim in four feet of water which had collected in a building excavation at 2400 South Michigan avenue.

IMPORTER SHOT BY BLACK HAND IS RECOVERING

Acting Capt. Andrew Barry of the Chicago avenue station, yesterday was proceeding with his investigation of the shooting Thursday of Nunzio Russo, wealthy food importer and macaroni manufacturer, on the theory Russo had refused to pay tribute to a black hand gang. Russo is expected to recover from his wounds, but Louis Pierpaoli, 25 years old, 165 West Locust street, a barber who was in the line of fire when the gunmen shot at Russo in a barber shop at 464 West Chicago avenue, was believed to be dying.

Russo insisted to police that he did not know who shot him and that he has no idea what the motive was. He lives at 149 Glenwood avenue, Glencoe, and his business is located at 466 West Chicago avenue, next door to the barber shop. He said no one had attempted to extort money from him and he had not been threatened.

Capt. Barry said detectives were investigating an attempt to kill Russo seven months ago and an explosion that occurred in his former home three years ago. The shooting of Pierpaoli, who was struck in the abdomen by a bullet, was accidental, Capt. Barry said, as it was apparent the assassins sought only the life of Russo.

DOROTHY DELL OF FILMS DIES IN AUTO CRASH

Pasadena, Cal., June 8.—(AP)—Less than a week ago Dorothy Dell, Hollywood's newest screen luminary, voiced the trouper's superstition there would be another death soon in Hollywood's movie colony, because actors' deaths come in threes.

"They always say that when death comes to one actor it comes to two others before very long," the 19 year old husky voiced blonde actress mused aloud as she was talking with friends on the day of memorial services for Lew Cody.

"There was Lilyan Tashman, and now Lew Cody—I wonder who'll be next."

Miss Dell was next. She was killed early today when the automobile in which she was riding plunged off a highway near here, mowed down two telephone poles, and rammed into a concrete light standard.

Young Doctor Fatally Hurt.

She was killed almost instantly. Her escort, Dr. Carl Wagner, a prominent young physician, received injuries that caused his death a few hours later. The automobile was crumpled to about half its normal length.

Miss Dell, whose real name was Dorothy Dell Goff, and Dr. Wagner, who was 28, had just left an inn at Altadena, where they had attended a gay party, and were heading for Pasadena during the early morning hours.

Miss Dell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert L. Goff, formerly of New Orleans, and their younger daughter, Helen, sped to the hospital where the actress was taken. The mother, who recently had undergone a surgical operation by Dr. Wagner, was reported near collapse.

Beauty Contest Winner.

The tragedy ended a brief but spectacular career on the stage and screen. As a native of Hattiesburg, Miss., the blonde haired girl went to New Orleans, entered a beauty contest in 1929, and took second place.

In 1930 she entered the international beauty show by winning first place in a local contest. The show went broke and she financed her own way to Galveston, Tex., where she was designated as "Miss America" and finally as "Miss Universe."

She toured a vaudeville circuit, playing a minor rôle. Then the late Florenz Ziegfeld saw her and she reached his "Follies." She became a hit almost overnight. The "Follies" closed and Dorothy Dell went to the night clubs. Again her star was dim, but only for a while. Next she was in Hollywood with a movie contract.

Miss Dell became a star in "Wharf Angel." One of her last outstanding rôles was in "Little Miss Market," which, perhaps ironically, opens its showing tomorrow in New Orleans, where she started her march to fame.

Relatives said funeral services will be held at Gulfport, Miss., the former home of her mother.

Mrs. C. B. Scrivner, an aunt of the motion picture star, said that Dorothy's great-grandfather, on her mother's side of the family, was a first cousin of Jefferson Davis, president of the confederacy.

GRADUATE OF RUSH.

Dr. Carl Wagner is supposed to have been the youngest doctor ever graduated from Rush Medical college. He was 21 years old at the time. His father was Dr. Carl Wagner of Chicago and his uncle is Dr. Henry Wagner of Chicago. His sister, formerly Dr. Louise Wagner, is the wife of Dr. Joseph Szukalski of Pasadena. The dead doctor was a graduate of the Chicago Latin school and for a time attended Yale university. His mother, Mrs. Orletta Playter, lives in Pasadena.

Second Adoption

Adoption of a 2 year old girl by Irene Pavloska, former Civic Opera mezzo-soprano, and her husband, Dr. Maurice Mesirow, was revealed yesterday in an order signed by Acting County Judge J. G. Van Keuren. The child will be called Patricia Beatrice. Patricia is the second girl baby to be adopted by Mme. Pavloska. In 1931 she and her husband adopted a baby 5 months old.

Walton's Death in Fall Held Accident by Jury

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the fatal plunge of Mark Woodworth Walton, world war aviator. Walton fell from the window of the third floor apartment of Mrs. George V. Gordon, 832 Argyle street, while trying to win a bet that he could get a good view of the sky ride towers at the World's Fair from the window.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 14; recovered, 14; stripped, 1 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Thursday].

A few days ago Mike, who is 23 years old and lives with his mother, Anna, at 3555 South Wells street, was indicted for the larceny of an automobile and his bond was fixed at $1,500.

Yesterday his mother and a neighbor, Mrs. Pauline Svalina, 3614 South Wells street, appeared at the Criminal court building where they signed his bond and obtained his release. Grateful for their aid, Mike offered to drive the two women home.

Recognizes His Own Car.

Paul E. Gregory, who works in an automobile sales agency at 827 West 35th street, was standing idly at the corner of 35th and Halsted streets as the car passed that intersection. Gregory gaped.

"Hey!" he finally managed to say. "Stop! Hey!"

He had recognized his car, which was stolen on April 2. Policeman Pat Nevils heard his cries and the two gave chase in the car of a passing motorist. At 37th street and Princeton avenue Mike abandoned the car and fled on foot.

Mrs. Svalina and Mrs. Marianovich were locked up at the Deering street police station, but before many hours Mike had repented. He gave himself up to obtain the release of the women.

Captive Confesses Theft.

Mike was taken before Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie, in charge of the automobile theft drive, where he confessed to stealing Gregory's car. McCurrie was still curious.

"We recovered one automobile you stole," he said, "and yet you turn up with another one. How come?"

"Take him back to Deering street and book him," directed McCurrie.

Mike was taken away. McCurrie, struck by a sudden thought, went to the window of his office and looked out. Then he heaved a sigh of relief and returned to his desk.

His own automobile was still standing where he had parked it.

FEDERAL RADIO BOARD REVERSES ITSELF IN NEW ORLEANS CASE

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—In one of its dying gasps as czar of radio regulation, the federal radio commission today reversed itself once again in the now celebrated Shreveport-New Orleans station case in which dictation from the White House previously had figured.

Upon a pre-arranged agreement between the two station—WWL, New Orleans, and KWKH, Shreveport—the commission authorized both stations to operate full time on different waves, but in so doing it broke down another "clear" channel, designed to afford service to rural and remote listeners. Action was taken under the guise of "special experimental authority" to the two stations.

The decision came just as house and senate conferees on the communications commission bill had reconciled their differences and agreed upon abolition of the radio commission effective July 1, when the new commission assumes control over radio and all other communications. Thus the decision is destined to be among the last of the important actions of the radio commission.

The commission authorized WWL, operated by Loyola university, to use full time on the choice 850 kilocycle channel with 10,000 watts power, taking over the facilities of the erstwhile KWKH.

Explosion Injures Woman Cleaning Motor with Gas

Evansville, Ind., June 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anna Kraft, 45 years old, cleaned a refrigerator motor today with gasoline. When she threw the switch an explosion burned her seriously.

Woman, Missing for Time, Finds Way Back.

Seattle, Wash., June 8.—(AP)—Seven persons were rescued today from the wreckage of an air liner that pancaked onto a mountain near Selleck, Wash., accounting for all nine men and women who figured in the crash. Four of them were injured.

Miss Mary Mooney, a teacher, who started away from the scene of the wreck with one of the pilots to seek help and who was unable to keep up, found her way back to the scene after she had been reported missing.

Battling fog as it roared over the Cascade mountains last evening, the ten passenger twin motored ship thudded into the mountain 10 miles from Selleck, in sparsely settled and inaccessible country.

Those in Plane.

Miss Mooney.

Pilot Ben Redfield, Spokane, who concerned himself with the safety of the passengers despite a broken arm.

Co-Pilot Dwight [Swede] Hansen, Spokane, who staggered, despite severe injuries, through the timber to civilization last night, using the air liner's compass to reach a telephone and call for help. He was brought to a Seattle hospital from Selleck.

Robert Clark, Wenatchee, injured.

Miss Mercedes Boyd, Winthrop.

Met by Logging Train.

Searching parties of lumbermen from Selleck reached the crash scene today and started to bring out three of the passengers, while Harry Marshall, superintendent of the Pacific States Lumber company at Selleck, sent a logging railroad speeder to meet them.

The giant liner, which took off yesterday from Felt field, Spokane, crashed as the night began. Hansen said he was thrown from the pilot's cockpit. With a possible nasal fracture, teeth knocked out, severe shock, and cuts, he wrenched the compass from the dashboard and started for help.

Miss Mooney started with him, but could not keep up. With a strip torn from her dress, Hansen left a trail of little pieces of cloth to guide rescuers on his course as he beat his way through the timber.

He stumbled through a roaring creek in water to his knees during the latter part of his trip. At Virginia Mason hospital in Seattle physicians said he was doing well.

Beezley said on his arrival here that Stewardess Bennett attended the pilot, Redfield, whose arm was broken, and the two injured passengers all night and that a leanto was made to protect Redfield from the elements.

Decency Standard Lauded by Attorney General.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings expressed complete approval of A Century of Progress Exposition yesterday and added praise for efforts of the Fair executives to observe the moral laws of "propriety and decency."

Mr. Cummings was an official visitor to the Exposition and was accorded a 19 gun salute by way of formal greeting, dined, and escorted about the grounds. Today he will deliver the commencement address at Lake Forest college and receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws. He will return to Washington tomorrow evening after spending another day at the Fair, purely as a sightseer.

Honor Guest at Luncheon.

The discussion of decency at the Fair was started by President Rufus C. Dawes at a luncheon given in honor of the attorney general in the Administration building.

This was Mr. Dawes' first public utterance on the recent controversy between the Fair and some concessionaires who want more diaphanous raiment—or no raiment at all—for their dancing girls.

He said: "If we maintain on these grounds the same standard of morals as the law enforcing agencies maintain in Chicago, we will not disgrace this city. But if we let down the standards here to satisfy the greed of some of those who are making money from our visitors, this Exposition will become a reproach to Chicago and an everlasting disgrace to the people who promoted it."

Cummings Adds Approval.

Then, after welcoming the guest of honor, Mr. Dawes introduced Mr. Cummings.

"I commend what you have said," the attorney general told Mr. Dawes, "and the spirit in which you said it. It is necessary to make this Fair truly representative of the best in American life. You cannot afford to see your standards lowered merely to gain a few dollars from improper practices."

Attorney General Cummings called the Fair "a successful and happy venture" and "a triumph of enterprise."

Escorted by the Black Horse troop, Illinois National Guard, Attorney General and Mrs. Cummings entered the Fair's Court of Honor at 11 a. m. Waiting to receive them were Col. M. M. Keck, commander of the army troops at the exposition, and U. Grant Smith, chief of protocol. The infantry detachment was drawn up at present arms in front of the Administration building and Mr. Cummings and Col. Keck reviewed it. Then Mr. Cummings was greeted by President Dawes.

Greeting him at the United States exhibit were Commissioner Edward F. Dunne and Maj. Chester L. Fordney of the Marine corps. Guided by United States District Attorney and Mrs. Dwight H. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Cummings spent the afternoon and evening touring the grounds.

Open Czechoslovak Pavilion Today.

The Czechoslovakian pavilion at the World's Fair, the official government exhibit of the republic, will be dedicated this afternoon and presented to A Century of Progress Exposition.

The colorful ceremonies will include native music, folk dances, and speeches by city, state, and federal officials.

J. F. Smetanka, Czechoslovakian consul general in Chicago, will act as official representative of his government at the dedication.

The ceremonies will start at 4:30 p. m. in the governmental exhibit, following a march through the Avenue of Flags from the Administration building.

Speakers on the program will include Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, Attorney General Otto Kerner of Illinois, Commissioner Dunne, Anthony Czarnecki, U. S. collector of customs in Chicago, and John A. Cervenka, president of the Czechoslovakian alliance. The chairman of the day is John A. Sokol, president of the Czechoslovakian-American chamber of commerce.

FAIR CENSORS CLOSE THREE 'NUDE' SHOWS IN ITALIAN VILLAGE

World's Fair censors closed three shows in the Italian village yesterday, the action being taken by Nathaniel Owings, chief of concessions, on reports from his investigators.

One of the shows was La Nymph, in which a bathing girl, in a mermaid-like effect, disported in water. Another was Venus, seen in a frame with the aid of back stage lighting. The third represented an artist's model.

According to Mr. Owings, the girls wore loin cloths and breast coverings, but nevertheless violated the regulations governing the shows. He informed Joseph Imburgio, president of the Italian village, that if the shows are to be reopened they must first be shown in a preview to Fair officials. Mr. Imburgio agreed, saying the Italian village had no wish to violate the rules.

"We absolutely will not reopen the show if it must look like an underwear ad," declared Bob Moran, manager of the Venus concession. "Further than that, I wish the Fair would send down a jury of decent, reputable artists, who know a little something about such things, to give an honest opinion of whether our show is indecent."

Last night Irene Cornell, fan dancer in the Moulin Rouge, Streets of Paris, was stopped with a warning in her performance. This is the second interruption of her act by the Fair authorities in a week.

SERIOUS ADULT ILLS TRACED TO CHILD DISEASES

Lecturer at World's Fair Warns Mothers.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Serious personality difficulties in maturity due to common childhood diseases which are thought by most mothers to be a necessary evil were described by Dr. Laurence H. Mayers, yesterday's speaker in the lectures for laymen in the Hall of Science at A Century of Progress. Dr. Mayers is a member of the staf of St. Luke's hospital. The lectures are sponsored by the Chicago Medical society.

In his address, illustrated with lantern slides, Dr. Mayers told how mumps, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and other infectious diseases suffered in childhood may wreck or alter the "personality" glands, such as the thyroid, sex, and pituitary glands, to the extent that unusual behavior and personality eccentricities result in later life.

Classes Mumps as Worst.

"Any infectious disease that will raise the bodily temperature can bring this handicap in maturity," Dr. Mayers said. "Among the most outstanding is mumps. About 80 per cent of every community has the mumps, and from 15 to 35 per cent of those who have had mumps are later affected with personality difficulties.

"The glands, although potency is admitted, cannot make a wise man out of a fool, but they can make a fool out of a wise man. This is something we have so far been unable to account for."

The cure lies in prevention of childhood diseases, Dr. Mayers said; as few sufferers can be really helped. He described the case of a woman who weighed 240 pounds, due to a glandular disturbance. She avoided crowds and public places because of jibes she would overhear about her weight.

Extreme Cases Cited.

"Her physical handicap produced an emotional condition that brought a social maladjustment," Dr. Mayers said. "She knew that eventually she would be isolated because she heard on every side, 'A freak off duty,' 'Perfectly disgusting,' or 'When does the balloon go up?' Another case was of a boy who seemed normal until he was grown. Then his jaw and hands began to grow. In time they became enormous.

"It is safe to say that most of the personality difficulties result from these childhood diseases, which mothers take as a matter of course. To some degree this is evident in the 'showoff' or 'exhibitionist' types so often seen in politics. Although they talk well and are smart in school they never grow up. They are eccentric showoffs."

Dr. Mayers urged that the people handicapped by unusual behavior difficulties be better understood. They would be helped, he said, if the general public handled them more kindly.

Hall of Religion at Fair Will Be Opened Tuesday

George W. Dixon, president of the Hall of Religion at A Century of Progress, yesterday announced that the hall would be formally opened for 1934 with special exercises next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He announced that the program at the hall would be expanded over last year and that exhibits this year are to be more inclusive than previously. The Catholic archdiocese of Dubuque, Ia., has recently installed a large exhibit.

GIRL STRUCK BY STONE DIES.

Eileen Neisius, 11 years old, 4150 Melrose street, died yesterday of a blood clot which formed in her brain after she had been struck with a stone, thrown by an unidentified person. The accident occured while the girl was playing near her home.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The 225 Rhesus monkeys which inhabit Frank Buck's "Monkey Mountain" on Northerly Island, have their own way of dealing with a trouble maker. Yesterday a young monk was making himself obnoxious and three of his companions proceeded to throw him in the water that surrounds the mountain. When he emerged from the moat he made his way to the sunny side of Clifty Dwelling where he remained discreetly silent.

Anglers, hunters, motor boat enthusiasts, in fact all lovers of sports in the great outdoors, may view the wonders of the international motor boats and sportsmans show with the official opening of its gates on the second floor of the Travel and Transport building at the Fair at noon today. There is no charge for the show.

Gen. Joseph Haller, good will emissary from Poland, will be an honored guest at A Century of Progress on Monday. He will be tendered a military reception and be received by President Rufus C. Dawes in the Administration building, after which he and his party will be luncheon guests, and then tour the grounds.

Within two weeks a 1934 edition of the Egyptian lotus of Rameses' time will be in bloom in outdoor gardens of the horticultural exhibition, A Century of Progress. The new lily, named Missouri, has been developed and is exhibited by the Missouri Botanical gardens at St. Louis.

Forty cases of art objects and statuary which will be placed on display in the Greek pavilion, scheduled to open next week, have been forwarded by the Greek government to A Century of Progress. A feature of the exhibit will be two large murals showing five classical dancers in the famous "Dance of the Laurel Wreath," drawn especially for the exhibit by Georges Greco.

One of "Slim" Williams' huskies is missing from the pack which is on display at the Alaskan hut on Northerly Island. The dog was attacked by a band of wolves several hundred miles from Slim's Alaskan home, and was killed before Williams could fire at the wolves.

Tables, chairs, benches, and chests made by the Indian children attending Burke Vocational school of Santa Fé, N. M., arrived at the Federal building today to be exhibited in the Indian affairs display.

A mighty Kilgen organ, the largest of its type to be placed in the open air since the St. Louis exposition of 1904, is located on the Swift bridge of service in the World's Fair. Arthur Dunham, concert organist who presides at the console of the organ, will give daily concerts throughout the summer.

Students from the Art institute yesterday spent the day in and around the Fair grounds making picture studies of the various buildings and landscapes. Several unsuspecting visitors caught in interesting poses were also the inspiration for sketches.

TRIBUNE SENDS NEW TESTAMENT ISSUE TO FAIR

An original issue of THE TRIBUNE of May 22, 1881, containing the full text of the New Testament in a 16 page supplement, was taken from the files of THE TRIBUNE yesterday and installed as an exhibit in the Hall of Religion at A Century of Progress. It will be on display there today and for the duration of the Fair.

The publication of this supplement was described in THE TRIBUNE'S 75th anniversary edition of June 11, 1922, as "a great journalistic triumph—our scoop on the revised version of the New Testament." The headline introducing the text in the May 22, 1881, issue read:

"The New Testament of Our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, Translated out of the Greek: Being the Version Set Forth A. D. 1611, Compared with the Most Ancient Authorities and Revised A. D. 1881."

A notation follows: "This edition is authorized by the American committee of revision," which is signed, "Philip Schaff, President, and George E. Day, Secretary."

The issue has been treated with Japanese tissue to preserve it. It will be displayed in a glass case.

CITY'S HOODLUMS NOT WELCOME AT FAIR, SAYS LOHR

Hoodlums will be no more welcome at the World's Fair than at the table of any respectable family. This was Maj. Lenox R. Lohr's expressed reaction last night to the arrest of Joe Fusco, former Capone beer boss, and "Mimi" Capone, young brother of Al Capone, at the Old Mexico concession on Thursday night.

The pair were with a party including several gangsters attending a festive affair at the cafe, and were singled out by city detectives for questioning. It developed both had workmen passes issued through Old Mexico. Fusco and Capone were later released. It was indicated last night their passes would be revoked.

"We do not want any hoodlums or other undesirable characters at the Fair," said Maj. Lohr, who is general manager of the Exposition. "However, if they pay entrance fees we have no way of stopping them. Most of our men do not know them, but they will aid city police in every way possible."

BOYCOTTS ALL FILMS TILL ALL CUT OUT FILTH

St. Louis Archbishop Lays Law to Theaters.

St. Louis, Mo., June 8.—(AP)—Archbishop John J. Glennon told a committee of the motion picture theater owners of St. Louis today that "good pictures will suffer with the bad until the bad are eliminated" through the boycott of the legion of decency organized here by Catholics.

ARCHBISHOP GLENNON.

Fred Wehrenberg, president of the theater owners' organization, headed the committee which called upon the archbishop. He asked the prelate to urge members of the legion to attend movies classified as clean.

"Only if the picture house shows nothing but clean pictures," the archbishop said. "If it shows both types, then we'll tell our people to stay away from both. You wouldn't keep a man in your employ if he were drunk five days a week merely because he was sober on two?

Refuses to Name Reviewers.

"You have a family night once a week in your neighborhood houses. Why can't you have it seven nights a week? The good pictures will suffer with the bad until the bad are eliminated."

The archbishop refused a request that he appoint a reviewing committee to work with the better films council.

"I haven't much confidence in those reviewing committees," he said. "They haven't been helpful.

Insists on Improvement.

"No," declared the archbishop. "It's the producers."

Producers, the prelate said, have gone so far "as to give us pictures with sacred names in the title and run in scenes showing illicit love in the middle of them."

Wehrenberg said the producers were sending a higher type of pictures to exhibitors.

"Some better, some worse," the archbishop commented. "We can't rely on the producers. They signed an ethics code and violated it a thousand times."

Since the archbishop organized the legion last week many Protestant and Jewish leaders have indorsed its purposes.

Philadelphia Cardinal Acts.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8.—[Special.]—Cardinal Dougherty, in "a positive command" contained in a letter to clergy of this archdiocese, directs Catholics to "boycott" the movies as a protest "against immoral and indecent films."

The letter is published today in the Catholic Standard and Times, official organ of the archdiocese, and was sent to the clergy before Cardinal Dougherty left for Europe.

The cardinal's letter says:

"Perhaps the greatest menace to faith and morals in America today is the motion picture theater, attended every week by almost 77,000,000 persons, of whom some 23,000,000 are young people less than 21 years old.

Attacks Sex and Crime Movies.

"A very great proportion of the screen productions deal largely with sex or crime. The usual theme of these moving pictures is divorce, free love, marital infidelity and the exploits of gangsters and racketeers. A vicious and insidious attack is being made on the very foundations of our Christian civilization—namely: the sacrament of marriage, the purity of womanhood, the sanctity of the home, and obedience to lawful authority.

"This sinister influence is especially devastating among our children and youth.

"Nothing is left for us to do except the boycott. The Catholic people of this diocese are therefore urged to register their united protest against immoral and indecent films by remaining away entirely from all motion picture theaters."

REPORT LAWYER AND 2 INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

True bills charging conspiracy to obstruct justice and perjury and subornation of perjury were reported to have been voted yesterday by the grand jury against Attorney Julius Reznik, Graham Cogan, alias Cohn, and Philip Mansfield, an ex-convict. Bond was fixed at $10,000 on the conspiracy charge for each defendant, and $5,000 on the other charge.

Reznik was fined $2,000 and sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Michael Feinberg in the Criminal court recently for direct contempt of court. The lawyer, who was termed "a human vulture" by Judge Feinberg at the time, was also disbarred from the Criminal court for two years. His appeal is pending in the Appellate court.

During the contempt hearing it was brought out that Reznik was instrumental in securing the parole of Mansfield from a sentence of ten years to life in prison. Reznik obtained employment for Mansfield with Cogan, a loop stationer, who became his "sponsor." The lawyer did not collect a $200 fee immediately, but did so after the released convict and one Edward Coyle obtained $1,041 in a subsequent robbery, the testimony showed.

SIOUX CITY AREA FLOODED AFTER HEAVY RAINFALL

Marooned Families Are Rescued in Boats.

Sioux City, Ia., June 8.—[Special.]—Where a week ago housewives were cleaning dust because of drouth, they today were cleaning mud from their homes as the result of the most disastrous flood since 1892.

At Sioux City, Red Cross and other agencies set up relief quarters for those whose homes were under water. Despite the wide extent of the flood, caused by the Big Sioux and Floyd rivers and Perry creek, there was no loss of life.

Although the water was receding late today, the eastern residential district was still cut off from downtown.

Police rescued more than 500 marooned families in the lowlands. Three boys saved two women and a man marooned on a weakened bridge.

The boys swam to the bridge, removed the tires from the victims' vehicle and used the tubes for life preservers to take them to shore. Towns north of Sioux City reported rains totaling six inches in 12 hours.

REPAIR PICTURE MACHINE; SHOW BREASTED FILM

"The Human Adventure," sound motion picture made by the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago to show man's struggle through the ages, was given its first public showing yesterday afternoon at International house on the campus. An audience composed mostly of society folk viewed the presentation.

An effort to show the film on Thursday evening at International house was a failure because the projection machinery was found defective. Yesterday investigation disclosed that two lenses had been broken, apparently intentionally. After the damage had been repaired the showing was made without incident.

Dr. James H. Breasted, under whose direction the picture was made, said that he believed some individual with a grudge was responsible for the vandalism. He did not believe, he added, that labor trouble had anything to do with it. Frank Clifford, assistant business agent of the Motion Picture Operators' union, asserted there had never been any attempt to enforce union regulations at the university, because "they don't have the money to pay our kind of salaries."

Sheldrake Hotel Robbed Second Time in Month

Two bandits stole $20 in a robbery of the Sheldrake hotel at 4518 Clarendon avenue early today. They menaced Alvin Hill, resident night manager, and Theodore Johnson, Negro elevator operator. Johnson recognized one of the robbers as a gunman who held up the hotel a month ago and got a few dollars.

FEDERAL HEADS FACE SAD DROUTH CONSEQUENCES

Dismal Crop Report One of Devastation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—While continued rain in the affected area held hope for an end of the drouth, federal officials came face to face today with the tremendous economic consequences already wrought by months of dryness in the farm belt.

The most dismal official crop report in a generation presented a stunning picture of the extent to which crop devastation will slash the national farm income this year.

Wheat prospects are the lowest since 1893 and other grain and forage crops are less or little better than half of average, the department of agriculture disclosed. Such terrific cuts in farm production can only mean consequent loss of farmer income, officials admitted, although benefit payments for artificial crop reduction under the AAA are pouring out by the millions of dollars.

Day Offers New Developments.

From President Roosevelt down the government concerned itself with emergency measures designed to prevent human suffering in the stricken sections. The day's developments were:

1. President Roosevelt announced the addition of 50 million dollars to the half-billion dollar drouth relief fund he will ask of congress in a special message tomorrow. The additional 50 millions, the President said, will be used for the relief of city workers thrown out of employment in the food processing industries.

2. Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator, pressed forward with the new "rural habilitation" program and companion plans for removing "stranded families" to new localities.

3. Public Works Administrator Harold Ickes directed PWA officials in the drouth states to speed up work on various irrigation and reclamation projects, for which some 300 million dollars has already been allocated.

President Tells Plan.

Discussing the drouth at his press conference, President Roosevelt declared there was no connection between the AAA program of artificial crop reduction and the natural cut in farm production brought about by the drouth. The theory of the AAA is to regulate surpluses, the President said, and this year's plan of crop restriction might be reversed into a program for crop enlargement another year should the national carryover shrink to the danger point.

At the same time the President indicated in response to a question that the government is seriously considering federal ownership of warehouses and control of surpluses. The matter has been debated for years, he pointed out, as a method of keeping a check on farm prices.

Mr. Hopkins announced that a special staf of experts is being sent into the drouth states to investigate the possibilities of carrying out the federal "rural rehabilitation" program. He said the drouth is expected to prove of material assistance in bringing about the removal of families from submarginal land to new acres.

WOMAN LOSES SUIT, BUT EXPECTS MONEY TO SUPPORT CHILD

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 8.—[Special.]—Defeated by a federal court jury verdict in her suit to obtain $25,000 damages from State Senator Ray Derham of Iron Mountain, Mich., who she charged seduced her, Miss Martha Danculovic today declared she was certain the state legislator would provide for the support of her child.

"I had a conference with Mr. Derham today," Miss Danculovic said. "While no papers have been signed, I am certain that he will do the right thing by providing for the support of the child." She named no figure under discussion.

Miss Danculovic said the child was born in California, and as she is a resident of Akron, O., and Derham is of Iron Mountain, it would be impossible to institute suit in an effort to force him to support the child.

WALLACE SEES FEED SHORTAGE DURING WINTER

St. Paul, Minn., June 8.—[Special.]—Warning that the rains of the last few days have come too late to save much of the northwest crops, that the district next winter will be short of feed and will have 2 million too many cattle, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today declared drouth relief work will continue unabated.

Speaking in the Twin Cities, and with his statements echoed by other agricultural experts, he urged the farmers to continue to weed out all nonproductive and poorly productioned cattle from their herds to conserve feed for this winter.

The northwest hay crop, he declared, will be but 20 per cent of normal, despite the fact that with recent rains the meadows will again become cattle feeding grounds within two weeks.

Declaring that "we have from two to three years to formulate an agricultural plan before advocating higher or lower tarifs," Secretary Wallace predicted an era of unimaginable prosperity if "we can determine what way we are going, and then carry it out."

Speaking at a breakfast in his honor at the Minneapolis club which was attended by more than 100 leading business men of the Twin Cities, Mr. Wallace, showing the rigors of his inspection trip through the drouth area, emphasized the point that the country is "off the hot spot for at least a year."

"The real trouble," Mr. Wallace said, "is our overpopulation of cattle, but a greater trouble will come next winter with a shortage of roughage."

He warned farmers who now are withdrawing their offers of sale of animals to the government that they face the necessity next fall and winter, when forage becomes scarce, of having then to ship even more animals to market.

Ex-N. U. Football Player Is Ordered to Support Son

Felix [Lefty] Leach, former Northwestern university football player, was ordered yesterday by Judge Rudolph Desort to pay $10 a week temporary allmony to his wife, Louise, for the support of their son John, 1 year old. Mrs. Leach, daughter of a wealthy commission merchant, has a divorce bill pending in which she charges cruelty. Her attorney told the court she was in California, recuperating from injuries she says she received when her husband struck her. Leach, who appeared in court wearing a purple sweater with a white "N," denied the charges.

JOHNSON LEVIES $146,496 BUDGET ON NEWSPAPERS

Represents Cost of Press Code for 1934.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, has approved a budget for the administration of the daily newspaper publishing code which will levy approximately $146,496 upon the daily and Sunday newspapers of the country during 1934.

The assessment carries a base charge of $15 per newspaper and an additional assessment of $3 per thousand circulation. Sunday papers are assessed separately on the basis of one-seventh of their circulation, without the base charge. Since the average circulation of the 1,895 morning and evening newspapers of the country is only about 19,000, the average assessment will be around $72, leaving the metropolitan papers with hundreds of thousands of circulation to carry the burden of the code costs.

Doubles Association Costs.

The code assessments for the larger dailies are approximately equal to their membership dues to the American Newspaper Publishers' association, which is tantamount to doubling their association costs.

The figure of $146,496 for the daily and Sunday papers is obtained as follows: The total circulation of 372 morning and 1,523 evening newspapers is 35,835,550, which, at $3 per thousand, would be $107,505, plus a total base charge of $28,425. The total circulation of the country's 507 Sunday papers is 24,653,576, which, divided by 7, leaves 3,522 thousand to be assessed at $3 each, or $10,566. The figures on circulation are obtained from Standard Rate and Data Service for May, 1934.

Members of the daily newspaper code authority adopted a tentative budget for 1934 of $100,000, but their resolution recognized that "contingencies may arise to require additional assessments." The method of apportioning the assessment, as approved by Gen. Johnson, was devised by the code authority.

Maintain New York Office.

The expenses of administrating the newspaper code include maintenance of an office in New York, the salaries of a manger, a field representative and two clerical assistants, the expenses of the newspaper industrial board, which has jurisdiction over labor disputes, employment of counsel, incidentals and traveling expenses of the 10 code authority members who come from all parts of the country for frequent meetings.

Gen. Johnson's order provides for adjustment by the code authority in case hardship is worked on small papers with morning and evening editions. The maximum assessment for any one newspaper is $3,000 a year, but a daily would have to have a circulation of a million to be affected by this limitation.

TWO NRA CODE GROUPS CLASH ON CHICAGO CASE

NRA code authorities in Chicago and Providence, R. I., clashed yesterday over the manufacture of a tie clip. The Providence authorities of the design bureau for medium and low priced jewelry manufacturers—an NRA group—were told that they had no power to control a Chicago jewelry craftsman whose work they had ordered halted.

The Crest Specialty company, 629 West Washington boulevard, has been manufacturing a tie clip. Yesterday B. B. Manaster, president of the company, received first a letter, then a telegram, from the Providence authority charging that the tie clip design was a copy of a similar clip manufactured by an Attleboro, Mass., concern.

In the telegram Manaster was ordered to halt all his work on the clip. He consulted his attorney, Charles Cannon, and then took the matter before the Chicago code compliance group at 400 North Michigan avenue. There he was told to disregard the communication from Providence and to appeal the matter to the national jewelry code group in Washington.

ORDER CLOSING ANOTHER DAIRY IN EFFECT TODAY

With the revocation of the license of the I. L. Lantz dairy at Plainfield, Ill., effective today, Agricultural Adjustment administration representatives announced yesterday that inspectors would visit the dairy to see if the owner continues in business in defiance of their order. If the dairy operates without a license the owner is subject to a maximum fine of $1,000 a day. The Lantz dairy was ordered closed after a hearing at which the owner was charged with violation of the milk code.

CHICAGO RIVER DREDGING PASSED BY WAR BUREAU

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—An allotment of $55,000 from war department rivers and harbors funds for "urgent maintenance dredging" in the Chicago river was approved today by Acting Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring.

The money will be used, it was announced, to restore the channel in the Chicago river to a depth of 21 feet.

He was elected head of the national association last Thursday at a convention in Washington, D. C.

President's Message to Congress on Problems of Security

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's message to congress on the problems of human security follows:

"You are completing a work begun in March, 1933, which will be regarded for a long time as a splendid justification of the vitality of representative government. I greet you and express once more my appreciation of the cooperation which has proved so effective.

"Only a small number of the items of our program remain to be enacted, and I am confident that you will pass on them before adjournment. Many other pending measures are sound in conception, but must, for lack of time or of adequate information, be deferred to the session of the next congress. In the meantime, we can well seek to adjust many of these measures into certain larger plans of government policy for the future of the nation.

Looks Forward with Confidence.

"You and I, as the responsible directors of these policies and actions, may, with good reason, look to the future with confidence, just as we may look to the past fifteen months with reasonable satisfaction.

"On the side of relief we have extended material aid to millions of our fellow citizens.

"On the side of recovery we have helped to lift agriculture and industry from a condition of utter prostration.

"But, in addition to these immediate tasks of relief and recovery we have properly, necessarily and with overwhelming approval determined to safeguard these tasks by rebuilding many of the structures of our economic life and of reorganizing it in order to prevent a recurrence of collapse.

Reconstruction Comes First.

"It is childish to speak of recovery first and reconstruction afterward. In the very nature of the processes of recovery we must avoid the destructive influences of the past. We have shown the world that democracy has within it the elements necessary to its own salvation.

"Less hopeful countries where the ways of democracy are very new may revert to the autocracy of yesterday. The American people can be trusted to decide wisely upon the measures to be taken by the government to eliminate the abuses of the past and to proceed in the direction of the greater good for the greater number.

"Our task of reconstruction does not require the creation of new and strange values. It is rather the finding of the way once more to known, but to some degree forgotten, ideals and values. If the means and details are in some instances new, the objectives are as permanent as human nature.

Security First Objective.

"Among our objectives I place the security of the men, women and children of the nation first.

"This security for the individual and for the family concerns itself primarily with three factors. People want decent homes to live in; they want to locate them where they can engage in productive work; and they want some safeguard against misfortunes which cannot be wholly eliminated in this man made world of ours.

"In a simple and primitive civilization homes were to be had for the building. The bounties of nature in a new land provided crude but adequate food and shelter. When land failed our ancestors moved on to better land. It was always possible to push back the frontier, but the frontier has now disappeared. Our task involves the making of a better living out of the lands that we have.

Need Interest of Nation.

"So, also, security was attained in the earlier days through the interdependence of members of families upon each other and of the families within a small community upon each other. The complexities of great communities and of organized industry make less real these simple means of security. Therefore, we are compelled to employ the active interest of the nation as a whole through government in order to encourage a greater security for each individual who composes it.

"With the full cooperation of the congress we have already made a serious attack upon the problem of housing in our great cities. Millions of dollars have been appropriated for housing projects by federal and local authorities, often with the generous assistance of private owners. The task thus begun must be pursued for many years to come. There is ample private money for sound housing projects; and the congress, in a measure now before you, can stimulate the lending of money for the modernization of existing homes and the building of new homes. In pursuing this policy we are working toward the ultimate objective of making it possible for American families to live as Americans should.

Would Readjust Population.

"In regard to the second factor, economic circumstances and the forces of nature themselves dictate the need of constant thought as to the means by which a wise government may help the necessary readjustment of the population. We cannot fail to act when hundreds of thousands of families live where there is no reasonable prospect of a living in the years to come. This is especially a national problem.

"Unlike most of the leading nations of the world, we have so far failed to create a national policy for the development of our land and water resources and for their better use by those people who cannot make a living in their present positions. Only thus can we permanently eliminate many millions of people from the relief rolls on which their names are now found.

"The extent of the usefulness of our great natural inheritance of land and water depends on our mastery of it. We are now so organized that science and invention have given us the means of more extensive and effective attacks upon the problems of nature than ever before. We have learned to utilize water power, to reclaim deserts, to re-create forests, and to redirect the flow of population. Until recently we have proceeded almost at random, making many mistakes.

Examples Are Cited.

"There are many illustrations of the necessity for such planning. Some sections of the northwest and southwest which formerly existed as grazing land, were spread over with a fair crop of grass. On this land the water table lay a dozen or twenty feet below the surface, and newly arrived settlers put this land under the plow. Wheat was grown by dry farming methods.

"But in many of these places today the water table under the land has dropped to fifty or sixty feet below the surface and the top soil in dry season is blown away like driven snow. Falling rain, in the absence of grass roots, filters through the soil, runs off the surface, or is quickly reabsorbed into the atmosphere. Many millions acres of such land must be restored to grass or trees if we are to prevent a new and man-made Sahara.

Areas Change in Character.

"At the other extreme, there are regions originally arid, which have been generously irrigated by human engineering. But in some of these places the hungry soil has not only absorbed the water necessary to produce magnificent crops, but so much more water that the water table has now risen to the point of saturation, thereby threatening the future crops upon which many families depend.

"Human knowledge is great enough today to give us assurance of success in carrying through the abandonment of many millions of acres for agricultural use and the replacing of these acres with others on which at least a living can be earned.

"The rate of speed that we can usefully employ in this attack on impossible social and economic conditions must be determined by business-like procedure. It would be absurd to undertake too many projects at once or to do a patch of work here and another there without finishing the whole of an individual project. Obviously, the government cannot undertake national projects in every one of the 435 congressional districts, nor even in every one of the 48 states.

Strikes at Pork Barrel.

"The magnificent conception of national realism and national needs that this congress has built up has not only set an example of large vision for all time, but has almost consigned to oblivion our ancient habit of pork barrel legislation; to that we cannot and must not revert. When the next congress convenes I hope to be able to present to it a carefully considered national plan, covering the development and the human use of our national resources of land and water over a longer period of years.

"In considering the cost of such a program it must be clear to all of us that for many years to come we shall be engaged in the task of rehabilitating many hundreds of thousands of our American families. In so doing we shall be decreasing future costs for the direct relief of destitution. I hope that it will be possible for the government to adopt as a clear policy to be carried out over a long period the appropriation of a large, definite, annual sum so that work may proceed year after year, not under the urge of temporary expediency, but in pursuance of the well considered rounded objective.

Security Against Hazards.

"The third factor relates to security against the hazards and vicissitudes of life. Fear and worry based on unknown danger contribute to social unrest and economic demoralization. If, as our constitution tells us, our federal government was established among other things "to promote the general welfare" it is our plain duty to provide for that security upon which welfare depends.

"Next winter we may well undertake the great task of furthering the security of the citizen and his family through social insurance.

"This is not an untried experiment. Lessons of experience are available from states, from industries and from many nations of the civilized world. The various types of social insurance are inter-related; and I think it is difficult to attempt to solve them piecemeal. Hence, I am looking for a sound means which I can recommend to provide at once security against several of the great disturbing factors in life—especially those which relate to unemployment and old age.

For U. S.-State Coöperation.

"I believe there should be a maximum of coöperation between states and the federal government. I believe that the funds necessary to provide this insurance should be raised by contribution rather than by an increase in general taxation. Above all, I am convinced that social insurance should be national in scope, although the several states should meet at least a large portion of the cost of management, leaving to the federal government the responsibility of investing, maintaining and safeguarding the funds constituting the necessary insurance reserves.

"I have commenced to make, with the greatest care, the necessary actuarial and other studies for the formulation of plans for the consideration of the 74th congress.

"These three great objectives—the security of the home, the security of livelihood, and the security of social insurance are, it seems to me, a minimum of the promise that we can offer to the American people. They constitute a right which belongs to every individual and every family willing to work. They are the essential fulfillment of measures already taken toward relief, recovery, and reconstruction.

Return to Old Values.

"This seeking for a greater measure of welfare and happiness does not indicate a change in values. It is rather a return to values lost in the course of our economic development and expansion.

"Ample scope is left for the exercise of private initiative. In fact, in the process of recovery I am greatly hoping that repeated promises that private investment and private initiative to relieve the government in the immediate future of much of the burden it has assumed will be fulfilled. We have not imposed undue restrictions upon business. We have not opposed the incentive of reasonable and legitimate private profit. We have sought rather to enable certain aspects of business to regain the confidence of the public. We have sought to put forward the rule of fair play in finance and industry.

"It is true that there are a few among us who would still go back. These few offer no substitute for the gains already made, nor any hope for making future gains for human happiness. They loudly assert that individual liberty is being restricted by government, but when they are asked what individual liberties they have lost, they are put to it to answer.

Points Way of Congress.

"We must dedicate ourselves anew to a recovery of the old and sacred possessive rights for which mankind has constantly struggled—homes, livelihood, and individual security. The road to these values is the way of progress. Neither you nor I will rest content until we have done our utmost to move further on that road."

HUGH JOHNSON ASSAILS G. O. P. SOCIAL PROGRAM

Addresses Garment Union by Long Distance Phone.

About 1,500 delegates to the convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union gathered in the Cameo room of the Morrison hotel last night and listened to a telephone speech by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson from Washington, in which the national recovery administrator declared the newly announced social program of the Republican party was "a kippered herring in a dark can."

On the platform with David Dubinsky, president of the union, were Mayor Kelly, Federal Judge William H. Holly, Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, and Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court. Mayor Kelly had just finished a speech expressing pleasure that the convention had come to Chicago when Gen. Johnson started speaking in Washington. The general had intended to come here and deliver his message in person, but was detained by the steel industry negotiations for peace and by bad weather.

Generally speaking, his plea was for a sane unionism in which the leaders would not make spectacular and unwaranted demands, which would, in the end, be against the practical interests of their followers. After denying that in his settling of labor disputes his organization had leaned toward the managements, Gen. Johnson said that both labor and management had made unwaranted demands on many occasions.

Rebuke for Labor Chiefs.

Labor organizers, he declared, had "unconscionably oversold" the meaning of the NRA section 7A, while employers had often forced their workers into company unions which gave all of labor's rights to the employing company. He held that it was most important a means should be found to determine accurately and without bias what particular unions should represent workers in any industry. He added that the right to strike should remain inviolate when questions at issue could not be settled satisfactorily otherwise.

Speaking of the program outlined this week by the Republican national committee, Gen. Johnson declared:

"They got out what they call a social program. They are going to produce all the New Deal results—but not with New Deal methods. They say those methods interfere with the rights of property.

Calls Them Pirates.

"These pirates are not only going to have a social program but they have reached way back into the dark ages of the old deal and pulled out Mr. [Henry P.] Fletcher to head it up. In other words, they are going to Fletcherize their social program—you know, just the way Mr. Hoover taught us to do in the war."

There was applause for parts of the general's speech, but officials of the union said later that this did not mean the ideas were approved in their entirety.

CAB DRIVER BACK AFTER 333 MILE 'KIDNAP' JAUNT

Tired, still pretty nervous, and minus whatever the fare is for hauling a passenger 333 miles, George Holle, 28 years old, of 1236 Circle avenue, Forest Park, was back in that suburb yesterday, ready to continue his work for the Forest Cab company.

The eccentric passenger, who forced Holle to drive him from Forest Park to Melrose Park, Chicago, Gary, Harmond, Elkhart, and finally to Fort Wayne, Ind., is under arrest in the latter city. He is Harry Quick, 46 years old, of Indianapolis, said by police to have served sentences in Michigan City penitentiary.

Holle explained that he had picked up Quick in front of a saloon at Dunlop avenue and Roosevelt road in Forest Park early Thursday morning. He willingly drove him to other saloons in Melrose Park and Chicago, but when he was ordered to go from there to Gary, he became suspicious about whether he would get paid.

Quick, however held his hand in his pocket, as though he had a gun, and forced him to go on. The ride was punctuated by stops for drinks, and finally ended in Fort Wayne, when the cab ran out of gasoline, and the passenger went to sleep in a park.

Nursing School, College Diplomas Awarded.

The need of "a new birth of character" was laid before graduating students of the colleges of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy of the University of Illinois, and the Illinois School of Nursing at their annual commencement exercises yesterday in the Civic Opera house. The speaker was Dr. Arthur Hill Daniels, acting president of the university. He introduced Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, president elect, who will take office July 1.

"In our search for remedies for existing evils we cannot lay too much stress on the need of a new birth of character," Dr. Daniels declared. "Character is what enables us to say of a man that he is upright, honest, and a man of integrity. This is what we mean by a sense of honor, the sense of what we owe to ourselves, to our profession, to society."

404 Are Graduated.

Knowledge is no less a power than material wealth, and skill and special training in any field may be abused, Dr. Daniels told the graduates. The only security is to be found in the character of the men possessing such knowledge, he said.

There were 404 graduates from the Chicago departments of the university and 31 from the nursing school, which trains students from the University, Henrotin, and West Side hospitals.

At Urbana hundreds of University of Illinois graduates took possession of the campus yesterday for the annual alumni reunion preceding the graduating exercises on Monday, when some 2,100 students will receive degrees. Today the annual meeting of the alumni association will be held.

The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart will deliver the baccalaureate address tomorrow and the sixty-third annual commencement will be Monday morning, with Acting President Daniels conferring the degrees.

U. OF C. EXERCISES

The religious service of the 176th convocation of the University of Chicago will be held tomorrow morning at the university chapel. Whitney Gilkey, dean of the chapel, will deliver the sermon.

The prayer and religious services will be followed Tuesday by the awarding of degrees and certificates to 934 students in the chapel. Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the university, will preside at two separate ceremonies at 11 o'clock in the morning and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At the morning session 388 advanced and professional degrees will be awarded, and in the afternoon 546 baccalaureate degrees.

The number of graduates is the largest for any single commencement day in the university's history, and brings to 1,878 the total number of awards for the academic year. There were 944 diplomas awarded at the August, December, and March convocations. A dozen or more undergraduate students who entered the university in the autumn of 1931 as freshmen under the new plan of education are expected to receive bachelors' degrees after three years of study. The plan enabled them to take comprehensive examinations in a subject whenever they felt they were prepared.

Alumni week at the university will reach its climax today when several thousand graduates will return for the day. Various professional groups, however, will have their special reunion meetings next Tuesday.

Ten thousand or more spectators are expected to attend the university sing, in Hutchinson court at 8 o'clock tonight.

N. U. COMMENCEMENT

Pre-graduation festivities will occupy all of the week before the college careers of 1,350 Northwestern university seniors terminate at the 76th annual commencement Saturday afternoon, June 16. Dyche stadium will be open to the public for the occasion.

The activities will start Tuesday with homecoming clinics in the dental school and a dinner dance in the evening at the Hotel Knickerbocker for alumni and seniors. On Wednesday the law school will conduct its annual alumni homecoming celebration and senior class day ceremonies. The schools of medicine, journalism, and music will hold class reunions and graduation dinners on Thursday.

Friday evening, following the general alumni association dinner at the North Shore hotel, the baccalaureate service will be held at 7:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church. Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Chicago area of the Methodist church will deliver the address.

Illumination Night Events.

After the services alumni, faculty, and students will proceed to the campus for the annual illumination night events. The program will include the induction of seniors into the ranks of the alumni and the presentation of the alumni medal to a distinguished alumnus. The cap and gown dance at the gymnasium will be the final event on the program.

Saturday's long list of activities will start with the annual Phi Beta Kappa meeting at 9 o'clock in Harris hall. At 12:30 p. m. the old graduates, back for their annual reunion, will parade to the north campus on the lake front where luncheon will be served.

The commencement exercises will begin at 5:30 o'clock with a procession of faculty and seniors in academic robes. Following an address on "Brains in Government" by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, President Walter Dill Scott will award several honorary degrees and will then present degrees to the graduating seniors.

DE PAUL GRADUATION

Commencement exercises for graduates of De Paul university will begin tomorrow at 11 o'clock with a pontifical mass at St. Vincent's church. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached following the mass by the Very Rev. Msgr. Phillip F. Mahoney Ph.D., D.D., rector of Quigley Preparatory seminary.

The college of music of the university will present a commencement concert at 8:30 o'clock Monday evening at the Court of States in the World's Fair grounds. Degrees will be conferred on graduates of the colleges of music, liberal arts, law, and commerce Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 in the school auditorium. The Very Rev. Francis V. Corcoran, C. M., president of the university, will preside.

Graduation exercises for students of De Paul academy and the downtown high school will be held Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the auditorium. The Very Rev. F. X. McCabe, C. M., LL. D., will deliver the address.

Chicago Latin School.

Thirteen students of the Chicago Latin School for Boys were graduated yesterday. The Rev. Dudley Stark of St. Chrysostom's church gave the invocation at the school, 1531 North Dearborn street. The commencement address was given by Dean Chauncey Boucher of the University of Chicago. Concluding the program, a memorial tablet to Nora Brewer Cudahy, presented by her husband, Edward I. Cudahy, was unveiled.

VALEDICTORIAN

Mildred Ruth Chapin, Sullivan, Ill., who will deliver valedictory address today at the University of Illinois.

Found Guilty of Harboring Dillinger Gang.

The probation of Jean Delaney Crompton, 21 years old, sweetheart of Tommy Carroll, Dillinger gangster who was shot to death Thursday by Waterloo, Ia., police, was revoked yesterday by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone of Madison, Wis., who has been hearing cases in the District court of Chicago.

Late last night Probation Officer William McGrath of Chicago arrived in Waterloo and formally placed Jean under federal custody. He will start back with her for Chicago probably today or tomorrow.

Crompton, who is master of ceremonies at the By-Lin tavern, 3837 Lincoln avenue, said last night that they were married in the Subway café at 507 North Wabash avenue on May 5, 1932. At that time Crompton was a singing waiter in the café and Jean was also employed there.

Goes to St. Paul.

"We lived together until seven months ago," Crompton asserted, "when she decided she wanted to go to St. Paul and live with her mother. She was here in Chicago in the last two weeks and wanted to come back to me, but I declined."

Both Jean and Carroll were in the Little Bohemia roadhouse in northern Wisconsin when the Dillinger gang shot its way out of a trap on April 22, according to federal agents. The girl was left behind and was charged with harboring Dillinger and members of his gang.

She was sentenced in federal court in Madison to a year and a day in a reformatory at Aderson, W. Va., but the sentence was suspended and she was admitted to probation. One of the provisions was that she was not to leave Chicago without the permission of the probation officer.

Jean at first maintained that she was Carroll's wife, but later admitted they "weren't really married," although she wore a ring the slain gangster had given her. The Waterloo police allowed her to view Carroll's body at the morgue and she stayed there about two minutes. She sobbed when she looked at the body, but made no other demonstration.

Carroll's Wife in St. Paul.

Carroll's real wife is said to be Mrs. Viola Carroll of St. Paul, and, acting on instructions from her, authorities were making plans to send the body to that city for burial.

Although the bullets of the Waterloo police rid the country of another of Dillinger's gang, they also sealed the lips that might have given valuable information concerning the whereabouts of the desperado himself.

Carroll was questioned briefly by O. H. Dewey, a federal agent, before he died, but Dewey indicated after the interview that he had learned nothing important about Dillinger. It was learned that the license plates on the car used by Carroll had been stolen in St. Louis on May 8.

Meanwhile vigilante groups joined with federal, state, and local authorities in a search for another man and a woman who were said to have been around Waterloo with Carroll and the Crompton girl. Jean aided the police in locating a tourist camp five miles east of Cedar Rapids on federal highway 30, where she and Carroll had stayed. Operators of the camp said that no other couple was with them.

COURTNEY SUITS BRING INCREASE IN TAX COLLECTIONS

A vast increase in the amount of real estate and personal property taxes collected through suits instituted by the state's attorney's office, was indicated in a report made to State's Attorney Courtney yesterday by his auditor, Gerald J. Koerner.

During May, the report shows, a total of $229,164 was collected in personal property taxes, and $1,028,964 in real estate taxes, making a total of $1,258,129.

The report compared the amount of personal property taxes collected during that time with the $9,103 in such taxes collected in May of 1932 under a former administration.

The report also showed that from December, 1933, to June 1, 1934, $1,452,814 in personal property taxes had been collected through law suits, and $6,136,879 in real estate taxes, or a total of $7,589,694.81.

Mr. Courtney expressed himself as "highly elated" over the increasing payment of taxes, and added that this is why city and county employés are beginning to get some back salary.

18 New Paralysis Cases Reported in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., June 8.—(AP)—The total of infantile paralysis cases in Los Angeles county since the epidemic broke out last month was raised today to 565. Eighteen new cases were reported in the city today and seven in the county.

DILLINGER'S KIN GET PROPOSALS THAT HE GIVE UP

Father Says Offer Was by U. S. Agent.

Mooresville, Ind., June 8.—[Special.]—Proposals, represented as coming from the United States department of justice, for surrender of John Dillinger, who has evaded capture three months, are being made to relatives of the outlaw here.

John W. Dillinger, elderly father of the fugitive, who lives on his farm near Mooresville, and Mrs. Emmett Hancock, a half sister, who lives in Maywood, Indianapolis suburb, have recently been asked to coöperate in a plan by which John Dillinger may voluntarily surrender and his father obtain the various rewards which have been or may be offered for his capture.

Tells of Offer.

"A man representing himself as a federal agent came here to talk to me about it recently," said John W. Dillinger today. "But I couldn't do anything like that without having a chance to talk to John and I don't know how to reach him.

"You remember, after John got out of the jail at Lima, O., last October, he wrote me a letter in which he indicated he was tired of the kind of a life he was leading.

"I don't suppose John is any better satisfied now than he was, and he might be willing to surrender if he knew he would get a square deal."

Wants Reasonable Sentence.

Asked what he thought John would consider to be a "square deal" the father replied:

"It would have to be a reasonable sentence. I know John would not expect to be set free, but I know they would have to be lenient with him. If I could know that he would be sentenced to ten years and then that would be the end of it I could feel like considering the matter.

"If I could influence John to surrender I'd do it, because I think that the best thing for him, but he is entitled to a better deal than he got when he first got into trouble for a robbery here ten years ago.

"I'm not trying to defend John, but I think he might have been a good man today if he had been treated right when he first got into trouble. And I think he is entitled to just treatment now."

The elderly farmer does not place any credence in some pronouncements of the department of justice that John is either dead or wounded severely.

No one in the Hancock family, according to its members, has heard anything definite concerning John Dillinger since April 3, when they met him at the home of John W. Dillinger, where the family had gathered for a Sunday dinner.

CUT OUT 3 WEEK VACATIONS FOR SCHOOL WORKERS

The board of education in a special meeting yesterday revised its rules to reduce the paid vacations of civil service employés with 15 or more years service from three weeks to two weeks. The board order, effective immediately, will affect 500 employés and is expected to save the school system $26,000 annually.

"Other taxing bodies allow two weeks vacations to all employés and there is no reason why the board of education, pursuing an economy program, should allow more," said James B. McCahey, president of the board, after the measure was adopted.

The board also repassed a resolution ordering mandamus proceedings against Robert B. Upham, city controler, to require him to sign a $28,000,000 school bond issue to be used as additional security for a proposed federal loan to pay teachers' back salaries.

Farm Couple Found Slain; Husband Shot, Wife Slugged

Lowell, Mass., June 8.—(AP)—Paul Caouette, 28, and his wife, Alice, 30, were found slain at their farm home tonight. Caouette was shot through the head and his wife apparently was killed by a blow on the head. The man's body was found in a chicken house to which, police said, it apparently had been dragged from his automobile in which they believe he was shot. There were blood marks in the car.

13 DOCTORS MEET IN REUNION OF RUSH CLASS OF '84

Thirteen members of the class of 1884 of Rush Medical college met at dinner in the Palmer House last night and recalled their school days and their 50 years of practice since then. It was one of several class reunions held in the hotel, 40 members of the class of 1894 assembling. About 2,000 alumnæ of the school and the class which will be graduated next Tuesday night will meet tonight in the Palmer House.

Dr. Ernest Mammen of Bloomington, 78 years old, the oldest man present, presided at the meeting of the class members of 1884. Dr. R. A. Peters of Tipton, Ia., 69 years old, was the youngest. The class valedictorian, Dr. D. S. MacArthur, 75 years old, of La Crosse, Wis., read his valedictory address of 50 years ago. Of the original class of 165 only 73 are known to be dead. Virtually all of those attending the reunion still are practicing.

Dr. W. W. Murfin, 71 years old, of Patoka, Ill., said he still traveled by horseback in his territory of 15 square miles when roads were impassable in the winter.

SENATE SIZZLES IN DEBATE OVER TUGWELL ISSUE

never has planted a blade of grass. I am voting as I will vote because of my belief, as I will endeavor to show the senate, that he has not the proper conceptions of the principles of our government.

"Mr. President, on June 1 there appeared an interview in one of the Washington papers in which, discussing certain amendments to the agricultural adjustment act, Dr. Tugwell is quoted verbatim as follows: 'These amendments are necessary to permit us to continue what we have already been doing. If we should get a setback in court we will have to stop doing certain things under present circumstances!'

"Bold Confession."

"Mr. President, this is no more than a bold confession that Dr. Tugwell and others in the agricultural department have deliberately usurped the power of the congress, and now are coming before this body and asking us to validate the illegal acts that have already been performed by them."

Senator Byrd said he wrote a letter to Dr. Tugwell asking him if he had been quoted correctly but had received no reply.

"I know Dr. Tugwell has a brilliant and fertile mind," he continued. "I'm not concerned much about what he may have written years ago because he likes to write and perhaps many of the things he then wrote he himself would not sustain today.

Concerned on Government.

"But I am concerned as to his attitude with respect to the fundamental principles of our government as shown by his official acts when he is a paid employé of this government.

"I am not a student of the constitution, but as a layman my conception of the constitution is that each of its three branches, executive, judicial, and legislative, are independent of the other. Whenever the executive branch attempts to usurp the authority of the legislative branch and whenever the judicial branch accepts dictation or coercion from either of the other branches, then I would say that the end of this representative government, as we now have it, would have begun."

Senator Byrd declared that Dr. Tugwell had misrepresented the facts when he declared that certain pending amendments to the agricultural adjustment act were merely clarifying.

Seek Increased Power.

"As a matter of fact," he asserted, "these amendments enormously increase the power of the secretary of agriculture, and if adopted in their present form will make him the absolute czar and dictator of the farmers of this country. Yet Dr. Tugwell and the secretary of agriculture told the congress, told the people of this country, that these amendments were merely clarifying and did not increase their present authority.

"One of these clarifying amendments, as claimed by the secretary of agriculture and Dr. Tugwell, gives the secretary of agriculture the absolute authority over every grain of wheat, and over every chicken, and over every turkey on any farm that receives a benefit payment from the government. Even though the benefit payment may be only $50, yet the secretary of agriculture can go on that farm, if it is a thousand acres, and tell the farmer exactly what he should raise, down to the chickens and the turkeys and the cows that he may have. Yet they say to us that that is a clarifying amendment.

Hits License Powers.

"Another amendment provides and gives the power to the secretary of agriculture to license a producer—something that never before has been contemplated in any legislation that has been presented to this body—gives the right to the secretary of agriculture to deny a license to a man who processes or distributes the product that he raises on his farm, and processing means preparation for market.

"Members of the senate, the secretary of agriculture says that he does not intend to use this great authority. I submit that whenever authority is given to a department of this government that sooner or later it is used. And we, the people's representatives, should only vote to give authority to a department of the government on the assumption that the authority will be used to the fullest extent.

Scores Injunction Move.

"Another new amendment was submitted instructing the district courts of the United States to invoke the power of injunction, the greatest power that any government can have, when the secretary of agriculture so decreed it, in order that a man may not ship his products in interstate commerce and that right would be taken away from him by the United States District court."

The senator then announced his decision to vote against the discharge of the committee. Dr. Tugwell should be brought before the committee and made to testify, under oath, he asserted.

"I think," Senator Byrd concluded, "Prof Tugwell wants to destroy those things for which I am willing to die to preserve!"

Gore Assails Tugwell.

Immediately, Senator Gore obtained the floor and his indictment of Tugwell was even more devastating.

"I have here," he said, "an alleged address of Dr. Tugwell in which he is reported as saying he thinks the constitution and the statutes of the United States as they now exist should be dispensed with.

"He states that he thinks business as it is now conducted should be brought to an end; says the sovereignty of the states must be destroyed before planned economy can be installed, and that the developments of a hundred years must be reversed and done away with."

Senator Gore said that Tugwell should be interrogated regarding these statements.

"I should like to know," he said calmly, "whether Mr. Tugwell, if confirmed, will take the oath required of him to support and defend the constitution of the United States and in taking the oath will do so with no mental reservation and no purpose of evasion."

Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] asked that the speech referred to be placed in the congressional record.

"It is a very serious charge," he commented.

The speech, delivered before the American Economic association in Washington in December, 1931, was incorporated into the record.

"Lacks Experience."

Senator Smith's disapproval of Tugwell as undersecretary of agriculture was based, he said, on the belief that he had not the necessary practical experience to qualify him for the job.

"I don't believe the job was necessary in the first place," he commented. "It was railroaded through as part of the appropriations bill, and very few senators knew about it. Now a similar attempt is being made to put over Mr. Tugwell's appointment.

"I have nothing personal against the man. But I do insist that an undersecretary of agriculture should be a man of the soil who understands the problems that confront the farmer and which nobody except a practical farmer can understand.

Objects to Experimenting.

"I congratulate Dr. Tugwell on his academic acquirements. He has certain theories that he has voiced in his writings and in his books. I have no objection to his entertaining them to his heart's content, publishing them where he pleases, and holding on to them with the tenacity of a fanatic, but I do object to his trying them out on the farmers.

"I have been criticized for not having the nomination come up for discussion in my committee. I think I did Mr. Tugwell a favor in not calling him in and having him questioned. He might have been embarrassed."

Senator Robinson interrupted with the tart observation that he did not believe it was the province of a committee chairman "to suppress freedom of action on the part of the committee."

"I resent that implication," responded Senator Smith angrily.

Mêlée Ensues.

In the ensuing mêlée sometimes a dozen senators were demanding the floor, and several private verbal encounters were staged. Senator Bennett Clark [Dem., Mo.] asserted that Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] appeared not to have displayed the necessary "intestinal stamina" that would have required insistence that the Tugwell nomination be brought up in the committee. There were other similar remarks being exchanged between the Democrats while the Republicans looked on, chuckling.

"It's an insult to the farmers of the nation to put this man in a position of power over them!" Senator Smith wound up.

ATTORNEY EXPLAINS PROCEDURE OF BAR IN THE MALMIN CASE

F. Howard Eldridge, chairman of the commission which heard the plea for disbarment brought against Attorneys Lucius J. M. Malmin and C. W. Larsen by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, yesterday explained the procedure which the commission will follow in formulating and filing its report.

First, the commissioners, who are members of the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association, will decide whether they will recommend any action to be taken by the Supreme court of Illinois. If such action is recommended a report showing the findings of fact and the conclusions will be drawn up and copies presented to the respondents, who may file objections as they see fit.

The next step, if the commissioners overrule the objections even in part, would be to forward both report and objections to the whole committee on grievances, and these documents, on approval of the whole committee, would be passed on to the Bar association board of manager, to be considered and transmitted to the Supreme court. Neither the report nor the action of the grievance committee and the board of managers would be made public, Mr. Eldridge said, until the filing of the report with the Supreme court.

Some time will elapse before the matter can get to the court, as the parties in the hearing were given fifteen days to write up and file transcripts of the evidence with the commissioners.

The chairman said he was incorrectly quoted as saying on Thursday that the findings of the commissioners would be made public in two weeks and that there would be only slight changes made in their report by the grievance committee and the board of managers. There was no way, he added, to predict the action of the latter two bodies.

LAWYER FIGHTS BAR COMMITTEE FOR RE-ELECTION

Irwin Runs in Opposition to Regular Slate.

Attorney Royal W. Irwin began a fight yesterday for reelection as a member of the board of managers of the Chicago Bar association in opposition to a slate of candidates recommended by the nominating committee of the association. In literature sent out by Attorney Irwin he declares that the association has been controled by a clique and that its policies have brought the bar into disrepute.

Two years ago Attorney Irwin was nominated by petition and was elected, having successfully opposed the choice of the nominating committee. In refusing to recommend Irwin for reelection this year the committee declared it to be the policy of the association that no member of the board of managers should be a candidate for reelection, so that there might be no charge that the board was in any sense a self-perpetuating body.

Nominated by Committee.

Those named by the committee for the board of managers are Joseph E. Fitch, George I. Haight, Albert E. Jenner, George E. Q. Johnson and M. B. Kennedy. Nominated by the committee for other officers are Henry A. Gardner, for president, Herbert M. Lautmann, for vice president, Charles M. Thomson, for second vice president, Irwin T. Gilruth, for secretary, John E. MacLeish, for treasurer, and Willard L. King, for librarian. These candidates are unopposed.

Ballots will be mailed to members of the association and in order to be counted must be received before 1 p. m., June 13.

Assails Bar for Delay.

"The bar association's report on receiverships took at least two years to produce," said Attorney Irwin's campaign circular. "The abuses it condemns went on unchecked. When at last it was given by the board of managers to a waiting world it was found to contain nothing not theretofore published by the newspapers. Its recommendations, having nothing on which to operate, amount now to nothing more effective than pious hopes.

"The abuses which a committee took two years to find have now practically ceased to exist. They were not destroyed by the committee or by the board of managers but they perished when, and only when, the last big bond issue went into default. Instead of leading an aroused public opinion in this matter, where the honor of the bench and bar were so signally involved, the association has ignominiously lagged far behind."

HARRIMAN AGAIN DENIES KNOWING OF FAKE ENTRIES

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—Joseph W. Harriman, former president of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company, said in federal court late today that he would not change his testimony about not knowing of false entries made in the books of the bank "even if God almighty himself said I knew about them."

"You mean you wouldn't take God's word for it," asked Assistant United States Attorney Rosenblum, who for three days has been trying to wring from the witness an admission that he knew of false entries totaling $1,713,080 in the bank's books.

Spectators gasped at the statement, then smiles of sympathy broke out as the face of the witness reflected the strain which had caused his surprising outbreak.

Earlier in the day Harriman testified that Carl C. Francis, national bank examiner, suggested and "fixed up" the transaction whereby he gave his personal note for $544,000 to cover the depreciation in value of collateral securities held by the bank .

Raymond Larson, 23 years old, 1741 North Campbell avenue, was found dead yesterday in a bunk on the 54 foot yacht Devshire on which he was employed as cook and caretaker. The yacht was moored in Belmont harbor. Sergt. Francis Donohue of the coroner's office expressed a belief that Larson had been asphyxiated by gas leaking from tanks on the boat.

Ralph Roullier, pilot of the yacht, was found unconscious aboard the yacht last Monday. He was taken to a hospital and next day was told doctors could find nothing wrong with him. Yesterday he said he believed he had been overcome by gas.

FILE PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY AGAINST DATO

An involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed in the federal District court yesterday against Edward A. Dato, who once did a flourishing real estate business with Edwin D. Krenn, Swiss architect, and the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick as partners.

The petition was filed by Attorney Edward R. Tiedebohl on behalf of Jacob Abelson, with a claim of $27,500; Rose Friedman, claiming $13,750, and Frank Abbink, $5,000. The claims are based on loans to Dato, according to the petition.

Attorney Tiedebohl estimated Dato's liabilities at $700,000 and said his assets were problematical.

DE PAUW BOARD BACKS OXNAM, ADMINISTRATION

Greencastle, Ind., June 8.—[Special.]—The DePauw university board of trustees in annual meeting here today unanimously adopted a resolution supporting Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, president of DePauw, and his administration. This action was taken in face of a critical report published a few days ago by the American Association of University Professors. The resolution read as follows:

"Resolved, That this board of directors expresses its full confidence in the administration of President G. Bromley Oxnam, particularly as the administration relates to the teaching force of the institution. We gladly join the students and faculty in the conviction that our president, in consultation with the proper committees, is conducting the academic side of the university's life in a fair, reasonable, efficient and democratic way."

A rising vote showed the board unanimous on this resolution. Roy O. West of Chicago, president of the board, completed his twentieth year as a member of the board today and was reappointed for his sixth term of four years.

Ex-Greeter Gaw Sued for Nonpayment of Judgment

George D. Gaw, former city greeter, was named yesterday in a suit filed in Superior court by Henry S. Berry seeking the collection of a $3,401 judgment against Gaw in the Municipal court. The suit asks a receiver be appointed to liquidate the property belonging to Gaw in order to satisfy the judgment. Gaw recently was unsuccessful in collecting money from the city for his services as city greeter.

The two baby rabbits, rescued and adopted by Sandy, a Springer spaniel, and her master, Philip McDonald, 14 years old, of Bonnie Brook lane, Waukegan, continued to thrive in their new home yesterday on a diet of milk fed to them by Philip with an eyedropper. And Philip, incidentally, is the only one whom Sandy will trust to touch her "foster children." Sandy found the rabbits in the woods near home Thursday, brought one back and led Philip to the other.

Robert Graves Has Claudius Tell of Rome

His Autobiography Device Is Amusing.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"I, Claudius," by Robert Graves [Smith & Haas]. Published on Monday.

ROBERT GRAVES, whose "Goodbye to All That" was one of the novels about the great war which future historians will consult as a source book of the emotional reactions to one of the most spectacular events of all time, has become fictional historian of another period, which, if it left less casualties of dead and wounded in its wake, surpassed even the period of the great war in the celebration of man's folly, cruelty and abandon in the achieving of political ambition.

Rome in the days of August, Tiberius and Caligula—an arithmetical progression of human depravity in its passion for power.

Mr. Graves offers to the world that much discussed autobiography which history knows was written by Cladius but which has never been unearthed in its actuality. The device is an amusing and clever one which allows the author all of the prerogatives of fiction without removing from his pen the odor of history.

That Mr. Graves has interpreted the known facts as he chooses is one of the things that makes "I, Claudius" a fascinating novel. The bones of the book are replicas of the skeletons in the famous Roman closets, which may be viewed in archives and assorted biographical encyclopedias. The flesh which adorns them is synthetic, with Mr. Graves as the literary god who breathes life into the strange combination.

Claudius, the cripple, the stammerer, supposedly simple witted, was by his very lack of normal mien and behavior spared the fate of the more vigorous members of his generation in the empire and, little feared, allowed to watch the cruel circus of political greed.

From the vantage point of a disregarded member of the family he tells the inside story of three of Rome's most dramatic and incredible periods.

Through the sharp eyes of his hero Robert Graves sights man's age old foibles with a satirical accuracy which makes "I, Claudius" seem as contemporary as the latest war scare.

With a delicate skill Mr. Graves leads his readers up to the depravities of the day, and then does a literary fan dance. Never once is there an actual scene to bring a blush to an innocent grandmother, but the mind is quicker than the eye.

There is wholesale poisoning, political slaughtering, suicide and a good deal of official adultery [it was a convenient way of disposing of inconvenient enemies to exile them for adultery], but Mr. Graves makes Claudius look upon everything with a philosophical and satirically amused eye, and he ends the narrative with Claudius' ironic exaltation to the emperorship.

After a lifetime of watching the satire of government, after the most intimate knowledge of its dangers, after declaring that he'll kill himself sooner than be emperor, Claudius the historian offers himself the consolation of having the opportunity, as emperor, "for consulting the secret archives and finding out just what happened on this occasion or on that." . . . "What a miraculous fate for a historian," he declares, and adds, "And as you will have seen, I took full advantage of my opportunities."

Ingenious, "I, Claudius."

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

Alice Campbell has a way of writing engagingly stories of perfectly dreadful crimes and in "Desire to Kill" [Farrar & Rinehart] she surpasses herself. The scene is laid in Paris among those rather useless people who seek amusement so persistently that almost nothing turns out to be amusing. The particular group concerned caps its pursuit of pleasure with a first class murder which leads on to other and no less mysterious deaths. The nicest people involved fall under the deepest suspicion and the Paris police do their best to ensnare a charming girl who is, herself, not too sure of her innocence.

It is all pretty involved and if it weren't for a youngish, intelligent and sufficiently noble journalist goodness only knows what might have happened. He is beset with suspicions that will also creep into your mind about the middle of the book and faces death and all sorts of things to save the girl and confound the somewhat incredible villain. You will be interested right to the end and the setting and detail of the story add to its general readableness.

But, my goodness, when it comes to ground and lofty murder turn to "Death on the Diamond" [Stokes] by Cortland Fitzsimmons. Therein they shoot 'em, hang 'em, poison 'em and gas 'em. They also kidnap, take for rides and do quite a bit of beating up, all under the most unfavorable circumstances. So if you like that kind of story you'll be simply delighted and if you like baseball your pleasure will be even more intense, for the whole book is concerned solely with that cryptic and soul-stirring sport. If all those heroes of the diamond that we read about and hear about on the radio these summer days are like the various famous nines who face the music in its pages, baseball is a noble sport indeed. As a mystery story it's good and as a baseball story I'm inclined to think it's better.

Baring Writes a Short Novel for a Friend

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.] — Some time ago Hugh Walpole expressed surprise that the work of Maurice Baring was not more generally known to the publics of America and England. Some of it, he admitted, was familiar, but as a whole it was less read and appreciated than that of lesser men. Possibly one explanation of this fact is to be found in the fact that it has been extraordinarily experimental.

Mr. Baring is a man of unusually diverse interests. He has also been very prolific. And whatever he has written has taken no heed of expectations formed by readers of the last book or the last but one.

He has made what he calls "Diminutive Dramas" from all sorts of subjects [one of them, a rehersal of "Macbeth" in the Elizabethan theater, the Globe, with Shakespeare called upon by Burbage to give him a twenty-line soliloquy in couplets for purely personal reasons, has just been given upon the British radio] and he has made some of the longest novels of modern times, without consultation with the public taste of the moment.

Now he has written an exceedingly short novel, in obedience to the wish of a friend who thought all novels too long. It is called "A Full Dew," and it has been written and revised with such care that if a variorum edition of all its texts could be prepared it would be among the most illuminating revelations of the novelist's craft imaginable.

But the final text is brief, and so highly concentrated that many careless folk will ignore the art which has gone to its making. For connoisseurs, on the other hand, the book may well prove highly instructive as well as a delightful treat. The publisher will be Heinemann.

By the way, I mentioned several weeks ago that a new and important work of fiction dealing with flying in the great war would be published here by Cape under the title "A Test to Destruction." The author, V. M. Yeates, writes to me to say that the title of this book has been changed to "Winged Victory," and that the American publisher will be Harrison Smith.

It is good news that Evelyn Waugh has a new novel in the summer lists. It is called "A Handful of Dust" [Chapman & Hall]. I did not read Mr. Waugh's last book of travel, but I gathered that he does not really enjoy traveling [that might have been inferred from "Remote People." In which book accounts were given with great candor of several unfortunate incidents provoked by Mr. Waugh's evident intransigence] and that he is much too fastidious to relish the horrors of uncivilized or tropical climates.

It is to be noted that one has a similar impression from the new travel book by Aldous Huxley, "Beyond the Mexique Bay" [Chatto & Windus]; but Mr. Huxley is a discursive philosopher with a wide range of thought and knowledge, and even when he is disgusted he has something to say about the disgusting element which is new and stimulating, and this prevents the reader from feeling disgust in his turn.

Writes Bitter Attack on Race Conditions in Africa

R. Hernekin Baptist, a South African writer of distinction, author of "Four Handsome Negresses," has written a sequel to that book laid five centuries later. "Wild Deer" [John Day] is the story of a famous American Negro who goes to Africa to find in the land of his forefathers a spiritual freedom he found lacking in this country. The book is a bitter arraignment of South Africa race conditions and contains much of interest, but it is too overloaded with facts and statistics to make it a successful novel.

From time to time we have had some big-selling books, but in over eighty years of publishing experience we have never had a book quite like ESCAPE FROM THE SOVIETS.

How should we know that in a depression year 25,000 people in New York City alone would apparently want to read this particular book during the first week of publication?

Critics say that this is one of the most remarkable books ever published. We know it is the most remarkable book we have ever published.

Study Civilization of Escaped Slaves in Dutch Guiana

Two Evanstonians, Melville J. and Frances Herskovits, students of primitive civilizations specializing in the Negro, have turned to that strange back country bit of transplanted Africa of the slave era found in the heart of Dutch Guiana, South America, for their new book, "Rebel Destiny" [Whittlesey house].

They have written a vivid, human and entertaining study of a strange civilization founded by runaway slaves imported by the Dutch from Africa in the seventeenth century. These Bush Negroes have maintained their ancient African manner of living and thinking. Neither the civilization of the white man nor the neighboring Indians has affected them. For this reason they are of importance to the student of Negro cultures.

"It has seemed more important to stress the Bush Negro's attitudes toward his own civilization and his own logic in explaining his customs than to give a more conventional description of an integrated village or the tribal life of a primitive people," the authors point out. They add that their book is not an ethnographic treatise; the scientific discussions of these data are to appear in other form.

"Rebel Destiny" is the picturing of a strange people as human beings, not museum specimens. It tells of them and their life with sympathy, understanding and charm. It is well illustrated and has picturesque end paper maps.

DISARM PARLEY APPROVES U. S. PEACE FORMULA

Hitler and Mussolini Will Meet Next Week.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, June 8.—Satisfied that the steady march of European affairs from bad to worse has been halted for the first time since Germany walked out of Geneva on Oct. 14, 1933, but not very sure about what comes next, the disarmament conference today heaved a long sigh and began to think of packing its bags for the summer.

The conference adopted the Anglo-French compromise resolution reached yesterday through the efforts of Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, which paves the way for the return of Germany. On Monday the general commission will meet again to name the three committees proposed in the Franco-British resolution—those on security, air forces, and trafic in armaments. It is expected they will do little more than organize their agendas and adjourn for the summer after a couple of weeks, unless a new session of the general commission is rendered advisable by some very good or very bad development in the situation.

Hitler to Meet Mussolini.

Attention will then shift to the diplomatic negotiations on which the future of the conference and European peace will depend. On one hand there will be negotiations to bring Germany back into the Geneva fold. The first move in this direction will be made next week when Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler meet in Venice.

If Mussolini is unable to persuade his brother dictator on the advisability of accepting the invitation from the conference to come back without questions asked, other powers will renew the attempt through diplomatic channels.

Simultaneously and intimately connected with these negotiations, the French and Russians will pursue their security plans. The groundwork has been laid for a set of mutual assistance pacts—an eastern one and a Mediterranean one—through which the French and Russians hope to stabilize Europe for another decade or more. Everything depends on whether Italy and Germany will agree to enter into the system and, in case they do not, whether France will give up the idea or pursue the policy of encircling Germany.

French Cabinet Divided.

Many foreign observers here suspect the French government is divided on the Russian alliance and might give up the mutual assistance pacts—at least in any really effective form—if it sees the possibility of a direct rapproachement with Germany. Negotiations for the entrance of Germany into the security pacts are going on between the Wilhelmstrasse and the French embassy in Berlin. Even more importance is attached to a report that the French steel trust is near an economic entente with German interests in the Saar.

Foreign Minister Louis Barthou, in his speech today, expressed France's desire for peace, as indicated by its acceptance of the compromise resolution. He hailed the French reconciliation with Great Britain and threw flowers at Davis for his work in bringing the two countries together. Speaking of Germany in a conciliatory vein, he said: "France has no intention of encircling Germany by security pacts."

The speech of Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, was less lyrical, but reflected the same spirit of general conciliation. It was notable chiefly for the closing reminder that his government had not altered its severe judgment of Germany's action in quitting the conference last fall.

Davis spoke very briefly, expressing satisfaction with the Franco-British reconciliation and modestly voicing gratitude for the appreciation of his efforts to this end.

Belgian King Asks Count to Become Premier Again

BRUSSELS, June 8.—(AP)—King Leopold today requested Count Charles de Broqueville, who, with his cabinet, resigned June 6, to become premier again and organize another government. The king's designation of Count de Broqueville followed conferences by his majesty with the speaker of both houses of parliament and representative members of the Catholic, Liberal, and Socialist parties.

FRANCE TAKES STEP TO REVIVE MILITARY ALLIANCE WITH POLES

PARIS, June 8.—(AP)—Plans to revive the military alliance between Poland and France as another step to surround Germany were being made today.

Maj. Gen. Eugene Debeney, former chief of the general staf of the French army, will go to Warsaw soon with a big staf of experts, it was announced.

Gen. Debeney is expected to restore close coöperation between France and Poland. An understanding was effected after the war, but lately there has been a tendency for the nations to drift apart.

RUSSIA TO SHOOT 6 MEN FOR GRAFT; 23 GO TO PRISON

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, June 8.—Six more men holding prominent places in soviet industry will face the firing squad in the next few days because of the government's determination to stamp out graft.

These six men were the most grievous offenders among twenty-nine who have just been convicted after a ten day trial at Kiev. Their property is to be confiscated. The other 23 were given prison terms.

The doomed men, whose peculations and other irregularities were discovered recently by the G. P. U., soviet secret police, including directors of the city management committee at Kiev and executives of various factories in that district.

The charges against them were giving and taking bribes, systematic pilfering of state property, filching and selling of manufactured goods; speculating in foreign money on the "black bourse," a very serious offense in the soviet union, and "violation of socialist discipline."

JURY IN PARISH HOUSE ROBBERY CASE LOCKED UP

A Criminal court jury deliberating the fate of three youths charged with a robbery in a parish house was deadlocked late last night after more than six hours of deliberation, and was ordered locked up for the night by Judge Michael Feinberg. It was reported the jury stood 8 to 4 for conviction.

The defendants are Anthony Mucerino, Albert Ferrari and Joseph Rocco. A fourth defendant, James Arido, who had been on trial, was freed at the last minute when the prosecutor nolle prossed the case against him. Arido had presented an alibi.

Mucerino, Ferrari and Rocco are charged with invading the parish house of St. Columbanus Roman Catholic church, 331 East 71st street, last Oct. 29, and robbing Mrs. Clara Noonan Esping, 7430 South Michigan avenue, of a $400 ring and $3.

HITLERITES TAKE OVER BOARDING HOUSE BUSINESS

Room Renting Controled by Nazi Party.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 8.—The renting of furnished rooms in Nazi Germany is to be coördinated and placed under the control of the all-powerful Nazi party.

In the university town of Goettingen no room may be rented without the approval of the Nazi authorities. A special bureau was established for this purpose and all private real estate agents were barred. Lessors as well as tenants must submit to Nazi control.

Poor Discriminated Against.

The Nazis argue that in recent years even the wealthier classes of the population have taken in boarders to keep up their former standard of living despite reduced incomes. Since they had better furnished and more elegant rooms at their disposal, the poor had little or no chance of getting boarders.

As a result, only those persons who can prove that their livelihood depends upon it will be permitted to rent rooms. It is expected that other towns in Germany will follow the example set by Goettingen and coördinate the letting of furnished rooms according to the will of the Nazi rulers.

Nazis Rule Summer Resort.

In Kranz, a well known East Prussian bathing resort, near Koenigsberg, all hotels, boarding houses, and private quarters taking in summer guests have been placed under the control of the Nazi party.

Nazi officials inspect all lodgings regularly. If the quarters fail to comply with the official Nazi standards of cleanliness and appropriate furnishing the proprietors will be deprived of their license to take in boarders.

5 STUDENT CORPS OUSTED BY NAZIS IN WAR ON JEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 8.—Five of Germany's 104 university student corps now have been expelled from the Student union and the German Ring of Duelling corps because they refused to dismiss Jewish members. The Jewish members are old students who no longer attend universities. Nevertheless, the present student members of these corps prefer to sacrifice their university careers rather than permit old pledges of loyalty to be broken.

The Koesen Society of Corps, embracing all the notable corps, stated that 42 of the 104 corps had no Jewish members. Fifty-seven other corps carried out the order to expel Jewish members by asking them to resign.

Only five defied the order. They are the Vandalia corps at Heidelberg university, the Rhenania at Marburg, the Borussia at Halle, the Suevia at Munich, and the Suevia at Tuebingen.

Paris Delays Air Raid Drill as Business Men Protest

PARIS, June 8.—(AP)—An air raid drill, planned for tomorrow, has been postponed. Merchants protested it would interfere with business. The war ministry decided to delay the imaginary gas and bombing attack on Paris until after the Davis cup tennis tournament and big racing events. Not so many shoppers will be on the streets then.

Carol Observes Fourth Year of His Seizure of Throne

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 8.—(AP)—Carol II., king of Rumania, who has reigned only four years, but in that time has been more often in the news limelight than most monarchs in a lifetime, today celebrated the fourth anniversary of his enthronement.

It was at the same time the fourth anniversary of Prince Michael, 11 years old, as crown prince. The sudden return of his father from Paris in 1930 cut short his career as a boy king.

Father and son stood together this morning on a balcony of the palace and reviewed a procession of mayors who had come from all the cities, towns, and villages of Rumania for the celebration.

Little Enthusiasm Visible.

It was far from the spontaneous outburst of popular enthusiasm which greeted Carol when he suddenly swooped from the clouds to seize his throne. But four years of hard times have been Rumania's lot since then and that does not generate enthusiasm for any government.

The marching mayors, however—many in picturesque peasant garb—cheered lustily for Carol and his son, lifting their hats in the air as they passed the palace.

Later, in the open air arena of Carol park, they waited patiently in the hot sun for the appearance of the king and the crown prince and cheered them both again. Carol wore a white duck admiral's uniform and Michael the uniform of a military academy.

King Makes a Speech.

In response to the ovations the king said he looked upon the mayors as the representatives of all people and welcomed this opportunity to emphasize that during the last four years his goal always had been the welfare of the people and the whole country and that in the years to come it would always be the same.

"My slogan is work," said his majesty, "and only through good work for the welfare of your country can you demonstrate your loyalty to me."

The dowager Queen Marie, who is summering in her château on the Black sea coast, did not come to Bucharest for the celebration, nor did opposition parties participate.

PROTESTANT GAIN IN AUSTRIA STIRS CATHOLIC CIRCLES

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, June 8.—An alarm was sounded in various Catholic quarters today over the rapid increase in the membership of the Protestant churches in Austria since the clerical-Fascist triumph of February. About 30,000 new converts have joined the Protestant churches in the last five months, although the total Protestant population of Austria is less than 120,000.

The cause of this sudden increase is political and is largely caused by the resistance of Socialist workers to the pressure put upon them to return to the Catholic church. The bitter struggle of fifteen years ago of the clericals against the Socialists caused the latter in large numbers to leave the church as a protest against political Catholicism. They described themselves officially as "of no religious confession."

On the realization of the clerical triumph pressure of various kinds was and still is applied to force those "of no religious confession" to enter the Catholic church. Many have done so, but others have managed to avoid dismissal from their posts by abandoning their negative attitude. They avoided the Catholic church and joined the Protestants.

PURSE SNATCHERS GET GEMS.

Three men snatched the purse of Mrs. Edith Kabel, 1425 North Maplewood avenue, yesterday as she was walking a few doors from her home, she reported to police. The purse, she said, contained $9.50 and two diamond rings, one valued at $700 and the other at $100.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A dispatch from Montreal printed yesterday quoted Rabbi Solomon Goldman of Temple Anshe Emet, Chicago, as telling the Montreal Hadassah that 75 per cent of the material written against Jews in Germany is written by Jews themselves. Rabbi Goldman last night denied that he had made such a statement. He declared that what he had said was: "Seventy-five per cent of the Jews now attacked by Hitler are not officially registered as members of the German Jewish community. One million two hundred thousand men and women of Jewish descent are members of Christian churches, but Hitlerism makes no distinction. It attacks all alike."

IRELAND CERTAIN TO BOLT BRITAIN, DE VALERA SAYS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 8.—(AP)—Nothing is more certain than the ultimate separation of Ireland and Great Britain, President Eamon de Valera declared in the dail today.

"Ireland is prepared to take the full consequences of being an independent nation," De Valera said. "There will be a shock, but we should overcome it and become great and prosperous.

"The government's policy now is aimed at preparing to resist that shock. We are getting into a position of strength, so that when we cut ourselves off from Great Britain the jolt will not be too great. We shall cut ourselves off from Great Britain. There is nothing more certain."

"Newspapers are the sentinels of the liberties of our country."—Benjamin Bush.

THE REPUBLICANS TAKE THE FIELD.

The Republican national committee has elected Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania as its chairman and has agreed upon a statement of party principles equivalent to a platform. The doctrines expounded should meet the approval of Americans who adhered to the party in its best days and who have seen no reason why they should change their convictions or drop their belief in the worth and the success of the republican system of representative government, maintained by a free people, with guarantees of freedom and with the right to work out their own destinies in opportunities which their country presents.

Within the framework of American government as it existed prior to March, 1933, the Republican party believes that the security of the individual American, the well-being of the American nation, and the competence of the American government can be sustained. People who still believe and cherish old ideals have a party to which they can turn and through which they can see to reëstablish what is in the process of being modified or lost.

The history of the country in its span of a century and a half is the proof the Republican party offers with the doctrines to which it adheres. The Democratic party has only the turmoil of 15 months as evidence to introduce.

In the world elsewhere there are many hideous demonstrations of what has come to hysterical people sacrificing their freedom, however limited it might have been before, to the excesses of dominating personalities. The planned society has been planned a half dozen different ways by a half dozen powerful dictators, each asserting that he has found the cure for a crazy world. All that the sober senses can perceive in each instance is a state of great excitement, uncertainty, misfortune, and threatening prospects. Bluster and brutality prevail where these plans have set masses of people goose stepping to the barking of top sergeants and brass hats. The debts of these people are calamitous, their international relations menacing, their conditions of life precarious, and their future one of bankruptcy or war, or both. Nearly all of continental Europe passes in review with hollow eyes right before some pompous upstart uttering threats and savage tribal cries and waving some absurd totem pole to hypnotize or terrorize the multitudes.

It is done one way under Stalin and another way under Hitler and another way under Mussolini. Dollfuss has his prescription and there is another in Rumania. Everywhere it is the planned society with the mailed fist, the conscripted obedience, and the war whoop.

American planners say they are not taking this road. Some of them know they are. Others may not know what road they're taking. Some are definitely driving toward a permanent change, repudiating everything fundamental in the American constitution. Others are running wild, willing to take any direction which they think will lead to temporary shelter. If all of them did nothing but drift with the ideas they proclaim, they must inevitably wash into one or another of the predicaments in which most of Europe finds itself. They can bankrupt and they can destroy, but they cannot reconstruct for the American people a desirable or endurable state of society to take the place of the one they are tearing down.

The alternative to these political proposals and procedures is presented by the statement of Republican doctrine and upon this statement issue can be joined. Americans who cannot endure or submit to the riotous ideas prevailing in the Democratic party are welcome to the ranks of an opposing force now taking the field to give battle for the restoration of government in the form in which it was proved suitable to American habits, desires and realities of life. There may be a prolonged conflict. That prospect need not discourage any one who believes that error cannot continuously prevail against right and common sense.

THE PRESIDENT AND PRESS FREEDOM.

In view of the fact that President Roosevelt, at the time of the newspapers' demand for an explicit reservation in the newspaper code of press rights under the first amendment of the constitution, emphatically disclaimed any intention or disposition to restrict the freedom of the press, the following statement by Senator Schall of Minnesota deserves the very special attention of all American citizens:

"After an investigation I find that it is President Roosevelt who is demanding complete censorship of the press, and not his subordinates, as he would have us believe. There is no question but what this is a fact and I have the proof.

"Congressional records show that the first attempt by Roosevelt to censor the press was made on March 29, 1933, or twenty-five days after he assumed office. On that day there was introduced into the house of representatives by Mr. Sumners of Texas House Resolution 4220, which provided a fine of $10,000 and ten years' imprisonment for any publisher who dared to print any article concerning our government which was not passed as matter for publication by Roosevelt or one of his duly authorized agents. Under the whip of the President of the United States the bill passed the house, but that section relating to publishers was stricken out in the senate.

"Referring to the report of the judiciary committee of the house on this bill I quote the following:

"'The executive branch [Roosevelt] of the government has requested the enactment of this legislation at the earliest practicable date, and has satisfactorily demonstrated to the committee the need for it. The legislation is by its nature very properly auxiliary to the emergency legislation enacted and to be enacted by congress at the present session.'

"Could anything be plainer or more definite as to the ultimate purpose? Roosevelt was asking for dictatorial powers over the government and a censorship bill by which he could put any publisher in jail for ten years who dared to criticize any of his acts. This report pins the origin of the demand for censorship on President Roosevelt."

In this connection it will be recalled that Mr. Roosevelt charged the newspaper men engaged in the demand for a reservation of civil right in their code with ulterior and most condemnable motives. He, Gen. Johnson and other members of the administration, and a small number of newspapers which have supported him unreservedly, all scouted the suggestion that there was any shadow of danger to a free press and every effort was made to discredit the editors and publishers who had raised it. In view of this experience the assertion of Senator Schall cannot be ignored or its very grave implications treated with indifference if verified.

ILLINOIS SAYS NO.

The President has transmitted to congress a proposal to spend another 27 million dollars on Illinois waterways. The recommendation is that of the so-called interdepartmental waterways commission and incorporates the suggestions of the war department, the department of agriculture, and the department of the interior.

Meanwhile Gov. Horner is stepping out to get Illinois' share of the half billion dollar drouth relief fund which congress is expected to authorize.

Thus the squandering proceeds. It is time that some state raise its voice against this orgy of waste. Other states may rush to the hog trough, but Illinois should not. We do not need and we do not want the expenditure of 6 million dollars on the Kankakee and Sangamon rivers. We do not need and we do not want more than 4 million dollars spent on power plants at the Illinois waterway dams to serve districts already amply provided with power generated from Illinois coal. Washington is squander-mad. The same government which is preparing to reintroduce the Canadian seaway treaty with its arbitrary reduction of the flow in the Illinois to a trickle is also recommending the construction of power plants to harness the trickle. Here is a sterling example of national planning at work!

Illinois has never known a complete crop failure and it will not have one this year. It is a year of great hardship for our farmers and of immense crop destruction, but Illinois is not a desert. As always, Illinois will grow more than it consumes. If Illinois must look to Washington for drouth relief funds, every state in the Union must do the same. Every state will be relieving every other state's distress and the ultimate absurdity will have been reached.

The citizens of Illinois are not panhandlers and they are not so shortsighted that they cannot see the inevitable consequences of the government's program of waste. Ours is a populous state because the majority of our enterprises are still solvent. Our people and our enterprises will have to pay more than their share of the bill when it is rendered. We have survived the hard times and we can survive the drouth, but we may not be able to survive the drain on our resources which the squanderers are preparing. The presence in Illinois of useless public works will not make the eventual payment any easier.

ANOTHER ADVANCE IN CRIME CONTROL.

Police Commissioner Allman has ordered practice with rifles and machine guns by all members of the detective force, crews of squad cars, and reserves. This action is highly desirable. It ought to lower the death rate of this section of the police organization and discourage the ruthless criminals whose gun play has been too successful. But it is only a step, and should be extended to cover the whole force. Patrolmen do not carry rifles and machine guns. They are armed with revolvers, and should be required to practice daily. A revolver, as we have said, is a difficult weapon to use effectively. Only constant practice and expert instruction will bring the general level up to where it should be. As Mayor Kelly says, a force made up of crack shots would be one of the greatest crime deterrents the community could have. It isn't practicable to have such a force, but it is practicable to improve the shooting of every Chicago policeman.

Fifteen policemen were killed last year and three since January. Even though more gangsters and bad men were eliminated in the same period, the death rate among police officers is much too high and too many bad men escape with little or no injury.

It is to be hoped Commissioner Allman will not be content with his order for practice by the detective force, but will arrange expert instruction, care of weapons and practice for every policeman. And it should be established as a permanent feature of police training.

Editorial of the Day

THE FAIR AGAIN.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Chicago tries what has never been attempted before—a return engagement for a world's fair. If the experiment succeeds Chicago will have achieved still another distinction, a world's fair which pays. Almost all the recent expositions of the sort have been a flat failure financially, however great their artistic triumph.

More than two years ago Chicago refused to be daunted by the bogy of depression and went right along with its plans for the Fair. The 1933 season brought attendance beyond expectation and receipts on a corresponding scale.

This year's Fair has been given plenty of new features and whole hogsheads of new paint, even more dazzling than last year's tints, say the press agents. Many will say that cannot be. Then if they are moved to go and see if it really is true the painters and the press agents will be justified.

AND IT'S A GRAND ALIBI! Scotch costs a lot of money these days, but visitors always seem to expect it and when you say with lavish hospitality, "What will you have to drink?" they invariably say, "Well, a nice Scotch highball would about hit the spot." Now, there's the chance to save money. Draw yourself up with great dignity and do a little flag waving by saying icily, "What, me serve whisky that comes from the British Isles when they have refused to pay us what they owe! Never. I will never serve Scotch whisky in my house as long as England refuses to pay its war debts." The guests will feel a good deal ashamed of themselves by this time and when you ask 'em. "What about a little home brew?" they will eagerly agree that England should be taught a lesson and that they like home brew better than Scotch, anyhow. And you can keep the bottle of Scotch that set you back five bucks safely hidden until the guests are out of the house. And they'll all go away saying how splendidly patriotic you are and that when you said that about not permitting any Scotch whisky in your house you looked just like George Washington at the battle of Bunker Hill. Or was it Bull Run? Anyhow, that's what you looked like. And then you can sit down and have a nice spot of Scotch all by yourself.

In her long gray gown,

Not that you keep the dreams that now becloud your eyes,
They skirt too close the golden path that winds round Paradise;
But that they all go painlessly, with no scars left behind
To mark their passing, only smiles, when they are called to mind.
And may each one as it departs into unmeasured space,
Leave a fuller, deeper dream to fill the vacant place.

Till one sweet night in retrospect,
You realize what you didn't expect:
That the dream that kept so close to your way
Was the same as the life you had lived that day.

THE BEST WORM MEDICINE.

ALL medicines with enough physiologic action to be of value are poisonous when given in large doses. As a rule, only those substances are used as medicines in which there is considerable margin of safety, meaning thereby that the ordinary quantity used as a medicine is considerably below the level at which the substance becomes dangerously poisonous.

In the selection of worm medicines this margin of safety must be borne constantly in mind. The choice of the medicines depends first on the kind of worms that is to be removed; second, on the efficacy of the medicine, and, third, upon its safety to the person using it. Obviously, it is not the best policy to use a medicine that is very poisonous to the human host. Just as obviously, it is not the best policy to give a medicine that is not very poisonous to the parasite. While it would be safe it would not be worth while.

In the use of worm medicines it is well to remember that no medicine, whatever it may be, and in whatever dose it is used, can be expected to destroy and remove all the worms and all of their eggs. Some will be in locations or conditions where they will escape poison. Therefore, dosage with worm medicines should always be repeated after about two weeks—long enough for eggs left behind to hatch and young to mature.

Most of the advertised worm medicines contain chenopodium as their active ingredient. This is a weed widely distributed. The medicine is quite safe as used in the advertised worm medicines in the doses recommended on the label. However, in order to keep the remedy well within the limits of safety the amount of chenopodium oil in the tablets is so small as to be quite ineffective.

Probably the best of all worm medicines, all things considered, is hexylresorcinal, given in the form of sugar coated pills. It poisons the worms without being absorbed by the host. It therefore does practically no harm to the liver, kidneys, or intestinal wall. It is not especially poisonous to people who have been drinking or who have just taken castor oil, as is the case with the tetrachlorides. The dose is 15 grains for an adult and children in proportion. It should be taken on an empty stomach and without a laxative. However, it is advisable to take a laxative six to eight hours after taking the worm medicine.

Against hookworms and round worms hexylresorcinal is the best of all worm medicines. Against whipworm, tapeworm, and threadworm it is less effective. The best remedy against whipworm is the milk of wild fig; against tapeworm, male fern and pomegranate.

The safer and better of the medicines of the tetrachloride group is tetrachlorethylene. It is less toxic than carbon tetrachloride, less of it is absorbed from the gastrointestinal tract, and it endangers the liver and kidneys less.

The dose of tetrachlorethylene or carbon tetrachloride is 3 minims for each year of age; with an adult dose of 45 to 60 minims. In certain parts of the world they give a mixture of 1 part oil of chenopodium and 2 to 3 parts tetrachlorethylene or of carbon tetrachloride. The dose is 1 minim for each year of life up to 9; then 2 minims for each year until the adult dose of 35 minims is reached. It is often given in a full dose of saturated solution of salts. Oil is to be avoided.

PROBABLY INJURED NERVE.

J. Z. writes: In an automobile accident my left knee was dislocated, there was a fracture of the head of the left fibula, a deep wound seven inches long, and a foot drop due to nerve paralysis.

1. What caused that nerve paralysis?
2. Can my nerve be cured in any way to prevent a foot drop?

REPLY.

1. A nerve was cut or otherwise badly injured in the accident.
2. An operation to bring about a new nerve and muscle hookup should be successful. It is possible that patient muscle and nerve training may suffice.

WATER PRESSURE.

Chicago, June 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We have signed an ordinary lease for a third floor apartment to Oct. 1. In hot weather the water stops running completely for several hours at a time. 1. Can this be a legal justification for our breaking the lease? 2. Can the owner be forced to install a stronger water pump? C. F. H.

1. No.
2. There is no ordinance expressly and clearly requiring pumps in ordinary cases. Sec. 3031 of the City Code states "when the city pressure is not sufficient to supply such cisterns or plumbing fixtures with water adequate pumps or house tanks shall be provided." This wording in a proper context would be sufficient, but since it is contained in a section otherwise dealing only with cisterns, there is room for doubt as to whether a broad application was intended. Sec. 3033 provides that closets shall be discharged with such force as to thoroughly clean the bowl, but the context of this section indicates that it is intended to relate to the type of fixtures rather than to maintenance of pressure. Sec. 2196 prohibits nuisances in general, but does not make the landlord responsible any more than the tenant is responsible and hence leaves their mutual rights and obligations where they were before.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DISTRIBUTION OF ESTATE.

Chicago, June 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A person in Indiana held a note against another person who was left an estate together with five other heirs. 1. This said person put in a claim against the share of the heir, consisting of real estate. Same was sold at a sheriff's sale. Now another heir rented the house. A year is up and [2] now they want to divide up what is left of rent after expenses are taken out. 3. Who gets the rent money of the share one sold? Does the heir or the one who bought to square his note? H. C.

1. We assume that you mean that the creditor put in the claim.
2. We assume that you mean that the heirs wish to divide.
3. The original debtor unless a sheriff's deed has issued, or unless the creditor brings garnishment proceedings.

SPRINKLING ORDINANCE.

Chicago, June 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the law regarding sprinkling lawns? That is, what time can I sprinkle in the morning and evening? G. F. G.

Sec. 4096 of the City Code, as amended July 10, 1929 [council proceedings, page 8191], provides as follows: "Hose . . . shall not be used for sprinkling . . . or other like purposes . . . except between the hours of 5 a. m. and 7 a. m. and between the hours of 7:30 p. m. and 10 p. m."

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE.

Chicago, May 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I took care of a sick woman for some time. When I finished she refused to pay me, and I secured a judgment against her and put a lien on her place. Her property had two mortgages on it, and the bank holding same is about to foreclose. They have eight months to redeem. The woman died a year after I secured judgment. 1. Does this have to be probated, and [2] how long do probate proceedings last? 3. What is the cost to have it probated? 4. Does the bank have to pay me before they foreclose? 5. How can I go about getting my money? M. S.

1. If the land in question is the only asset and the heirs do not expect to redeem, then we see no advantage in probating the estate.
2. If the probate is for the purpose of redemption, then in order to be effective the proceedings should be instituted within the 15 months allowed for redemption.
3. We are not in a position to say.
4. No. If, as seems probable, their mortgage is older than your judgment, then your judgment will be wiped out by their foreclosure unless you redeem.
5. The attorney who secured the judgment for you is in a better position to advise you now than we are.

CONTRACT BY MINORS.

Chicago, June 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We have a club consisting of boys and girls, all minors. We signed a contract for twenty pins costing $60. Twenty dollars has been sent as a deposit. Since doing that the club has just about broken up. The remainder of the purchase price—$40—must be at the postoffice by the end of the week or said pins will be returned to the company. 1. Can minors be held liable to this contract? 2. Will we lose the $20 first payment? 3. Is there any way we can get the $20 back? M. G.

1. No.
2. If the club is not incorporated, then clearly the minority of the members would be a basis for renouncing the contract and recovering the amount paid. Presumably you would be permitted to join in one action the suits of the members concerned, but even on this basis we doubt if the amount involved is enough to make the court proceedings worth while.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE.

Gary, Ind., May 9.—[Friend of the Insured.]—As a result of an accident my husband has been confined to a hospital for the last two months. He has an accident policy which pays $40 a week while he is laid up. Can I, as beneficiary in the policy, collect this money? F. D.

Payments for loss of life only are payable to the beneficiary. All other payments for specific injuries and time off are payable to the policyholder.

APPLICATION OF DIVIDENDS.

Chicago, May 30.—[Friend of the Insured.]—I have just received a bill for the annual premium on my life insurance, together with notice of amount of dividend due me, also a request for instructions as to the application of the dividend. I have the privilege of selecting any one of three ways to use the dividend, but do not understand what is meant by "applied to purchase paid up additions to the policy." Will you kindly explain this? What is the usual option selected? F. B.

Instead of taking the dividends in cash the policyholder may have them applied to the purchase of nonforfeitable paid up additions to his policy. Such paid up additions may be either participating or nonparticipating, depending upon the terms of the policy. The amount of paid up additional insurance is based upon the amount of the dividend which is used as the premium payable in advance. The option selected is usually based upon the individual policyholder's needs. In the event that no choice is made by the policyholder the dividends are applied by the company to reduce the current year's premium.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR CLEAN MOVIES.

Chicago, June 5.—I am very much interested in Cardinal Mundelein's statement against unclean moving pictures. One thing, however, in your report of the cardinal's statement I have objection to. The report reads: "The fight originated at the national convention of Catholic bishops. . . . Meanwhile, many Protestant churches are lining up." This gives the impression that the Protestant churches are merely trailing along after the Catholic church in this matter. But the actual beginning of the churches' attack on trashy moving pictures goes back before last fall. The credit for launching this attack must go to the Churchman, one of the periodicals affiliated with the Episcopal church, edited by Guy Emery Shipler in New York [incidentally, the oldest religious journal in the English speaking world]. The Churchman has been carrying on a carefully reasoned attack against bad movies now for at least five or six years. I do not want to insinuate that the Catholics owe anything to the Protestants in this matter, but I do very much want to correct the impression that the Protestants are merely following in the Catholics' footsteps, because this is not at all the case. PROTESTANT.

Chicago, June 5.—The moving picture industry portrays life in its shows as experienced by the players and directors, namely, drinking, smoking, sex, and drugs. The remedy is, pay these people normal salaries and let them live a normal life. Thus you will have decent shows and no progressive polygamy amongst this crowd. E. C. MUELLER.

FOR A PERMANENT FAIR.

Chicago, June 1.—I, too, am very much in favor of retaining the World's Fair as a permanent attraction to Chicago. I think it is just about the finest thing that this or any other city ever had. Perhaps no other city in the world has such a marvelous collection of entertainment and instruction so close to the cool, comforting breezes off a large body of water. Atlantic City may have its boardwalk, New York its Coney Island, Los Angeles its playground on the beaches and walks of Venice, Santa Monica, Ocean Park, Redondo, and Long Beach, and other shore line cities their pleasure places, but not one of them has what Chicago has. Not one of them can have it, or anything even close to it.

When a city has anything that is so decidedly different, it ought to keep it. Chicago had it last year and decided to improve it and keep it this year. Let's keep on keeping it.

EUGENE GEORGE KEY.

VOLUNTEER.

Chicago, June 5.—I am willing to enlist in the most dangerous branch of either the military, naval or air forces of our beloved country to enforce the payment of the $12,000,000,000 debts due us from defaulting nations.

GEORGE C. POTTS.

A NEGLECTED ATHLETIC HERO.

Chicago, June 5.—Happy as I am over the riotous and deserved welcome which the officials and citizens of Chicago gave Barney Ross, I am moved to wonder what it takes to awaken such an inspiring example of civic pride.

In the summer of 1932 there was a Chicago boy who brought great honor to his city by his performances in the Olympic games, where the eyes of the world were centered on the highest forms of sport.

Later that year that same Chicago boy went to Europe, competed in many countries, and returned with more honors than any other member of that team, to the glory of Chicago.

He has equaled or surpassed all known records for covering every distance from 40 to 220 yards.

In the far away corners of the world, where a welterweight title prize fight would be without significance and go uncelebrated, the deeds of Ralph Metcalfe have been broadcast to the credit of his city.

But, upon returning from his grand and inspiring triumphs, the mayor, the governor and the citizens have never seen fit to welcome him.

CHINESE PUZZLES.

Yunnanfu, Yunnan, West China, April 21.—From the other side of the world I have indirectly learned of your efforts to bring about more sensible and simplified spelling of English words. I commend them most heartily.

Though but recently arrived here I have discovered that tens of thousands of students in the orient are studying English. Other thousands would like to. I doubt if their own embarrassment in trying to explain peculiarities in their own language equals that of English teachers out here when called upon to explain the peculiarities of English spelling.

The widespread adoption of more simplified spelling would unquestionably be a contribution to international understanding, good will and peace of the greatest significance.

I trust your efforts will find generous support and approval.

INNOVATIONS.

Chicago, June 1.—I find a striking parallel between your attitude toward the introduction of the Roosevelt philosophy into government and your own statement of the early European attitude toward the introduction of the potato. I quote from page 25 of THE TRIBUNE of this date:

"One can scarcely believe today that in early times the introduction of the potato encountered considerable prejudice and misrepresentation. At first it was ignorantly said to be the cause of leprosy and many sorts of fevers."

SPORT IN RUSSIA IS REGIMENTED BY BRAIN TRUST

Hunting, Fishing Seem to Be a Business.

This is the sixth of a series of articles by The Tribune's correspondent in eastern Europe. He seeks to answer the question whether workers are better off under the planned economy of Russia than are workers of the United States.

BY DONALD DAY.

Recently I saw in a Chicago movie a parade of "winter sport lovers in Leningrad." Thousands of young men and women, all dressed alike, marched in solid ranks before the camera carrying skis on their shoulders. Other thousands skated slowly around a huge rink. A group pulling sleds completed the picture. However, there were few in the audience who knew that the majority of those skis had been manufactured in Finland and Norway and that the skates had also come from abroad.

Sport in Russia also has been regimented by the Moscow brain trust. All sports enthusiasts must belong to certain delegated clubs controled by communists. Even yachting, one of the most aristocratic of sports, has its soviet [council]. The yachts, in which the merchants and other bourgeoise inhabitants of St. Petersburg once sailed the Finnish gulf, are now in the possession of Leningrad workers' clubs.

Sail to Baltic Ports.

Each year they sail to Baltic ports to show the workers of these countries that one need not save his money in order to purchase a yacht. It is their aim to prove that if a worker with yachting inclinations so desires he can help stage a revolution and nationalize a boat. None of the yachts in Leningrad was constructed after the 1917 revolution.

Skating in Leningrad is not free. The Russian skater must pay from five to ten cents each time he enters a rink. In order to obtain skis, sportsmen and women must participate in military maneuvers.

Hunting is no longer a sport in Russia. It is a business. Each hunter must register every gun in his possession. He only can possess ammunition if he turns over his game to the state, which exports it abroad.

No Game, No Cartridges.

Fishing in Russia is also a business. There is not one store in the entire country of 163,000,000 inhabitants where a fly or bait casting rod can be obtained.

The communists have also attempted to regiment fishing and fishermen through a special fisherman's code. Near Moscow and Leningrad, where there are thousands of lakes and rivers, the fisherman's soviet carefully examined their data and figured out just how many fish each body of water contained. The soviet figured out a fish quota for the inhabitants. Then, after promising the population fish they started out to catch them.

The fishermen used drag nets and seined the lakes and rivers with meager results. They discovered that the hungary Russian peasant had been there before them.

Tennis Develops Slowly.

Tennis is developing slowly in Russia because of the equipment needed. Outside Moscow and Leningrad there are few courts. Soccer football is popular. The reason is that one football will enable 22 men to play the game. Volleyball and basketball have also been developed.

The soviet government is also seeking laurels in international sport. Each year the best football team of Russia is permitted to make a European tour. Teams of boxers and wrestlers also have been allowed to go abroad. However, no Russian sportsman is permitted to participate in any event in which a foreigner of nonproletarian origin competes.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Pastoral Closeups

June 9, 1934.

When June comes bringing full foliage to the trees, flowers around the farmhouses and a wealth of song from the birds, it's easy to see how there are many compensations to life in the country in spite of what the drouth does to the crops and the damage that the chinch bugs inflict on some of the growing things.

Yesterday when I stopped near the Fox river to notice how the recent showers in the valley had put more water in the stream, and to hear the catbirds singing in the thickets along the river bank, a Bob White was whistling cheerfully as if the drouth and heat couldn't subdue his spirit. What the booming of the prairie chickens is to early spring, the sharp pleasant whistle of the quail is to early June.

Returning from the north bank of the Fox river where the experimental farm has a big tract of land planted to soy beans, I saw the family of young robins which Herman Guenther is having so much fun with these days. The nest is in a spruce tree between the houses occupied by Clarence Thurow and Guenther. It's not more than three feet from the ground. These birds hatched out during the hottest weather and originally there were three. Yesterday I found but two in the nest and everybody is wondering what happened to the third one. During the early part of the week when the days were blazing hot, Guenther used to visit this nest in the evening and give the young birds a few drops of cool water from a medicine dropper.

This coming week the experimental farm will add to its staf Paul Sleezer, a University of Illinois student, to act as the official guide to escort visitors around the farm. Mr. Sleezer will be on duty at the headquarters house to which all visitors should report when they come to the farm. Signs are in place along the road directing motorists to this house. Inasmuch as the experimental farm is primarily an enterprise involving the testing of unusual crops which might be grown in the middle west and which give a possibility of yielding a satisfactory revenue to midwest farmers, visitors should keep in mind this fact: there aren't a great many of the so-called "show" things on the farm. The principal emphasis in the farm's operations concerns the soil and the seeds that have been put into the soil. The seeds planted are just beginning to show. Later visitors should be able to see what growing flax looks like, how pyethrum and safflower grows, and many other interesting crops.

Right now, Queen, the handsome little filly, the numerous Chester White and Hampshire pigs on the place, the herd of Hereford steers, the work horses and the farm equipment, probably are the most interesting things to be seen by visitors coming from the city.

Oxygen and Hydrogen Mixture Used.

CORBEIL, Ont., June 8.—(AP)—An ingenious apparatus which fills the tiny lungs of the Dionne quintuplets with a mixture of oxygen and hydrogen is successfully curing them of the "blues," their physician reported tonight.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe explained the infants, now almost 13 days old, experience at intervals loss of vitality that causes them to turn a bluish color, like most babies born at seven months.

Use of the machine immediately restores normal respiration. It is employed several times daily.

Skin Turning Lighter.

The dark and wrinkled skin of the five little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ovila Dionne is turning lighter, and their nurses expect they soon will be as pink as normal babies. Their increased weight has ironed out some of the wrinkles and they begin to look much more like ordinary infants.

Twenty-four year old Mrs. Dionne was so much improved in condition today she was allowed to leave her bed. She expects to be able to leave her home soon and see her five older children who are being cared for by relatives.

Total Weight 10 Pounds 4 Ounces.

All but one of the quintuplets, Emilie, showed a gain in weight today and their total is now ten pounds four ounces. Emilie dropped back two and one-half ounces, but that was not considered alarming because yesterday she gained three and one-half.

The Dionnes have given up all thought of exhibiting their infant daughters this summer. Dr. Dafoe has advised against moving the children, and the parents intimate that they will do as he says. Friends have advised the Dionnes that next spring will be soon enough to consider exhibiting them.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Walter Burda, Alex Olszwski, and Barry Lowe, burglary, sentenced to one to 10 years in the penitentiary; Clarence Stadler, burglary, sentenced to one year in the House of Correction; Esther Anderson, burglary, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Philip J. Finnegan.

John Bradlesek, George Coleman, and Elbert Eastman, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Benjamin Epstein.

Frank Pozow, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Grover C. Neimeyer.

John Olson, 67 years old, president of the Standard Sash and Door company, 5807 South Racine avenue, yesterday warded off three robbers who tried to seize the company's $438 pay roll which Olson was taking to his office from a bank. So handy with his fists was Olson and so loud his cries for help that the robber trio fled.

The assault occurred in front of the company's offices. The bandits drove up in a sedan, apparently having trailed Olson from the bank. Two men leaped out, one holding a revolver.

"Hand it over, daddy, we know you've got it," the leader demanded, seizing Olson. The second bandit covered him with the revolver, but Olson struggled with the man holding him and both went down to the walk in a heap. Olson cried for help while one bandit was burrowing in the pocket which held the money. Olson called louder and as two employés of his company appeared at the office window, the three robbers fled in their car. Olson changed his torn clothes and continued work, his employés' pay roll intact.

Fess' Rubber Dollar Gives Moment of Fun.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—In the course of the debate on the silver bill today, Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.] produced a facsimile of a dollar bill made of rubber and as much excitement resulted as might be occasioned by the display of a new toy in an orphan asylum nursery.

Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] was the lucky man who was first to snap the piece of rubber after Senator Fess had finished. Several other Republican senators had their fling at the amusement and then Senator Henry Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.] sent a page boy over with request that the Democrats be allowed to share in the fun.

Senator Fess was reasonable and the page boy, getting in a couple of snaps of the bill himself on the trip back, brought it to the Democrat side.

"Let me! Let me!" pleaded Senator Huey Long [Dem., La.], in pleasurable excitement and almost danced up and down in his impatience until Senator Ashurst allowed him to handle the bit of rubber.

Even such dignified senators as Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] and William H. King [Dem., Utah] wandered over to look on smilingly. It was a homely little scene that touched those in the galleries. It seemed to reveal that hearts of childlike simplicity beat beneath the staid exteriors of the lawmakers of the nation.

The incident awoke the senate from the lethargy into which it had drifted under the deadening influence of four days of oratory on the proposed silver legislation. Soon Senator Fess and Senator William E. Borah [Rad., Idaho] engaged in a sparkling verbal battle during which they stood facing each other at a distance of about five feet like two belligerent roosters.

Have Different Reasons.

Senator Fess was against the proposed silver bill which would make the proportion of silver to gold one to four in the monetary stocks of the nation. Senator Borah was also against the bill, but for a different reason. He didn't believe it went far enough.

Out of this common disagreement the two senators evolved a debate on silver which went back to the William Jennings Bryan era and in which Senator Borah disclosed that he was still an advocate of the 16 to 1 silver ratio. It came to a climax when Senator Borah commented:

"Do I understand that the senator from Ohio has joined the Socialists?"

"No! No!" came from the ultra-conservative Fess in an outraged scream. It was all very diverting, but it brought the senate after four days no nearer a decision on silver.

Dr. Valentine Gregory Burtan left Chicago last night by train with six other prisoners in custody of United States deputy marshals for Leavenworth penitentiary, where he is to serve a sentence of fifteen years for possession and distribution of $100,000 in counterfeit currency. Dr. Burtan, formerly a New York heart specialist, was recently found guilty by a jury before Federal Judge Charles Briggle in Chicago. He was fined $5,000 in addition to the prison sentence.

MISSISSIPPI MOB LYNCHES TWO FOR ATTEMPTED RAPE

Marks, Miss., June 8.—(AP)—Two Negroes who Deputy Sherif J. R. Spidle of Quitman county said confessed attempting to rape the wife of a Sledge, Miss., plantation manager, were hanged by a mob near Alligator, Miss., at sundown today.

Spidle identified the Negroes as Isaac Thomas and Joe Love and said they had been employed on a Quitman county farm. They were arrested in Greenwood, Miss., early today and, Spidle said, confessed they attempted the rape.

When taken by the mob the Negroes were being transported from Greenwood to Clarkadale, Miss., by Sherif W. T. Haynes and Deputy Sherif Spidle of Quitman county and Deputy Sherif J. E. Summerall of Tallahatchie county. The officers were disarmed and the mob hanged the Negroes from a railroad trestle.

House Votes Justice Men Right to Carry Revolvers

Washington, D. C., June 8.—(AP)—The Sumners bill to enable justice department agents to make arrests and carry fire arms was passed today by the house and sent to the senate. The measure was requested by Attorney General Cummings.

INSULL'S COUNSEL REOPENS ATTACK ON GRAND JURY

Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, counsel for Samuel Insull Sr., yesterday again announced his intention of attacking the validity of the federal grand jury which indicted his client and 18 others on charges of using the mails to defraud. Arguments on the plea will be heard by Judge Philip L. Sullivan on Monday.

Following a conference with Charles M. Bates, clerk of the District court, in Judge James H. Wilkerson's chambers Thursday Mr. Thompson indicated that he was satisfied with the method of impaneling grand juries and would abandon his previously announced plan to file a plea in abatement, attacking the grand jury. Yesterday, however, the lawyer said that while he was satisfied with the legality of the general practice, he was not convinced that the particular grand jury which indicted Insull was organized according to law.

Mr. Thompson said his plea in abatement would be filed today. Insull's presence will not be required at the hearing Monday, but if the plea is overruled another arraignment date will be fixed and he will have an opportunity to file a demurrer and a motion to quash, after which he must enter his plea so the case can be set down for trial.

HURRICANE HITS SALVADOR; 8 DIE, 500 LOSE HOMES

SAN SALVADOR, Salvador, June 8 [By Pan-American Airways Wireless.]—(AP)—A hurricane which struck Salvador at 1 p. m. yesterday and continued throughout the night killed at least eight persons, destroyed the homes of 500, caused property damage estimated at $2,000,000, and cut off the communications systems of the nation.

Heavy rain continued throughout the day, but was abating tonight as efforts were made to care for the homeless in a city which was without electric light or power.

City Under Martial Law.

Soldiers were in charge in San Salvador under martial law and enforced an early curfew to prevent looting and disorders. The homeless were being cared for in churches and other public buildings.

Only meager reports of damage in the interior were available because practically every telephone and telegraph line in the country was out of commission.

Washouts and slides stopped railroad trafic and a number of highway and railroad bridges were washed away. Relief work was pushed under government supervision.

Storm Sweeps Honduras.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 8. —(AP)—Rains and heavy winds continued to sweep Honduras tonight, causing heavy damage, especially to the banana zone on the Atlantic seaboard. The capital is completely cut off from transportation services. Rain has fallen ceaselessly since Sunday.

The River Grande, which passes through Tegucigalpa, is rising fast toward flood stage. Lower parts of the city are under water. Lack of telegraphic communication is delaying reports from northern Honduras.

Homes were destroyed and much property damage is feared to have resulted at San Juancito, an important American mining community twenty miles from Tegucigalpa. No casualties were reported.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Not All Bad

Harrington, Winner, Polls 56,232.

Voters in Chicago and the eight suburbs under the jurisdiction of the board of election commissioners wrote in 303 names on the ballots for the Circuit court vacancy for which Ald. Frank J. Corr, who died the day before the election, was the nominee, according to the vote proclamation issued yesterday by the board.

Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington the Democratic organization choice for the vacancy following Corr's death, received the largest number of votes cast for any "write in" candidate. His vote was 56,232. Corr received 23,911 votes, but this vote was not certified to the county clerk, the election board ruling he was not a person on June 4, election day. Neither were the one or two votes cast for Dr. Alice L. Wynekoop, Al Capone, and his brother, Ralph Capone, certified, the board ruling that these had been improperly marked.

Corrigan Gets Votes.

But among the votes proclaimed were several for Ben Gump, who was not identified as a relative of Andy; Michael Corrigan, chief fire marshal; George E. Q. Johnson, former United States district attorney; Danny Dever, son of the late Mayor Dever; several former and sitting aldermen, and most of the judges on the Municipal court bench.

Altogether 112,798 votes were cast in the election board territory, which was approximately 7½ per cent of the registered voters. The largest number of votes went to Judge John J. Sullivan, candidate for reëlection to the Superior court bench, whose name was first on the ballot. His vote was 103,329.

The exceedingly light vote was due to the fact that none of the candidates were opposed, all running on the coalition ticket.

Canvass County Today.

Daniel A. Carey, who is in charge of the county election department, said the vote in the county outside the Chicago board territory would be canvassed today or Monday. These votes will be added to those of the election board and the total vote will be certified to the secretary of state, who will issue the certificates to those elected to the state judgeships. The two candidates for the Municipal court will receive their certificates from the election board.

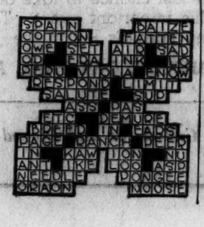
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The new Sky room atop the Stevens hotel will become the highest point of origin for regular radio broadcasts in Chicago when Keith Beecher's music is outletted over W-G-N, beginning this evening. Beecher's band will be heard nightly over THE TRIBUNE station from this spot, which is more than 400 feet above street level.

Two well known radio orchestras will come back to the local airlanes tonight. Harry Sosnik, who has been on tour, will return to the Edgewater Beach opening of the outdoor beach-walk with his music picked up by WBBM-CBS. Buddy Rogers' orchestra will open a summer's engagement this evening at the College Inn with various NBC stations carrying his programs.

Dorothy Dell, motion picture actress killed yesterday in a motor crash on the west coast, is the featured feminine star in Ben Bernie's first full length picture, "Shoot the Works," to be released locally within a fortnight. She had made guest appearances recently on several of Bernie's broadcasts.

Laid low by an ear infection Wendell Hall is forced to pass up his Sunday evening coast to coast NBC program. Either Irene Beasley, who will pinch hit for him during his summer's vacation, or the Three Merry Macs will substitute tomorrow evening. His sustaining programs have been cancelled.

One of the strangest auditions to date was held at NBC offices the other day. Ed East, of the Sisters of the Skillet, auditioned for both himself and Ralph Dumke, his partner. Dumke had been called to South Bend because of the funeral of his father. Ed and Ralph are among radio's most competent mimics. So Ed played both his own part and that of Ralph.

The Wampas Stars, engaged to appear at the Chicago theater June 22, are likely to appear on the W-G-N show broadcast from the stage of the theater. Other radio acts signed for the Chicago: Cab Calloway, June 29; the Goldbergs, July 13, Amos 'n' Andy, Aug. 24.

Exactly 20 years after the momentous day when an assassin's bullet ended the life of Archduke Franz Ferdinand in Sarajevo, thereby touching off the world war, the Columbia network will present a drama titled "Twenty Crowded Years." This one hour broadcast, beginning at 7 p. m., June 28, will be a kaleidoscopic review in dramatized form of notable events that have filled the intervening years.

M. D. HEBBERD'S WIDOW, 99, WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Galesburg, Ill., June 8.—[Special.]—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Jane Hebberd, 99 years old, native of Illinois, will be held here tomorrow. Mrs. Hebberd died on Thursday in Omaha, Neb., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. C. Hazelton.

MRS. M. D. HEBBERD.

Mrs. Hebberd was born on Dec. 6, 1834, at Atlas in Pike county. At the age of six months she removed with her parents to Rock Island county. She was married to Moses D. M. E. Official Follows Trail of Jason Lee

Celebrate Centennial of Noted Missionary.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicagoland Methodism will turn its attention back 100 years tomorrow and Monday to recall the long trek of Missionary Jason Lee on the Oregon trail. Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, of the Methodist Chicago area yesterday told how the century old journey will be dramatized not only for Chicago but for Methodists of the whole country.

The means of that dramatization here will be the Chicago visit of the Jason Lee covered wagon as it traverses the Jason Lee trail across the country. The wagon, which, by the way, is a 1934 edition instead of 1834 and mounted on a good motor car chassis, arrived in Chicago yesterday. This afternoon the wagon, driven by Dr. Edward D. Kohlstedt of Philadelphia, Methodist home missions executive, will go to Milwaukee, returning tomorrow night for a massmeeting at the Chicago Temple. Monday the wagon will be drawn up before the Hall of Religion at A Century of Progress.

Around the virile figure of Vermonter Jason Lee, the first of his faith to carry Methodism's gospel to the great northwest, are growing cycles of stories telling of mission enterprise able to arouse the jaded modern spirit. He was one of those early prophets of the long trail—a circuit rider. But the Lee conception of the trail was cast in a mold of immensity. He saw his circuit in terms of western expanses.

When Jason became a Methodist preacher he was selected by his conference to become the first missionary to Oregon. Before starting westward he chose as his companion a school teacher, Cyrus Shepard, and his nephew, Daniel Lee. The missionaries left New York in January, 1834, and during the succeeding eight months were moving down the Ohio river from Pittsburgh and up the Mississippi to St. Louis, where they mounted horseback for the remainder of the journey ending Sept. 15, 1834, at Fort Vancouver.

But the journey was not merely a means of going westward for those early missioners. They were preachers of the gospel first and travelers afterward. In settlements, towns and villages the folks would assemble for services and Jason preached. At Independence, Mo., the missionaries were fully outfitted for the horseback journey ahead and joined a group of trappers headed by Capt. Nathaniel Wyeth. The way ahead was but a dim line which later was to become the Oregon trail.

At Fort Hall, beyond the Rocky mountains the party rested on the Sabbath and the first Protestant religious service in the vast region between the mountains and the Pacific ocean was held. While encamped there one of the trappers was killed and Jason Lee held the first Protestant funeral service in that territory.

After arriving in Oregon, Jason Lee built houses, schools, churches and saw mills. Indians were taught to farm. He made several journeys back to New England, telling of the new land as a settlers' paradise. One shipload of settlers was brought by the intrepid Jason Lee to Oregon by way of Cape Horn. He died while on one of his eastern journeys, but his ashes years later were returned to Oregon for final burial.

The two Chicago celebrations of the Jason Lee centenary were arranged by a committee headed by Dr. Frank W. Barnum. At Monday night's meeting in front of the Hall of Religion the speakers will be Dr. John Thompson of the Chicago temple and superintendent of the Methodist City Missionary society; Dr. Kohlstedt and a representative of the Exposition. At the Chicago temple tomorrow night Dr. Kohlstedt will deliver an illustrated address on "Adventures in Faith."

Cool Costume Jewelry Wins Style Expert

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Best buys of the week! A lot of new costume jewelry that is the last whiff of ice cool looking stuff any one could wear with summer dresses.

Transparent prystal bracelets, clips and rings made with daisies, and cool green leaves inbedded in this clear, icy looking prystal. Or you can buy gardenias iced in the same manner, or the tiny forget-me-not blue blossoms fashioning a lovely clear, cool bracelet or ring or clip. These new pieces are extraordinarily effective with dark prints, chiffons and summer cottons.

For amazingly small sums you can buy some new gardenia jewelry: long multi-strand necklaces fastened with three small, very real looking gardenia blossoms. Clips of a single gardenia are the most decorative white accents you can fasten to your dark frocks.

Chest pins that are at least three to four inches long, also a row of small white gardenias in a lovely mat white, and the earrings are something to rave over—tiny, full blown gardenias that are perfect replicas of the fragrant big blossoms you find in the florist's window.

Stunning four strand white bead bracelets have clasps of two small or one large gardenia. A big round pin for the lapel of your dark street suit has one side of three small buds. If you want something new in summer costume contrast look for this very smart new collection.

Some of the best looking fabric gloves in brown have lovely frilled cuffs of white dotted brown swiss. Other colors are available, and the same sort of fabric gloves have tucked cuffs of sheer organdy in pastel and dark colors.

Some new cocktail jackets of pique, taffeta and chintz are sponsored by Elizabeth Hawes and are named "chips," "shrimp" and other appetizing teasers from the hors d'oeuvre tables! There are clever creations with pleated collars, pleated short sleeves, and a pleated peplum. Wear them over a dull black crêpe sheath dress and have one of the newest costumes of the season.

French Follies Represent Best Shows of Type

Paris Troupe Follows Music Hall Tradition.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Paris music hall idea of entertainment was added to the picture of Chicago's amusement life last night with the première of a large company of French players, bearing the familiar "Folies Bergères" title, at the French Casino, which is the Rainbo Garden, at Lawrence avenue and North Clark street, renamed and redecorated for the engagement. This troupe, fifty in number, comes direct from Paris under the sponsorship of Jacques Charles, a Ziegfeld of the French revues, and plans to remain here through the summer.

The performance, combining the methods of floor show and stage production, is an elaborately costumed program of singing, dancing and variety numbers, each characteristic of the first-class music halls of Paris. It is almost as copious as a full-length stage revue and occupies an hour and a half of playing time.

Costume spectacles, in which the parading girls represent such Paris sights as the Eiffel tower, the Place de la Bastille, Montmarte, etc., or, as in "Les Frivolités," a powder puff, a lipstick, a fan, a jewel box, etc., are frequent items on the bill. These numbers are handsomely arranged, and the ornate dresses are the sort of thing that Ziegfeld used to revel in. A pageant illustrating articles of woman's wearing apparel, as designed by Jean Patou, is one of the emphasized episodes.

The principals are Emile Boreo, master of ceremonies and comedian; Drena, baritone singer of French popular songs; Gloria Gilbert, an accomplished ballerina; the Maginis, two acrobats who look like twin Sandows, and Harald and Lola, specialty dancers. The latter pair contribute a striking novelty in the form of a contortional dance in which the man is a snake charmer and the girl a writhing serpent.

This "Folies Bergères" show will be performed every night, starting at about the usual theater hour, in two sections, with a forty-five minute interval for public dancing. It is the most ambitious café entertainment now on view in Chicago.

SOCIETY ATTENDS

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

More than five hundred socialites dined and danced into the small hours last night at the opening of the new French Casino at Clark street and Lawrence avenue, and the Chicago Arden Shore Association is richer by about $2,000 this morning. Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr., chairman of the party, estimated the proceeds and stated that the association is delighted that so much money can be turned over to the Arden Shore camp in Lake Bluff where so many under-privileged boys are taken car of every summer.

Miss Patsy Keith and Miss Peggy Hixon, wearing gay organdy gowns, were among the earliest arrivals as they had motored down from Lake Forest to meet the rest of their party at the Casino, and they had ample opportunity to admire the newly decorated restaurant.

The Lawrence Williamses arrived in time to initiate the dancing around 8:30, bringing with them as their guest the Louis C. Sudlers and the Norman Intos. Mrs. Williams looked stunning in a print gown with a white background and a matching knee length jacket. Mr. Sudler was one of the few men wearing a white dinner-jacket. Mrs. Into, who with her husband has just moved to Lake Forest from Greenwich, was lovely in a champagne satin gown.

When the orchestra swung into "Ca C'est Paris" which introduced the "Folies Bergeres" show, the highlight of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Kingman Douglas and their guests, who had arrived just a moment before, led the diners in a burst of applause for the gay Parisian music. Mrs. Douglass wore a distinctive gown of white flowered silk. Among here guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Bacon of Macomb, Mrs. Bacon also wore a print gown; the T. Philip Swifts, the John Hollidays, the Harold Beacoms, Mrs. Stuart J. Templeton, the George B. Malcolms, the Champ Carrys, and Frederick W. Preston.

The John R. Winterbothams had with them Miss Peggy Hambleton and Walter Frazier. Mr. and Mrs. Gambrill had as their guests Miss Betty Alger, Rodman Hanson, the Wallace Johnsons, and the Herbert S. Nocks.

Others present were the George A. Masons, Miss Louise Schmidt of McKeesport, Pa., who was escorted by Edward F. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Steven V. Horton, the Julius Steins, the Robert Hotzes, the Ernest Byfields, the Alexander H. Revells, and the Marcus Richardses.

Joan Bennett Claims She Was 'Gypped' on Her Visit to Italy

New York, June 8.—(AP)—Joan Bennett, screen actress, and her husband, Gene Markey, writer, returned on the liner Aquitania today from a vacation in Italy, France and England.

"You get gypped everywhere," she declared, mentioning as specific instances buying a chocolate bar for three dollars and checking a bag for one dollar.

"We'll never go there again," she said.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

WE hasten into print with a wisecrack made by his highness, the sultan of Johore, during his short stay in Chicago. Frank ("Bring 'Em Back Alive") Buck, who shot big game with him in the jungle, was with the sultan and the sultana most of the day, and in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Buck gave a dinner for them at the Tavern club. The sultan had had a pretty tiring day, seeing the Fair and attending a luncheon, and he voiced his comment about it to his host.

"You talk about bringing them back alive—you are sending me home dead," he said.

THE sultana, who is a Scotswoman, told a Scotch story. It concerned Angus—or maybe his name was Sandy, who went to the dentist with an aching tooth.

"Hae mickle the fee it draw it?" he asked.

* *

THE sultan, who wore a brown business suit, is a man of great presence and charming personality, with the air of a leader in spite of his simple and natural manner. He admits to being past 60, although he looks 45. His domain — approximating some 9,000 square miles in the Malay peninsula—is free of debt, he says, which certainly is a news item. They are a week behind on their schedule because an overenthusiastic osteopath in Hollywood twisted the muscles of the royal leg, laying the sultan up for a time. The main dish at dinner was breast of chicken sous cloche. It was observed that his highness sent the dish back to the kitchen to have the ham removed before he ate it, probably in keeping with his religious tenets. In speaking of the Fair Sultan Ibrahim commented that his country exhibited in the World's Fair of '93, but that the silver and trappings sent on to Chicago never got back to Johore.

* *

JOHN R. TODD, member of the concern that built and operates Rockefeller Center and perhaps the presiding genius of the Center, was a visitor at the Fair the other day. He went to see the Rockefeller Center exhibition at the Hall of Science, visited some of the other exhibits, had tea at the trustees' lounge with friends, and after dinner went to see "Wings of a Century." A slim, elderly man with complete lack of pomposity and an engagingly youthful viewpoint, Mr. Todd was a delightful guest at the cocktail party in his honor. One of the stories he told concerned his daughter, whom he had lectured once when she was a small girl as to the importance of honesty. He had told her that honesty was absolutely necessary, and that it was the only way any one could get along in the world.

"Have you tried both ways, father?" she asked.

A SOLICITOUS waiter at the Century club at the Fair hovered over a party that included Mrs. D. T. Richardson of River Forest at dinner the other evening, then asked:

* *

THE manager of Old Mexico at the Fair obviously believes in the sacred inviolability of a contract to a clause. To keep in tune with the purist atmosphere he is introducing Franny Dall in "The Dance of Purity." She is 99.44 per cent pure, he points out, the fraction of impurity being accounted for by the loin cloth and brassiere.

Hadassah Tea.

The downtown district of Hadassah will hold a membership tea tomorrow afternoon at the Hadassah clubrooms, 8 South Dearborn street. Mrs. Meyer De Mar will be guest speaker.

Public School Art Society Will Benefit

One might think from the picture of Mrs. Walter S. Brewster feeding the swans on the little lake of Covin Tree, the Brewsters' Lake Forest estate, that swans were as gentle as lambs, but if the photographer had included the gardener standing behind Mrs. Brewster with a rake ready to protect her in case the swans decided to chase her, you would realize that their dispositions aren't as lovely as their appearance.

The grounds and house at Covin Tree at 776 North Green Bay road, are to be opened to the public today and tomorrow from 12:30 until 7:30 o'clock for the benefit of the Chicago Public School Art society of which Mrs. Brewster is president. Covin Tree is one of the loveliest and most interesting places in Lake Forest and the gardens and the collections of paintings will attract many lovers of nature and of art to the estate today and tomorrow.

Mrs. Brewster has arranged her gardens so that one is particularly lovely each month and the one that will be at its best just now is, of course, the June one. Mrs. Brewster describes it in an article she had published recently in an eastern magazine, as being "more staid and formal than the others. It is oblong, with a grass path through the middle, terminating in an opening that gives a view of the shallow valley beyond. In this opening, a marble trough is set, into which water drips from long gooseneck pipes. A paved walk runs around under a grape-covered trellis. . . . The flower of the grape has a delicious smell in early June. . . . The center path is edged with taxus trimmed into a low, square hedge, and behind it are straight rows of peonies. It broadens out to a square in the center with a lead statue on a brick pier in each corner, and thick bands of pallida dalmatica iris taking the place of the taxus. Valerian, anchusa, thalictrum aquilegifolium, columbines, madonna lilies, and half a dozen other plants fill the two beds. . . . Into the beds are set Bechtel's double flowering crab, grown very large. . . . The wall and the square pillars that uphold the grapevines are of pinkish-yellow rough brick."

Mrs. Brewster concludes the article on her three spring gardens thus delightfully: "These three little gardens have short lives and merry ones. They take no thought for the morrow, and get away with it. Each year, after fallow months of tranquility, they have their recurrent fling, and that is the most that is ever expected of them."

Seabury Western Grants Two Honorary Degrees

Most Houses at Lake Geneva Occupied Now

Wisconsin Resort Enjoys Loyal Following.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Fashions in practically everything change, even in summer resorts, but Lake Geneva, where fashionable Chicagoans have summered for years, maintains its place in the affections of those who have gone there for years and they never waver in their loyalty to the charming Wisconsin resort. They may go elsewhere for occasional summers—a change of scene is welcomed by every one—but once a Lake Genevan always a Lake Genevan seems to hold good with members of that summer colony.

This year almost all the houses around the lake are open already, although those families in which there are children of school age are not at the lake yet except for week-ends.

The country club, of which Albert F. Madlener Jr. is president, is inaugurating something that week-end hostesses are certain will be a boon to them and that will be great fun for every one, a cocktail party every Saturday. The first one will be given today.

Mr. and Mrs. Madlener are going up for the week-end and taking Mrs. Madlener's sister, Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., and Mr. Drake with them, so they will be at the party this evening. The junior Madleners and their children, Nancy and Frank Lowden Madlener, are going up in about ten days to spend the rest of the summer with Mr. Madlener's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Sr.

Mrs. Philip Starck will open the lovely house she and her family are occupying on the lake this summer for a sale under the auspices of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins on July 10.

Mrs. Earle Zimmermann, president of the society, and her family have opened their house on the lake and among others whose residences are occupied are the junior Daniel Peterkins, the Henry Bartholomays, the Henry H. Porters, Mrs. Frank Rehm, Mrs. Armin W. Brand, the Charles R. Cranes, the A. K. Gartzes, and the Augustus K. Maxwells. The Henry P. Ishams of Lake Forest will not go to Lake Geneva until about the first of July.

Orphans of Storm Benefit Tonight.

There will be many dinner parties in Lake Forest tonight and after dinner all the hosts and hostesses and their guests will meet at the Deerpath theater where Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin is "putting on" a benefit for her Orphans of the Storm.

Professional entertainers from several places in the city where socialites like to dine and dance and be entertained, will contribute to the program and the moving picture "Palooka" will be shown.

Here's a treatment cream for dry skins that's literally and figuratively a honey. It's made of it, and if you resist the temptation to eat it [the color and fragrance alone make you yearn for a little Melba toast to spread it on] and use it as a lubricant or "feeder" to that arid skin of yours, you'll find it miraculous.

It is primarily a treatment cream, to be smoothed in all over and particularly in the areas around the eyes where the little lines first appear. During the day it can be left on as long as convenient, but the best method when the skin is terribly dry is to leave it on overnight.

It can be used as a cleanser, but we personally prefer something a bit more speedy and a bit less expensive. The price of this scrumptious honey cream isn't exactly low, but it isn't exhorbitant for a cream of its quality that is used as sparingly as a treatment cream usually is. A jar lasts ages.

The cream is thick and rich and buttercup yellow in color. When skins reach the stage of dryness where they're flaky and drawn and altogether too much like a washboard in texture to take suavely to makeup, a few days of religious treatment with this will do wonders.

As you prepare to tumble in you can go through the usual nightly cleanup, and then smooth this rich honey mixture over the face and neck, leaving it on for the duration of your beauty sleep. It's a great skin nourisher, and there would appear to be a demand for something as effective as this. Maybe it's the drouth, but we can never remembers when dry skins were as rampant as they are at the moment.

If you're a sufferer you might try this; it is the product of a Chicago specialist. ELEANOR NANGLE.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe, studying languages and making business contacts, she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young English singer. She decides to stake him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for a special opportunity, approved by him, of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara is going to sell her car for expense money. Before turning it in she goes on a wild drive in the country and runs out of gas. A stranger who has followed her in a car takes her back to town, where she meets Jerry for dinner. The stranger, unknown to Cara, is Redman Harmer. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and use of his name.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

A MONTH OF HAPPINESS.

"If it was any one but yourself, Mr. Harmer," said Mulligan, "I wouldn't do it. And what about that?"

He looked towards the plane skeletoned in the moonlight, and Harmer, glancing at him, saw the longing in his look.

"Ever held the joystick?"

"Yep. I flew a lot when I was a little boy in the great war. That's a Silver Stringer, isn't it?"

"Yes." They walked over to the machine.

"I've flown a Silver Stringer, too," said Mulligan, "this very model. Last time I was in Calgary it was. A guy who is coming out here later on had one. He let me take a ride when we were fixing things up. Wouldn't they be surprised at Desmond's if I dropped down in that?"

"You can take her for the time," said Harmer. "I don't want her here. In fact, she's got to get out of sight."

"You don't mean it?"

"I mean everything I've said, Mulligan, and then some."

"Well, I wouldn't want to know any more, seeing it's you," said Mulligan with again his quizzical look. "I guess there's some game on, but you'll do right by me and these Follettes, and you've got Otis and two more for the horses, and the women to cook for you and look after a young lady, and perhaps I don't have to worry."

"You don't."

Mulligan looked at him again, and he thought: "There's only one thing this fellow wants and he's out to get it. There's nothing on this earth for him beside that." Aloud he said: "Well, then . . . I'll leave the machine at your own place in Montreal, Mr. Harmer, in a month's time, or five weeks. My old mother lives in Montreal. Very old lady now. I ought to see her."

"All right."

They smoked in silence.

"The horses are a good lot," said Mulligan. "There is Jessie I always have for the summer from the storekeeper on Swan lake, and two I bought from a trader who came in to meet me with them, Bill and Buck. Bill's a bit on the mean side."

Then he went on: "You'll be used to running the camp by the time they come. They'll be at Swan lake—let's see—in ten days' time. It'll be a nice ride for the young lady, taking it slow, and getting some geese and some trout and whitefish on the way, maybe. You and me can have a few days here together, Mr. Harmer, while you get things sized up, and I can try that machine of yours, eh?"

"That's so. By the way, if I want your name among other things, how about your boys here?"

"They don't know me from Adam—except Otis may remember," Mulligan said. "A man's got a way of remembering folks when he sees so few as we see here. But I'll fix him. You'll be Danny Mulligan all right."

Curious how swiftly and simply these isolated men of the wilds sized a man up, valued him, trusted him—if they did trust—even with a name! Danny Mulligan's name was precious to him, and rightly so. Harmer knew it. He put out a hand, and Mulligan shot out his fist, hard as hide, and they clinched the promise with a mighty grip.

"Mind you," said the hunter, "I'm not asking. You observe it. Not a thing. But what you wanter tell me when the time's up, I'll be glad to hear. Just whatever it is."

"I shall, maybe, tell you then, Dan."

Now the days went quickly for Harmer while he a little reorganized the domesticity of the camp to his liking. It was a good camp, even so far into the wilds, stout log cabins in a pine clearing, with the lake full of fine gamey fish practically at its back door, just escaping the reservation lands, and trees and flowers at their first full beauty. There were a lot of duck and wild geese, deer, moose and caribou, and Harmer hoped to get a grizzly.

There came the morning when Mulligan took off in the Silver Stringer, rose perfectly, circled over the camp, and headed in a straight line east, over forest and prairie, river and lake for Desmond's camp on Hudson bay, and soon was swallowed up in the silence and the distance.

And he knew that he was setting out on the most incalculable effort of his life. But this strange and magnificent madness had seized him, excluding all others save Cara, so that already he pictured them as primitive man and woman together in this great, green, powerful world.

Cara did not say good-by to Jerry Flint. It was he who suggested that way over the telephone the morning after they had dined together at the Sheraton, and she told him of the impending exile. "Easier for both of us," he said. "And anyhow, who knows?"

Cara and her father had a long talk together on the night before she took the train for the west.

"Think fairly," he said in a quiet, tired voice. "Think squarely, Cara. I'm honest with you, even now. If I'd ever imagined marriage meaning much of a thing in your life, I'd not have the audacity to ask you what I'm asking. But we've never featured marriage as any big milestone in your career. Have we? Hasn't it been Follette's, first and last? Of course, I didn't expect you to give up the experience of—of wifehood and motherhood if you wanted it. For what a woman rather thinks its worth," he added with a one sided smile, and went on: "You'd have a son, I always thought, after it seemed I was not to have one of my own. But——"

"I know," she murmured.

"You'll try to consider whether after all there's anything against just meeting Harmer—just meeting him—I'll take your decision without a word about the rest."

She nodded.

"I wish you were coming out with me. Do you good."

"I've got to stay, my girl. Keep off the wolf, and the spies. It's the spies that are the worst."

"Father!"

"Well, what?"

"You're not getting an obsession?"

"An obsession?" he repeated slowly, ironically.

"Because you mustn't!"

He pulled himself together. "Don't dare to think your old dad's brain is failing. It isn't. I promise to do my best."

"And I promise," she whispered, "to do mine."

She had her half of the two thousand dollars from the sale of her car in her handbag, less the price of her railroad ticket. She had her own gun and rod, the new waders, swimming suit, hard fibered trousers to tuck into high boots, riding breeches, vivid boy's shirts, leather gauntlets, tough short skirt and sweaters, and a couple of sleeveless white cotton frocks she had been wearing last summer. No more save the bib-and-shorts outfits of Hamburg memory.

"All that rough stuff," Anny said, trailing into her daughter's suite, on her way out to dinner in a marvelous red gown. "Do you expect to be happy in it?"

"Then you'll come back and save the family?" said Anny in a voice devoid of expression.

"Cara. That singing boy. Don't regret him."

"Then don't mention him!"

It was a cry from the heart. Anny pulled her fashionably skimpy red wrap over her attenuated red gown and trailed out,

BY MARY MEADE.

Playing about in the kitchen the other day I turned up an odd little stunt which I wonder have you tried. My desire of the moment was for a cheese sauce for hard cooked, sliced eggs which I proposed to bring forth on buttered slices of hot toast. But there was no cheese in the house.

So, necessity mothering invention, I proceeded to make cheese sauce without cheese! My ingredients were simply cheese crackers, milk, butter, and seasonings. The crackers were some of those wee affairs, about the size of an overgrown postage stamp, but twice as much fun to lick. The manner of making was this:

2 cups milk
2 teaspoons butter
¾ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
Dash of paprika

Roll the crackers with a rolling pin until finely crushed. Do this on a large paper and slide them into the top of a double boiler. Add the other ingredients, stirring well, and cook over boiling water until the sauce thickens.

Easy, no? And not only is this cheese sauce an epic when slathered knowingly over hard cooked eggs, but it is the perfect flatterer for many fishes, vegetable dishes, and such little items as potato croquettes and scalloped creations. For this last merely lay down the sauce generously between more layers of fish, meat, or vegetables. Sprinkle the top of the casserole dish with more crumbled cheese crackers, dot with butter, and bake until hot and well cooked and until the crown of crackers is crisp and browned.

Now, quite to change the subject, have you discovered the latest use they're making of cod liver oil? Formerly we've applauded it for its ability to prevent or cure rickets in children and to hasten convalescence from infectious diseases. And now it turns up as a dressing for wounds!

This news comes as a science service report from Berlin. It seems that this new use was discovered by Prof. Lohr, who for three years has been working with thousands of cases at the hospital in Magdeburg, Germany. Dr. Lohr believes that, combined with other fats to make a semi-solid ointment, cod liver oil speeds up the healing of wounds. Whether this speedy healing is the result of the higher concentration of vitamins A and D in the oil, the work hasn't yet entirely proved, although Dr. Lohr feels it to be a possibility. However, we are warned, this new ointment is not a panacea and should be used only in selected cases under a physician's orders, not indiscriminately.

Another matter over which we sometimes come to grief is this business of electrical beating. June brides plus their first mechanical beaters too often equal buttery cream, powdery egg whites, and grainy fudge. So here are a few tips on the matter.

Cream can be whipped to perfection with an electrical beater, but a girl must remember that it takes much less time than when done by hand. So keep a wary eye on the cream as it whips. Start the beater at low speed and gradually increase it to second. It takes but a minute or a minute and a half to whip mechanically a half pint of cream.

When fudge is the matter of concern a change in cooking time is called for. When fudge or any of its cousin candies are to be beaten with the mechanical whip cook it to a somewhat softer ball or to a few degrees less in temperature than otherwise would be the case. The beater's high speed has a mean little way of crystallizing candies if this precaution is not heeded.

Very sad results may happen if egg whites for cakes or frostings are beaten beyond the "stiff" stage and carried into the "dry" consistency. For when this occurs all the elasticity is taken from the whites. Later when they reach the oven there is no more stretch left in them and the bubbles break, giving a dry, meager sized cake.

ever, will be the showing of Mrs. McLaughlin's screen test, a scene from "Biography" taken recently in Hollywood. As Irene Castle this versatile woman appeared in several silent movies some years ago but apparently she doesn't intend to try to stage a come back in talkies for the salmon pink dodgers that announced tonight's benefit carried the line "will be shown here for the first and only time."

Benefit Dance at Skokie Club.

At the Skokie club in Glencoe there will be a gay dancing party tonight for the benefit of the nursery school at Gads Hill center. A group of Winnetka and Evanston women have arranged the party and there will be numerous cocktail and dinner parties all along the north shore before the dance. Mrs. James Waller Marshall is chairman of the committee.

The largest of the pre-nuptial parties for Miss Louise Neff and William M. Collins Jr. is being given tonight by Mr. Collins' sisters and brothers-in-law, the junior Robert J. Grafs and the Paul McNultys. About fifty guests have been invited to the Tavern for a dinner dance. Mr. Collins and Miss Neff will be married Tuesday afternoon in the apartment of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, the Solomon B. Smiths.

The William E. Grahams are giving a dinner at the Saddle and Cycle tonight for two attractive young men—foreigners—who are in Chicago for a few days. The guests are Robert Grosjean and Paul Philippson of Brussels and they arrived here with letters of introduction to the Grahams from Mr. Grosjean's father, with whom the former Jane Lee and her husband crossed the ocean on their honeymoon three years ago.

Daniel Leonards Hold Open House.

In their comfortable little cottage on Green Bay road, Lake Forest, the Daniel Leonards are holding open house to a host of their friends tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Leonard's cousins, the Arthur Leonards, are expected up from Wilmington, Ill., for the occasion.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen is boarding a train at noon today, leaving Chicago for her Bar Harbor home. Her daughter, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, who also has a Bar Harbor home, will not be going east until July 1, because two of her sons want to come on from Groton to see the Fair. They are Edward Blair, who is in the graduating class, and Bowen Blair. William Jr., who is also at Groton, is not coming west, because he has the more important interest on hand of driving to Rye to participate in the international tennis tournaments being held there shortly. He will join his mother and brothers at Bar Harbor.

A wedding in Stockbridge, Mass., today has taken W. Irving Osborne out of town for the week-end. The wedding is that of Miss Imogene Louise Perkins to Robbins Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Clark Miller of St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Miller was a classmate at Yale of Mr. Osborne, who will be an usher at the wedding.

Nelson Thomassons to Go East Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thomasson will be leaving today for their country home at Oakland, Md., accompanied by their third son, Norton. A house party in Baltimore will detain Nelson Jr., who will be a senior next fall at Princeton, until Monday, when he will join his family for the summer.

Gardiner Thomasson, however, will juggle "weenies" and buns in company with young Charles Dering and Bradford Ripley at a hot dog stand in the Fair this summer.

Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw and her daughter Theodora are settling down to a summer in their Lake Forest home with the John T. McCutcheons. Far away from the beaten path of touristry, the Shaws spent 71 days aboard a freighter, and just one day on shore, on their voyage which ended Thursday. Their voyage with the ship's cargo [for the reloading and unloading formed their only traveling schedule] took them over the Mediterranean and Ægean seas, with short stops at Constantinople, Athens, and six ports in Spain.

Just in time for the arrival of their 18 months old granddaughter, the John Sheppard Stones have hastily converted one room of their home into a nursery. Little Mary Dana arrived Thursday with her mother, Mrs. Eliot P. Goss of Waterbury, Conn., for a several weeks' visit. It is expected that the playroom will be a mecca for many of Mary Dana's new little friends—and not only on rainy days. Mr. Goss expects to join his family the end of June.

The Sidney Gorhams (Corinne McVoy) left last night for Kohler, Wis., for the christening of two weeks old Perry Kohler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Kohler Jr. The baby's mother is the former Celeste McVoy Holden and his grandfather is ex-Gov. Kohler of Wisconsin. Miss Jean McVoy recently has returned from a cruise in the southern hemisphere.

Hollywood

The Exhibitors:

Hollywood, Cal., June 8.—There have been some requests for a column on those curt criticisms of the small town theater owners. These exhibitors conduct their own department in the Motion Picture Herald and their comments tell plenty about the picture business.

These exhibitors' remarks are supposed to be trade secrets and a few in the flicker industry believe they should remain so. However, those reports throw the spotlight on what happens to pictures after they leave the big towns and the fans seem interested.

"Eight Girls in a Boat" is now playing the independent theaters, and C. M. Hartman of the Liberty theater, Carnegie, Okla., has this to say:

"Another of those I'm gonna have a baby stories. Ran it one day and that was two too many. Can't they make pictures any more without the line, 'I'm gonna have a baby?'"

A. B. Jeffries of the new Piedmont theater of Piedmont, Mo., writes of "Alice in Wonderland": "My wife and I were the only ones who enjoyed this. Read reports that it was a flop, so I got the Literary club to sponsor it."

An exhibitor tells about "I Believed in You" rather briefly: "Just so many reels of film. If you find any one who likes it let me know." It seems that whenever a flicker doesn't do the business expected the exhibitor gets very moral and complains about the dirt in it. All the reports on "It Happened One Night" contain nothing but praise: The customers enjoyed it and it did good business. The exhibitor writes: "It is good, clean, wholesome entertainment."

Concerning the flicker, "Before Midnight," with June Collyer and Ralph Bellamy, which was made principally for the neighborhood theaters, Edward L. Ornstein of the Vernon theater, Mount Vernon, Ky., makes this report: "This one should have been played 'after midnight.' My broken arm has a better cast than this one."

An amazing fact is that a picture made twenty-two years ago is still playing theaters, on the state rights market, and doing fine business.

It was the first big feature picture made. It was one of the first pictures to be exhibited on Broadway twice daily. It is still drawing them in, playing opposition to the latest talkies. The picture that made film history and still is, is "The Birth of a Nation."

Sound effects have been dubbed in and J. E. Ross Jr. of the Strand theater, St. George, S. C., writes: "It is still pulling in the motion picture public. Some of the scenes in the first two reels look funny because of the action, but after seeing about four reels you don't notice the difference."

"Queen Christina," as you have been informed, is not going good throughout the country. Here is a report from Exhibitor Robert K. Yancey of Cotter, Ark., who has this to say: "The first from Garbo in two years and I hope she waits three years to make the next one. Did a little above film rental, but very little. Every one gave me the razz the next day and that didn't do the next day's business any good."

Art Institute Makes Awards at Graduation

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The commencement exercises of the Art institute art school were held yesterday afternoon in the Goodman theater. The address, amusing and constructive, was delivered by Chauncey McCormick on "Eyes to See," a subject that reminds one of the great amount of spiritual blindness there is rampant in art circles. Seeing eye to eye, for example, has been something of a job in the modernist era. Mr. McCormick cleared a wide horizon for the spectator.

Several important fellowships were announced. The Edward L. Ryerson Traveling Fellowship of $2,500 was given to John Szynalik, who for several years has been exhibiting under the family name of Jan Fabian. He won the William Clusmann prize for painting in 1931 at the institute. Mr. Szynalik plans to go abroad on July 6 to represent the work of Poles in America at the National Polish conference in Warsaw. Later he will study under a famous European sculptor.

The James Nelson Raymond Foreign Travel Fellowship of $2,000 was awarded to Fukuo Kunai of Honolulu. Mr. Kunai will spend his time in the orient and eventually return to America by way of Europe.

The Anna Louise Raymond Foreign Travel Fellowship of $1,500 was won by Thomas Daly of Chicago, who expects to visit Italy, Germany, the Netherlands and Paris. The John Quincy Adams Traveling Fellowship of $1,500 was awarded to Herbert Longnecker of Olean, New York. He is planning his foreign study along much the same lines as Mr. Daly. Honorable mention was awarded to Millard Rogers.

Among the smaller prizes the Frederick Magnus Brand Memorial awards for composition went to Kenneth Becker, Gibson Danes, Glen Krause, Lester Raymer and Byron Ward.

A Fan Wants Bing Crosby in Short Reelers

Crooner Undecided About the Big Idea.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 8.—[Special.]—Bing Crosby may accept it as a compliment if he wants to. A movie fan sent a letter to Crosby's studio addressed: "Colossal ideas department." The letter was a suggestion that Bing Crosby be used in short subjects instead of singing his way through feature length films.

MISS O'SULLIVAN.

For the sixth time Maureen O'Sullivan has canceled her return voyage to Ireland. She has to play a lead with Bob Montgomery in "Hide-Out," Bob being the gangster who secretes himself on the farm and is won to new ways by the farmer's daughter and the scent of new mown hay.

Baby LeRoy Winebrenner joins the growing list of movie celebrities broadcasting over national networks on Sunday. The 2 year old will have his voice relayed to New York.

In spite of Irvin Cobb's qualms about his debut as a movie actor, Hal Roach, who just returned from an Alaskan yachting trip, saw Cobb's first two reeler at the Roach comedy studio and laughed the plump author into a more optimistic frame of mind. The film, which is the first of Cobb's eight short reelers, is titled "Speaking of Relations," and Benny Baker, Lou Holtz's ex-stooge, plays Cobb's nephew, while Cobb and Frank Darien are a couple of anti-working retired river steamboat men. Roach and Cobb may appear in a full length film.

M. G. M. announces receipt of further favorable reports about Marie Dressler's physical condition and is preparing her next film, Mary Roberts Rinehart's story, "Tish," for filming next month. Miss Dressler is under treatment in Santa Barbara.

Colin Clive, who is starting a Warner contract, has directed his wife, the French actress, Jeanne de Cassalis, to come on from Europe and make Hollywood her home.

Dolores Del Rio is to return to the locale of her own country for her next starring vehicle, "Caliente," about an exotic dancer who becomes the sensation at the Agua Caliente resort. Strangely, this is a Warner film, but it will feature Agua Caliente, which is operated under supervision of Movie Magnate Joe Schenck, a Warner competitor.

Jean Gale, one of the Wampas baby stars, has signed a $125 a week contract with Mascot pictures. She is 19 years old and will be on hand when the baby stars appear at the annual convention of the Mystic Shrine in Minneapolis the week of June 18, followed by appearances in Chicago starting June 22. Three other of the baby stars, Lucille Lund, Hazel Hayes, and Dorothy Drake, have been signed by B. P. Schulberg, at Paramount studio, as a result of the baby stars' appearance in "Kiss and Make Up."

Sydney Waud to Wed Isabel Morrell Today

A wedding of interest to Chicagoans that is taking place in Morristown, N. J., today is that of Miss Isabel Palmer Morrell, daughter of the Clarence P. Morrells of that city, to Sydney Peyster Waud, son of the Ernest P. Wauds of East Delaware place.

The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the Church of the Redeemer and will be followed by a reception at the Morrell home. There will be three Chicagoans in the bridal party—Mrs. John I. Shaw [Barbara King], a bridesmaid, and John W. Brittingham and Mason B. Wells, who will usher.

The bride will wear traditional white satin made with a square neck, long sleeves, and a long train, and orange blossoms will join the tulle veil to her Juliet cap of tulle. She will carry gardenias.

Morrison Waud will serve his brother as best man. Mr. Waud and his bride will be at home after June 20 at 23 East Division street. They are not having a long wedding trip now because Mr. Waud can't be away from medical school. In August, when he has his vacation, they will take a six weeks' trip.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won twenty national championships since 1924.

RESPONDING TO ONE NO TRUMP.

In the last two articles I explained why the responding partner may make a suit take-out with a weak suit in a weak hand, provided that suit consists of not less than five cards. I stressed the fact that this was permissible because an avenue of retreat is provided when the opening bidder is not strong enough to bid for game in no trumps after he has been warned of great weakness in the responding hand.

How the Warning is Given.

By bidding a suit in reply to a no trump, the partner is not giving a complete message, far from it. He is only informing the opener that his hand is not weak enough to pass nor strong enough to justify a jump take-out in a suit or a raise in no trumps. He is showing a biddable suit, which may be of only four cards, and promises to convey a second and much more explicit description of his hand on the next round of bidding. Generally the opener rebids to two no trumps. Now the duties of the responding player are clear.

First. With a hand containing no five-card suit, he must either bid the other major suit [if his holdings in it is biddable] or bid three no trumps. When there is a choice between these two rebids of the hand, he will be guided by his distribution and the factors considered in recent articles.

Second. With a five-card suit, if the opener bids two no trumps over the first take-out, the responder should now bid three no trumps if his hand is not of minimum strength, and he desires the hand to play for game in no trumps even though the opener's hand is approximately a minimum no trumper—three and a half primary tricks.

Third. If the responding hand is so weak that he fears for the safety or reasonable game-going chance of a three no trump contract, when his first take-out is overcalled by the opener with two no trumps, he must rebid his suit. This is a warning of real weakness; the opener must respect it and pass unless his own hand is strong enough, and apparently sufficiently strengthened by the dummy's suit, to make a game contract in no trumps a reasonable risk, with no danger of a serious penalty if the contract cannot be made. The rebid of the suit proclaims the suit as weak and the hand as weak. It does definitely announce that the suit consists of not less than five cards, but the rest of the message is entirely negative. Apprehension and despondency are inherent in the suit rebid, and the opening bidder must accept full responsibility if he nevertheless chooses the bolder course of contracting for game in no trumps in preference to the comparative safety of a contract for three in the suit.

Fourth. With two five-card suits, both biddable, we are no longer concerned with a minimum holding in the responding hand. I will discuss the bidding of these hands in an early article, also that of a suit of 6 or more cards in the responding hand.

For the present purpose, I wish to stress the fact that a rebid of his suit by the responding player is a warning of weakness both as regards the suit and also as regards the hand. This is our way of avoiding the predicament situation which is the snag over which many systems stumble blindly on close hands.

My idea is that after the rebid of the suit, the opening no trump bidder should say to himself, "I can rely on my partner only for Q x x x x in his suit and an outside King, possibly a Jack somewhere. Will this give me a play for three no trumps?" The answer he finds to his own question will decide him to pass or bid the no trump game. Sims no trumpers are in principle so strong that the opener may incline to optimism in a close decision. As you will learn tomorrow, it is moreover possible for the responder to hold a little more than the minimum as described above, and still rebid his suit as a warning. All minimums are not necessarily "absolute minimums."

Reading Helps Child Broaden His Experience

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

If you've just been taking a long railroad journey and having conversations with the engaging engineer and conductor of the dining room-chair-through-express you'll be interested in this extract from a letter:

"I do wonder if you know two grand books about trains for small boys—or girls. They are "The Train Book," by William Clayton Pryor, published by Harcourt-Brace and "The Engineer," by Charlotte Kuh—Macmillan company, publisher.

"Your recent article about the value of trips made me think of these books. Ever since we returned from the seashore last summer Robert has been an engineer—occasionally he'll condescend to be conductor, fireman, porter, or waiter—and these two books which were among those we gave him for Christmas are a constant joy to him."

To come across the familiar thing—the thing you know and love in a picture or a book is a delight. It may be a cathedral you saw in France, or a village in Italy, a beautiful house in New Orleans, or one of the buildings of the World's Fair. To children it is as great pleasure to find between the covers of a book, pictures or stories of the things or animals or places that they know.

Besides bringing pleasure to them, these discoveries make books live things to them and are also educational. To supplement your children's trips with books is an excellent plan. In addition to the books on trains [for the quite young] we have other suggestions. Also if you need something to fit in with just walking about the city streets or with a visit to the waterfront we have still further books to suggest with low prices.

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

For outdoor trips, handbooks are almost a necessity. If you need help then, send for our booklist for young naturalists, and please include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. If you want the other book suggestions, please enclose extra postage, as some lists are long.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—A black dress with white details and white accessories is still the first choice of the fashionable Parisienne for something to wear all day long. Any day at the races, when it is not too hot, you will see some of the most famous women wearing this combination. White jackets, too, are worn over black frocks, though they are less popular than those of black and white printed silk.

The Lelong dress shown here is the choice of Comtesse Antonin de Mun for runabout wear. It is made of black silk crêpe and has a tiny white piqué collar and white piqué lining to the loop that gives a draped effect to the blouse front. This loop is held by two gold arrows, and a gold arrow replaces a buckle on the simple belt.

The way the sleeves are set into the blouse, in a square over the shoulders, is important to its chic, and so are the imitation cuffs that are part of the sleeves.

The skirt has a low-set front panel that gives it Lelong's famous "forward sweep." The small hat, the bag, and the gloves are made of white pique. The unusual slippers are made of the same black crêpe as the frock.

Office Worker, Smoker Require Good Eye Wash

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

They used to advise that it were better to leave the eyes alone and not go trying out this wash and that on them. But that was before girls got the smoking habit. It was before women went in so largely for jobs at desks with continued, eight hour eye use. Things are different, as grandmère says. In some ways much better, for no one ever hears of putting belladonna in eyes today to brighten them for a party, a common practise, we're told, in earlier days. Then, in the old days, there was a great deal of fine needlework practised, which today's eyes are spared. However, we have our own eye troubles, at that.

The smoking business counts up a lot of eye-blurring. The average smoke filled, small, badly ventilated dancing place of today's popularity, sends many a weary eye home nights, with a stinging, smarting sensation. It has been said, by those who ought to know, that the constant smoking by a private individual has a deleterious effect on the eyes eventually.

We do know for a fact that this continued application of eyes over a period of hours daily at a desk, say, is cruel and inhuman treatment. There should be rest period lapses when the person walks to the window and look out upon the horizon.

Since eyes, with all their makeup popularity, are regaining their place as first attractions, it would be wise for both smokers and intense workers to treat themselves nightly to an eyewash. For the workers I recommend a simple old formula, recommended by an eye specialist. Simply add a teaspoonful of table salt to a pint of warm water, and wash out the eyes with this. A pledget of cotton, dipped in quite warm water, and laid on the lid is relaxing to the strained muscles. Follow with a cold water rinse and you do something for the tired eyes. After long exposure in the sun or long exposure to wind, wring out a washcloth in hot water and apply to lids, applying cold water afterward. You must get and keep the eyes brightened if you want to use shadow and eyelash coloring. Otherwise, the effect is "haggish," as you know.

Mate Has Right to Continue His Pre-Marital Ties

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Why do women raise such a hubbub if their husbands show the least inclination to keep up with old pre-marriage friendships?

You will have to tell us, Married Women. The men don't understand your attitude nor do some of us of your own sex.

We're not talking about keeping up a correspondence with an old flame, understand. We wouldn't take that any too philosphically, either, being of the old natural-reaction school instead of modern minded. But, Lordy, if a man wants to keep up with his old school pals back home, and keep track of the boys with whom he hung around nights, what on earth is there to complain about in that?

Perhaps it is because June is young at her marriage that she gets to thinking things about her failure to keep up interest.

But news of his former friends are necessary to his happiness, June. He's that kind of person. And it's a nice trait, we think, one you might well encourage instead of trying to destroy. Anyway, it isn't the business of a wife to set out to try to break up all the old ties. It isn't smart of her if she has the kind of man who has to have interests. You can't isolate a man just because he did you the honor of asking you to marry him.

Here is another example of the well known nine-patch block that dates from the opening years of the nineteenth century. Ardmore, Pa., June 8.—Robert Allen Cruickshank, a mite of a man who first blinked upon the mists of Scotland 40 years ago come November, is the biggest guy at the Merion Cricket club tonight, the eve of the last 36 holes of the United States open golf championship.

Wee Bobby, who claims he's 5 feet 4 inches tall if he stands up real straight, today shot a 71, one over par, his second of the tournament, for a two-round total of 142 and a three stroke lead over the field of amateurs and professionals battling here for the most valuable prize of all golfdom. Cruickshank, who is professional at the country club of Richmond, Va., wrought today's 71 as though he were playing in a Sunday morning foursome, and had a perfect playing partner for the lark in the carefree Leo Diegel, who caught the idea immediately and shot himself a 71 to keep Bobby company.

An Old Experience.

The idea of being so close to stealing the big show is no thrill in the doughty little Scot's life. Once, back there at Inwood in 1923, he shot a 296 in the regulation 72 holes, but so did another Bobby, Jones by name. When the playoff was over, the Jones boy had won with a 76 to Cruickshank's 78. Then again at Fresh Meadow, two years ago, Cruickshank sat in the locker room confident that his 72-hole score, identical with that of Phil Perkins, would at least admit him to the playoff for the title. Somebody then dashed in and brought the tidings that neither Cruickshank nor Perkins need bother, since a man named Sarazen had just come home to win the championship with a record score.

That same Sarazen, tight lipped as ever, rode into second place today with a 72, which, added to his first round 73, gave him a 36-hole total of 145, an ideal position for a Sarazen finish. There is no mistaking the New York Italian's intention of adding this year's crown to those he wore in 1922 and 1932, on the basis of his first two rounds.

Amateur Near Top.

Wiffy Cox of Brooklyn, who, with Charley Lacey of Great Neck, N. Y., tied Cruickshank at the end of the first eighteen holes, slipped back into third place today with a 75 for a 146.

Back of the three leaders come an amateur and three professionals, the

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

CHICAGO probably can claim more sports champions than any other city. . . . In professional football we have the Bears. . . . In hocky the Blackhawks. . . . In boxing the lightweight, welterweight and junior welterweight champion, Barney Ross. . . . In amateur boxing the international Golden Gloves team. . . . In women's national golf, Virginia Van Wie. . . . In tennis, George Lott of the Davis Cup team. . . . In professional golf, Horton Smith, winner of the Masters' tournament at Augusta, Ga. . . . In amateur golf, Jack Westland of the Walker Cup team. . . . In baseball we have two of the game's leading hitters, Al Simmons and Chuck Klein. . . . If the Cubs only will do something about that world pennant we shall be in pretty fair shape. . . . A New York bookmaker stands to lose $22,000 if Paul Runyan or Denny Shute wins the National Open golf tournament, so heavy was the betting on the pair. . . .

Glenn Thistlethwaite attributes the poor showing of Notre Dame and Ohio State football teams the last few years to a superabundance of material. . . . What a laugh Elmer Layden must get out of that when he looks over those 1934 linesmen. . . . Eddie Long, who managed Sammy Mandell and Bud Taylor when they were the most popular boxers of the day, is serving as business manager of the Western-Devon stadium where he is associated with Sam Ambruscato, Chicago's youngest promoter. . . . Hal Trosky, Cleveland's slugging first baseman, was known as Tarzan in the American association last year, but the handle was dropped when Trosky made a radio plea to reporters and announcers, declaring "Maw don't like that Tarzan stuff". . . . Hank O'Day, former National league umpire, is in the Presbyterian hospital for observation. . . . Slip Madigan, football coach at St. Mary's of Moraga, Cal., will leave Chicago for New York today to clean up details of the 1934 game with Fordham. . . .

Harrison Technical High school won its first City league baseball title several years ago when Ed Ruzicka was pitching. . . . It won its second title a week ago when Ed Ruzicka was coaching. . . . Al Jolson, one of the country's most enthusiastic Golden Gloves fans, tried to bet at least five g's on Barney Ross, a Golden Gloves alumnus, to win from Jimmy McLarnin, but he got down less than a thousand. . . . Jolson and his wife, Ruby Keeler, are taking the Panama canal route to New York where they will attend the Carnera-Baer fight. . . . The New York Giants' professional football team has signed a 232 pound tackle unencumbered by college education. . . . They got him out of a coal mine in the Pennsylvania mountains and his name is Knuckles Boyle. . . . Weenie Wilson, Illinois freshman football coach, will spend the summer in charge of a boys' bus tour to the west. . . .

Lawson Little is trying desperately to conquer the British accent he acquired while playing golf in England before he returns to his native San Francisco. . . . William Grant, president of the American Hocky association, has charge of the Greyhound Bus Lines at A Century of Progress Exposition. . . . Twelve hocky players from his league are in his employ. . . . According to Gabby Street, former manager of the Cardinals and now leader of the San Francisco Missions, a ball player might as well go into some other line if he doesn't make good after three years in the minor leagues. . . . Al Thomas, 80 year old Springfield, Ill., harness horse driver competing in the Chicago Trotting club meeting, was one of the first to pace a race with a stop watch. . . .

Managers like to have a fighting ball club, but it didn't work out so well for the Dodgers in 1933. . . . They paid three-quarters of the player fines assessed in the National league, but they finished 26 games out of first place. . . . Fighting the umpires may not be the short cut to success after all. . . . Mrs. Dizzy Dean insists on traveling with the Cardinals' ace pitcher in the interest of economy. . . . She says it is cheaper than having Dizzy call her long distance every night. . . . Frankie Frisch batted cross-handed when he reported to the Giants from Fordham. . . . Jimmy Thomson of Los Angeles, husband of Viola Dana, movie actress, regarded as the longest driver in golf, walked up to a New York bookmaker the day before the national open golf tournament began and said: "What's the price on Thomson?". . . . The bookie, who didn't know Jimmy, said: "Who?". . . . "Thomson, Jimmy Thomson," and the bookie came back with "O, write your own ticket on him, say 100 to 1". . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Sammy Mandell, the Rockford Flash, decisively defeated Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight champion, in a ten round bout at East Chicago. . . . Harry Wills whipped Bartley Madden in fifteen rounds in New York. . . . Howard Ehmke pitched the Red Sox back into first place by defeating the White Sox, 5 to 1. . . . Rookie Lewis Wilson's triple enabled the Giants to beat the Pirates, 6 to 4.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 8.—Indiana university, led by Charley Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua, won the ninth annual central intercollegiate track and field meet tonight at Marquette stadium. The Hoosiers, by winning four events, including the mile relay, which ended the program, beat out their hosts, Marquette, 32 points to 30.

Notre Dame, which tied with Marquette in winning three events, placed fourth in the final standings with 22¾ points, beaten out by Michigan State, winner of the indoor central intercollegiate meet. Michigan State scored 24 points.

Seven records were established and as a result the all-time marks for the intercollegiates, already of high standard, now are equal to any conference marks in the central states.

9,000 Attend Fast Meet.

Another record was broken—nine thousand turned out for the meet. They gathered long before 8, o'clock in the concrete stands; saw the inaugural parade of athletes and officials, led by the Milwaukee American Legion drum and bugle corps and band, and then witnessed a meet which was handled so efficiently that it required only two hours.

Until the mile relay Marquette led Indiana, 30 to 27. In a vain effort to score in the last event Marquette entered a team to compete against Notre Dame, Indiana, Michigan State, and Wisconsin, but the pace was too fast. At the end of the third lap Marquette had been outdistanced and Metcalfe, who had intended to run anchor—it would have been his fifth race of the meet—was not called upon.

Hoosiers Win Handily.

The Hoosier quartet of Harpold, Bicking, Hornbostel, and Fuqua won handily from Notre Dame, with Michigan State and Wisconsin finishing third and fourth, respectively. By this triumph Indiana won the team championship.

Low hurdles—Amsden Oliver, Miami, :23.7.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR Wake: Back in the '60s we boys who sold newspapers got them as they came from the press, flat and unfolded. There were THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Times, and Inter Ocean. Of course we had to fold our own papers, then get out on the streets to sing the extra papers. Many a time when the war news was exciting we could get 10 to 25 cents for the paper, although the regular price then was 5 cents. W. F.

About 1860-'65, A. Booth, oyster and fresh fish market, was located at the northwest corner of Dearborn and Madison. Next door north was the S. B. Cobb block. In the basement of one of the stores was a beer joint with a cheap variety show.

On the southwest corner was O. Kendall's cracker bakery. R. R. Donnelley afterward had his pressroom in the basement. West on Washington was the Academy of Music, with Kelly and Leon minstrels. About this time Billy Arlington came here and they became Arlington, Kelly, and Leon's minstrels. 1853.

I wonder if any Helpers remember back in the early days of the civil war when the young folks played what they called "Grace Hoops."

Two hoops about the size of a dinner plate, decorated with fancy wrappings, and two sticks like drumsticks for each player. The players stood opposite and tossed the hoops back and forth in a very graceful manner. I remember seeing my elder sister, then 16 years old, and her beau playing the game. They were quite adept.

Dust.

"O ho, do you know then what dust is?"
Is it made from the eyebrows of kings,
Or the faded leaf of a long dead rose,
Or the film of a dragon fly's wings?
Long has it buried a temple deep,
Long has it held a lost city in sleep;
It has toyed with the root of a desert flower,
It has rocked on the tip of a wind swept tower;
On a wavelet flowed, on a leaflet glowed,
That has shaded my lady's bower.

Dust, faint dust, long centuries old;
Dust, dear dust, from a hearthstone cold;
Golden in sunlight, violet at dawn,
Dancing with daffodils gray on the lawn;
Dust of the apple tree—Eden's far fame,
Dust of the dove that to Noah's ark came;
Food of the ivy, pest of the maid,
A substance, a shadow, a ghost never laid;
Atom mysterious, messenger free,
Its origin tells not, nor far destiny.

O ho, would you know then what dust is?
Though occasion swift semblance may bar,
From the heights comes assurance a-whisper,

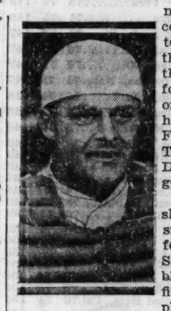
TIGERS HAMMER EARNSHAW; BEAT WHITE SOX, 13-5

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—Our White Sox this afternoon continued to find major league competition much too severe for their purposes as they took their fourth spanking of the year at the hands of Fred Firpo Marberry. The score was: Detroit, 13; Chicago, 5.



EDWARD MADJESKI

George Earnshaw was the starting pitcher for the White Sox, but was blasted out in the fifth and was replaced by Gallivan. George wasn't much of a pitcher, as witness the fact that two of the Tigers' first five runs were scored on two wild pitches and four base thefts were executed on his langorous windup.

Madjeski Drives In Three Runs.

The first three Chicago runs were driven in by Eddie Madjeski, the first two in the fourth inning with a homer and the third with a single following a double by Joe Chamberlin. The Sox failed to score after loading the bases in the third and fifth innings. In the seventh, when the Tigers were leading, 10 to 3, the Sox loaded the bases with none out and this time managed to eke out one run, driven in by a fly ball.

Later on, by reason of diversion perhaps, Harry Kinzy, late of dear old Texas Christian, was brought in. He bowed nicely and the Tigers presented him with a three run pasting by way of acknowledging his presence.

It was the eighth licking the tailenders have taken at the hands of the Tigers in ten games and the seventh setback in their last eight games in American league competition. The outcome kept the Detroiters at the top of the American league by a margin of one game over the revived New York Yankees.

Tigers Score Early.

One was out in the Tiger first before the Detroiters started to progress. Cochrane walked and went to third on Goslin's single to center. Gehringer also singled to center scoring Cochrane and putting Goslin on third. Gehringer stole second and Rogell filed to Swanson. Goslin scored and Gehringer reached third on a wild pitch, after which Greenberg fanned.

BABE HERMAN MAKES HOMER, TWO DOUBLES

Poor Base Running Hurts Chances.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Despite some heroic acts by Floyd [Babe] Herman yesterday the Cubs were not able to show a profit in their dealings with the basement dwelling Cincinnati Reds. The mild mannered visitors appeared to be all set to accept another beating, but they rose up with unexpected vigor in the sixth. Three runs went across while they were engaged in this splurge and that was enough to assure them victory by 4 to 3. It was the Reds' tenth triumph of the year, three of which have been contributed by the charitable Cubs.

Babe Herman's contributions were so numerous that the 12,000 noisy women guests and 6,000 who paid didn't have time to devote any greetings to the other boys. The Babe won them over in the first inning when, with a mate on base, he knocked his third homer of the season. He continued to hold their attention with a two bagger in the fourth, although no runs blossomed from this effort. Then the Babe came up with another double in the sixth, which assisted in the third and last Cub run.

Lee Weakens in Sixth.

The healthy display of hits by the Reds in the sixth put a black mark against Big Bill Lee, one of the Cubs' freshman pitchers. For five innings the six foot Louisiana athlete had the situation well in hand. During that stretch the Reds were restricted to four hits, two of which came in the third and produced a run. In the sixth, however, his cunning vanished and the Reds were quick to prove they noticed the change. Three of them hit safely, one a two bagger, and a pass was thrown in for good measure. After that Lee recovered his efficiency, but the parade had gone by.

The Cubs didn't have much trouble puncturing Si Johnson's pitching with base hits, but they were negligent in other respects. Two of them were cut down trying to sneak an extra base on fluke hits caused by Harlan Pool's trouble with fly balls. One of them was picked off first when there were two on with none out. And one other fellow was killed off trying to get home from third when the chances were about 50 to 1 against him. Altogether, you would term their base running slightly stupid.

Lee Troubled at Start.

As a preliminary to Babe Herman's heroics in the first inning Lee went through a few troublesome moments in the Reds' opening half. Singles by Koenig and Bottomley caused two of the Rhinelanders to become base runners with two out. Lee erased his threat by wading into Pool with three strikes. Then Billy Herman opened for the Cubs with a single to center. English sacrificed and Klein popped out. This was where the Babe stepped in with his homer into the right field seats. In the wake of the two runs came a double to right by Cuyler, but he was nipped trying to stretch it into a triple.

The Cubs were enemies of themselves in the second and this ruined a promising opportunity. Hartnett led off with a two base drive to left center and moved to third when Jurges beat out a high bounding bunt. Jurges promptly took a nap off base, and a throw by Lombardi to Bottomley nailed him. Camilli then fanned and Lee was easy on a tap to Johnson.

Reds Pair Hits for Run.

Two hits were the cause of a run off Lee in the third. One of these was by Koenig with one out. Hafey slammed a drive between English and the foul line for two bases, Koenig stopping at third. Koenig dashed

If all the Cubs had hit as Babe Herman did yesterday they would not have lost to the Reds, 4 to 3. The Babe, batting above, showed the way with two doubles and a home run that figured in three of the losers' runs.

former playing surprisingly excellent golf despite the fact that this is his first open. He is Rodney Bliss, 21 year old son of an Omaha physician, who last year ran a good second in both the national intercollegiate and western amateur tournaments. Today he tacked a 73 onto his first round 74 for a total of 147.

Aside from Zell Eaton, 20 year old ex-caddy from Oklahoma City, who had 149, Bliss was the only amateur in the tournament to break 150. With him at 147 are Horton Smith, long striding Chicago star; the unorthodox Diegel, and Bill Burke of Cleveland, who won the 1931 open after a steeplechase playoff with George Von Elm.

Strung out behind these are a dozen pros and amateurs who will have to woo par quite ardently tomorrow to catch up to them. Speaking of par, which has been quite persnickety thus far, it might be well to mention here and now that it was finally overhauled for the first time this afternoon. This feat was achieved by Jimmy Hines, the curly haired Timber Point, N. Y., pro, who was a semi-finalist in the 1933 P. G. A. meet. Jimmy connected right on the nose for a 70.

Craig Wood Disqualified.

In keeping with the tradition that no open is complete without a disqualification, the field which sets forth tomorrow will be minus one of its most fair haired members. He is Craig Wood, Deal, N. J. pro, who was third in the 1933 open and who was coming with a rush today, finishing with what was posted as 148.

Officials of the United States Golf association, putting their heads together in solemn conclave, decided that Wood had trifled with the constitution. He drove off the sixteenth tee and into the rough. He came upon a ball which he thought was his own and hit it, but upon discovering that it wasn't went back and located his own, hit it, and a four was marked on his card.

His defection was neglect to add two penalty strokes as written in stroke rule 8 of the U. S. G. A. code for such a situation, which reads, "If a competitor play a stroke or strokes with a ball other than his own he shall incur a penalty of two strokes. He shall then play his own ball." The error was not discovered until hours later and Wood was automatically eliminated.

Runyan, by the way, who was regarded as a favorite for the open before it began, struggled for a 78 today and a 36 hole count of 152. Johnny Goodman, defending champion from Omaha, who has been playing a rather lackadaisical game thus far, took 77 for a 153. Lacey was in a peck of trouble throughout, winding up with a 78 and 149. Meanwhile those who had fallen by the wayside yesterday were picking themselves up and trying to crowd into the last 36 holes. Leading these were Tom Armour of Chicago, who added a tidy 72 to his 82 of yesterday, and Lawson Little of San Francisco, the new British amateur champion, who shot an 83 yesterday, but rallied with a 72 today, just enough to bring him under the qualifying wire, which proved to be 155. Denny Shute, British open champion, came to with a 73 after yesterday's 78. Sixty-four players gained the last two rounds with 155.

Cruickshank Encounters Trouble.

Cruickshank, a late starter yesterday, was among today's early birds, going out with Diegel. Bobby knocked down his par at the first, but left the second with a six, as a result of having been nearly out of bounds off the tee, and taking two putts from six feet when he did reach the green. He found the rough at the fourth and fifth also, but earned his pars at both. An 8 iron to the eighth left him six feet from the cup, and he sank the putt for a birdie, finishing the nine with a par 36.

He needed two putts from six feet for a par at the tenth, and was in all manner of hot water at the 11th, where he drove the rough, barely made the creek with his second, and wound up in the bushes on his next shot. A four footer sufficed for a deuce at the 133 yard thirteenth. He encountered difficulty at the 14th and 15th, but escaped with pars the rest of the way, making a fine run up shot to the eighteenth.

Smith Misses Putts.

Horton Smith, playing wary golf throughout his round, turned in with a 73 which might have been a 71 had he been able to drop two short putts on the fifteenth and seventeenth. His second shot to the first hole was short, but he pitched up to five feet and sank the putt for a par four. His drive to the second was out of bounds, but here again he got off with a five by chipping to within six inches of the pin. From there he followed the card to the twelfth, where he drove the rough and put his second in a trap at the right of the green. He was inches over the pin with his putt for a deuce at the 133 yard 13th. He got his par at the 14th, despite a trapped second shot. He missed a three footer for a par at the 15th, but was only five feet away from the 16th pin with his spoon for a birdie. His drive to the 230 yard 17th rolled off the slanting entrance to the green, and he required three more to get down. He gained a par at the last hole for the 73 and a 36 hole finish of 147.

Sarazen Is Second.

Sarazen, still playing the same determined golf as yesterday, rode even with par for seven holes, despite excursions into the rough at the second and fourth. He was trapped with his drive from the eighth, and his recovery landed among the trees. He birdied the 11th, the water hole, by driving over the creek, and sending a 7 iron to ten feet from the pin, whence he dropped the putt. He three putted from 35 feet on the 16th and from 45 feet on the 17th, coming home with a 72 and a 145, giving him command of second place.

4,000 Boys, Girls Attend Tribune's Golf Classes

Four thousand boys and girls took vigorous practice swings under the watchful eyes of professionals at the 19 courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association last night. Junior night in THE TRIBUNE golf school was the occasion for this ambitious turnout.

The youngsters' ages ranged from 7 to 18 years. Hundreds of parents accompanied them and looked proudly on as each swung lustily in the fairways.

The amazing appeal of THE TRIBUNE golf school, according to the professionals in charge of the lessons, is borne out by the fact that the ages of the pupils has ranged from 7 to 69 years. Last night's crowd of youngsters ran the week's attendance to a total of 23,000.

Many Will Be Great.

"Many of you," said Tom Geary, at Indian Head, "will some day be great golfers. In order to accomplish this you must practice faithfully every day." Other pros emphasized the value of observing golf etiquet and of counting all strokes.

A large class at Big Oaks, mainly of girls, listened to a lecture by Jack Norton and Johnny Gibson. Ralph Chrissie's group at Big Run received a lesson on the value of wrist motion in adding distance to the shot. The class also was cautioned against overpivoting. Chrissie said most golfers are prone to overpivot.

Dan Lynch Takes It.

Vernon's class was swinging like veterans under the guidance of Scotty Erwin. A bit of excitement was furnished the students at Golfmore when Dan Lynch, the pro, took a back swing, from a powerful junior, between the eyes. Lynch, in his explanation of the backswing, tried to get the youngster to stop the swing short. He succeeded and went down for a full count. After the stricken pro staggered away, Jim Loye went into action with a stirring lecture on the advantages the youngsters of today have in learning the game of golf early. Loye made all corrections from behind sturdy tree trunks.

Harlem continued to lead in numbers, when 600 boys and girls turned out. Besides the youngsters, Jack Yorgan had a gallery of more than 300 people, mostly parents. Many juniors, according to Yorgan, exhibited well developed swings. Yorgan announced a tournament, with prizes for his class to be held next Saturday morning.

Joe Jimsek, at Cog-Hill, took great pride in the fine swing he taught his youngest pupil, a boy of seven. According to Jimsek, the child had a regular driver sawed in half which was difficult to manipulate.

Orphan Annie Hits 'Em.

The class at Twin Orchards received a rare treat when Stanley Pelcher presented 14 year old Shirley Bell, the Orphan Annie of W-G-N. Shirley's beautiful swing thrilled the other students. As she hit balls, some of which traveled 180 yards, Pelcher lectured on the swing.

Six instructors at Evergreen under Al Megeff gave individual instruction to an enthusiastic class. There were few girls in the group, which was mainly composed of boys between 9 and 13 years.

Comedy was furnished the class at Westgate in the person of Earl Fishman, a red headed, freckle faced youngster of seven. Earl, who, Walsh avers, is the original Peck's Bad Boy, insisted on assisting the pros with the lesson.

Young Springer Exhibits.

Three hundred juniors at Mid City were treated to an exhibition by young Moe Springer, 10-year-old brother of Frankie Springer, the pro. Young Springer hit long balls off the tee, and then swaggered up and down in front of the 75 girls in the class.

Les MacArthur, at Chicago Meadows, coached his youngsters in all phases of the swing. He dwelt on the value of strong wrist action to propel the ball. Mission Hills had a small but enthusiastic group of juniors. George Jenkins, at Northbrook, picked out several of his youngsters whom he is grooming for the final form contests. Hickory Hills and Oak Hills also reported good crowds.

For the convenience of those who have been unable to attend any of the evening sessions, five courses—Vernon, Chicago Meadows, Northbrook, Techny Fields, and Big Run—will hold special classes tomorrow at 4 p. m. Those planning to attend are requested to bring drivers. Next week pupils should bring brassies. The lesson at each course will stress the backswing and the finish of the stroke.

Many Pupils Switch.

Smaller crowds at the outlying courses make it possible to individualize the instruction in most cases. Many pupils are switching from the inner courses to take advantage of this feature.

The first golf school pupil to distinguish himself was Art Peterson, who made a hole in one yesterday at Big Run on the tricky 100 yard third.

OFFICIALS RULE TOMICH IS OUT OF PEEL SERIES

John]Bombo] Tomich will be out of the lineup when the Wieboldt Wonderbolts, professional champions, and Vienna decide the Peel cup series at Kuppenheimer stadium, 19th street and Keeler avenue, tomorrow. Tomich has been suspended by the Peel commission for one week, but it is doubtful if he would be in condition to play, as he was kicked by a crowd of fans at last Sunday's game at De Paul field.

Marshall, Wonderbolts, and Kunst, Vienna, who were sent off the field last Sunday, will play. Both escaped with a reprimand.

Leo Rodak ended hard training yesterday for his 10 round bout with Dave Barry, Springfield, Ill., featherweight, at White City outdoor arena Monday. He will do only enough work today and tomorrow to hold his edge. Rodak, seeking his 19th triumph in as many professional appearances, plans to weigh 128, three pounds more than Barry.

Barry is due today from Springfield, where he has been drilling daily since Tuesday, when he was substituted for George Van Der Hayden. His young brother, Tommy Barry, who is National A. A. U. flyweight and Golden Gloves intercity bantamweight titleholder, has been Dave's chief sparmate.

Gene Higgins, west side junior welterweight, may replace Johnny Farr against Frank Sigilio in a 10 round bout Wednesday at Sparta stadium. . . . Farr yesterday informed Matchmaker Harry Weiss that an injury sustained in workouts will make it impossible for him to fight next week. . . . Solly Dukelsky and My Sullivan, St. Paul, will meet for eight rounds at Shewbrmidge field June 21. . . . Mique Malloy plans to present the first of a series of wrestling shows at Mills stadium June 22, necessitating a shift of the scheduled boxing card on that date to June 25.

Willie Vasis, Milwaukee, Wis., middleweight, will oppose Johnny Simpson in the show headed by Tommy Corbett and Geno Salvatore at Western stadium Tuesday. Gary Baldwin faces Johnny Gould. Toots Bernstein and Johnny Gaudes will meet suitable foes.

A boxing show will be held Monday at St. Patrick gymnasium, 122 South Des Plaines street. John J. Touhy is chairman of the committee arranging the card. F. M.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ardmore, Pa., June 8.—The prize escape of the second round of the national open golf tournament here today, worthy of a Dillinger, was negotiated by Charley Lacey, the tousle headed young Englishman who tied for the first day's lead. Lacey, playing with Horton Smith of Chicago, sent his drive off the eleventh tee into the brief rough at the right of the fairway, and just a few yards short of the creek which crosses midway to the green.

Lacey hurled his club to the turf in disgust and set out to hunt for the ball. When he found it, a black cat just out of the teen age was perched comfortably atop the log. It scampered away when the hapless Lacey crouched over the ball with a six iron, trying to sight the green through the foliage. He finally swung, and the ball, after holding the green near the pin momentarily, kicked over into the heavy grass on the bank of it.

Lacey's recovery shot turned up within six feet of the pin, and he ran the putt down for a five, only one over par on a hole which might easily have been a nine, considering that disastrous second shot. Lacey wasn't having the best of luck on any hole in the round, finishing eight over par for a 78 and a two day total of 149.

Bobby Cruickshank, playing a couple of twosomes back of Lacey, encountered almost the same difficulty, but needed two putts and went away with a six.

Yale Awards Letters to Two Chicago District Boys

New Haven, Conn., June 8.—[Special.]—Two boys from the Chicago district were honored at Yale university tonight when the board of control of the Yale Athletic association announced the award of athletic insignia to members of several Yale spring sports teams. Keith S. Brown, Wheaton, Yale's intercollegiate champion hurdler, received a major Y in track. He is a member of the junior class. Among those receiving minor letters for work on the Yale tennis team was Ralph E. Ellis, Chicago, a sophomore in the Yale Sheffield scientific school.

AMERICAN GIANTS RETURN.

The American Giants will return home today from an eastern trip that earned them first place in the Negro National league. They will open a four game series this afternoon with the Homestead Greys of Pittsburgh at Coles park, 39th street and Wentworth avenue.

3 Year Olds Clash Today in $60,000 Race

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—The richest three year old race in the world, the $60,000 Belmont stakes, will have its sixty-sixth running tomorrow afternoon at Belmont Park. Mrs. Dodge Sloane's High Quest, the Preakness winner, will be the favorite if he goes to the post. The famous mile and a half test, which will help decide the three year old championship, saw nine named to start today, including High Quest.

The winner will receive about $50,000. It is expected by Joseph E. Widener, president of the Westchester Racing association, that if good weather prevails 25,000 will attend.

A program of seven races has been carded, with the National Stallion stakes as the secondary feature. Eight have been named for this five furlong dash down the straightaway.

Appears O. K. in Workout.

The doubt surrounding High Quest's starting has not been entirely dispelled, and Trainer R. A. Smith will not make his final decision until tomorrow morning. However, Smith said today that High Quest had been galloped two miles and a half and had pulled up entirely sound and with no sign of his heel cut opening or giving any bother.

All of the nine named are colts and High Quest will have a stablemate in Good Goods. This one is considered capable of winning by himself and is a certain starter. The others considered most likely to upset the favorite are Joseph E. Widener's Peace Chance, George D. Widener's Chicstraw, and C. V. Whitney's Roustabout.

The entry of Identity and Gay Monarch is not considered formidable, and neither are Rose Cross or Sir Thomas, the latter still a maiden, although he was one of the future book choices for the Kentucky Derby.

Can He Go That Far?

The question in the minds of racegoers is whether or not High Quest can go a mile and a half in top class company. The Preakness was at a mile and three-sixteenths, and High Quest just lasted to beat his stablemate, Cavalcade.

SAILING YACHTS OF FOUR CLUBS TO RACE TODAY

Sheridan Shore Craft to Complete "A" Series.

The Sheridan Shore Yacht club's A series will be completed today, starting at 3:15. All 18 star sloops are now in the Wilmette harbor, and a majority are expected to start. After considerable difficulty the club has succeeded in having the harbor dredged on both the south and north sides.

Neo Leads to Date.

Neo, the Waage-Price syndicate star, is leading on points, having won two firsts and a fifth in three races. The Pirie brothers' boat, Gemini, is tied with Charles Pajeau's Smack for second. Each has 47 points to Neo's 50. Walter Stockton's veteran sloop, Walrus, is fourth with 42 points.

Seawanhaka, R, and A-B-C class craft will be seen on the Columbia Yacht club's course off Grant park this afternoon. The Seawanhaka sloops are slower than the fast Rs, but more comfortable, and some skippers claim they are more seaworthy. Class A boats under the club's rule measure 45 feet in length. The B cruising class includes 35 to 45 footers, while the Cs are all under 35 feet.

Other Clubs Are Busy.

All classes in the fleets of the Jackson Park and Chicago Yacht clubs will compete this afternoon. Universal schooners, Stars, Jacks, and probably the Q class will maneuver under the race committee's watchful eyes.

DAVIS CHECKS GIANTS; PHILLIES TRIUMPH, 3 TO 2

Errors Prove Costly to New York.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8.—(AP)—Curt Davis, rookie right hander, checked the Giants for the second time within a week today to give the Phillies a 3 to 2 triumph in the series opener. Giant errors aided the Phils' scoring.

CARDS, 6; PIRATES, 2.

St. Louis, Mo., June 8.—(AP)—Larry French, usually a nemesis to the Cardinals, was easy today, the Red Birds winning the series opener from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 2. The victory, plus Cincinnati's triumph over Chicago, enabled the Cardinals to jump from fourth to second place in the National league.

Tex Carleton let the Pirates down with six hits and was in trouble in only one inning, the seventh, when Arky Vaughan drove out a home run and Jensen and Grace followed with doubles.

MISS ROBINSON AND MRS. HILL IN GOLF FINALS

Kansas City, Mo., June 8.—[Special.]—Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, women's western champion, and Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, the defending titleholder, will meet tomorrow in the 36 hole final of the annual women's trans-Mississippi golf tournament. Mrs. Hill is seeking her fourth crown.

Miss Robinson defeated Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., in the semi-finals today, 3 and 2. Her card was three strokes under women's par for the 18 holes.

Mrs. Hill, who had difficulty on her second nine against Mrs. Dan Chandler, runnerup in the recent Texas tournament, finally eked out a 1 up triumph.

Malone to Pitch Today in Try for Sixth Triumph

Pat Malone of the Cubs will step up in front of the Reds this afternoon and endeavor to pitch his sixth victory of the season. The Reds are going to start Tony Freitas, the southpaw recently resurrected from the minor leagues, whence the Athletics had sent him.

The new backstop, made of fish netting and installed to keep some of the foul balls from going into the pockets of spectators, had its first tryout yesterday at Wrigley field and was voted a big failure by the boys in the press box. It was just like trying to see something through a pea soup fog.

The latest diagnosis in the case of Pitcher Guy Bush is that he incurred his side injury when he was hit by a drive off Rothrock's bat in the game with the Cardinals here April 28. Bush believes he'll be able to pitch in a few days if the doctors don't locate new complications.

Mark Koenig apparently thinks the Cubs pitchers are a bunch of swell fellows. When he singled in the third inning yesterday it made his seventh consecutive hit off a Chicago thrower.

MOON MULLINS—GIVING THE LOWDOWN

Ruth Injured as Yanks Beat Athletics, 11-4

New York, June 8.—(AP)—The Yankees won, 11 to 4, from the Athletics today, but lost, for a while, at least, the services of Babe Ruth.

Ruth was put out of action in the sixth inning when Mort Flohr, the A's rookie southpaw from Duke university went in to pitch. His first throw, a fast ball inside, struck the Babe's wrist, knocked him down and forced him to leave the game with an injury that was painful, if not serious. An examination in the club house indicated no bones were broken, but an X-ray examination was ordered.

RED SOX, 3; SENATORS, 2.

Boston, Mass., June 8.—(AP)—Fritz Ostermueller, young Boston southpaw, today turned back the Washington Senators for the second time in six days. His single in the 12th inning started the Red Sox rally that paved the way for the 3-2 victory.

Ostermueller encountered trouble only in the sixth, when Manager Joe Cronin singled, took second on a wild pitch, and was thrown out when Harriss grounded to Lary. Schulte then doubled to score Harriss and Kress drove in the second Washington run with a hit to left center.

BROWNS, 8; INDIANS, 6.

Cleveland, O., June 8.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns took third place away from the Indians today by defeating the Tribe, 8 to 6, in a ninth inning rally that netted two runs without the benefit of a base hit.

The Browns scored a run in the sixth and made five more in the seventh. Burns' home run with two on base climaxed the attack.

In the ninth, Burns walked and went to second when Hale dropped Harder's throw of Pepper's sacrifice. Garms sacrificed, and the bases were full when Harder threw wild to first. Burns scored as Knickerbocker threw out Hemsley. Bejma walked, filling the bases again, and Blaeholder also walked, forcing in Pepper.

Cubs Lose, but It's Not Babe Herman's Fault

home while Billy Herman was throwing out Bottomley. Pool spanked a wicked looking drive toward second, but the agile W. Herman kept it from being a hit. The stop also kept Hafey from getting in with the tying run.

Additional opportunities arose in front of the Cubs in the third and fourth. Billy Herman opened the third with a single to right, but erred in thinking it was a double. He was thrown out at second. It proved the only hit of the inning. Babe Herman came into prominence again in the fourth when he led off with a two bagger into the left field corner. Cuyler sacrificed and Hartnett drew an intentional pass. The Babe was run down between third and home on Jurges' roller to Bottomley, and the inning ended with Camilli flying to Comorosky.

Cincinnati Goes Ahead.

The Lee case took a turn for the worse when Hafey singled to start the sixth and continued to second when Klein fumbled the ball. Cuyler took care of a fly off Bottomley's bat. Pool was given a walk. Comorosky followed with a two-base clout to left, Hafey scoring the tying run and Pool stopping at third. Slade punched a hit past Billy Herman, who at the time was running over to cover second. This scored Pool and Comorosky, putting the Reds in front, 4 to 2.

The Cubs bounced back with one in their half of the sixth, due mainly to Babe Herman's third successful appearance of the afternoon. With one out the Babe lined his second two bagger into left field. Cuyler singled to deep short and Koenig threw the ball into the Cincinnati dugout, the Babe scoring and Cuyler taking second. Then Hartnett popped out and Jurges flied to center.

Bottomley Prevents Tie.

Bottomley was only one reason for the Cubs not getting home with the tying run in the seventh. Camilli started the inning with a single to center and moved to second on Lee's bunt. He scooted to third on Billy Herman's infield out. Then English slapped a drive between first and second. It looked like a hit until Bottomley made a dive into the dirt and speared the ball with his gloved hand. Johnson completed the play by getting over to first in time to get Bottomley's throw. In making the play Johnson's right heel got under English's spikes, but the damage was slight. In the last two innings the Cubs went hitless.

Detroit Deals 13-5 Beating to White Sox

A walk to Bonura followed by a single by Simmons with two out gave the Sox their only chance in the first two innings, but they almost managed to do something in the third. Earnshaw led off with a single to left, paused while Swanson flied to Fox, went to second on Haas' single to center and stopped at third on Bonura's single to left. This filled the bases, of course, whereupon Simmons hit into an infield double play.

Another Detroit Run.

The Tigers' third stolen base in three innings helped them to their run in the third inning. Gehringer pushed off with his second hit and was forced by Rogell. Greenberg fouled to Madjeski, then Rogell stole second and scored on White's single to left center. White was out, Simmons to Boken, when he tried to reach second.

The Tigers, however, got back one of these runs in their fourth. Owen caromed a single off Earnshaw's shins and moved up on Marberry's sacrifice. He scored on Fox's single to left. Fox executed the fourth theft on Earnshaw's deliberate windup, but Cochrane and Goslin furnished outs before he could get home.

Sox Fill Bases.

The game went completely to pot in the latter half of the fifth. Earnshaw walked Gehringer to start the session, then Rogell beat out a bunt. Gehringer was out trying to steal third but Greenberg doubled to the scoreboard on the next pitch, Rogell stopping at third. Rogell was the second Tiger to score on a wild pitch when Earnshaw loosed a high one trying to pitch to White.

Sox Score in Seventh.

Madjeski's bat again functioned for run producing purposes in the sixth. Chamberlin doubled and came home on Eddie's single.

The Sox' fourth run came in the seventh. For the third time the Sox had the bases full when Bonura and Simmons singled and Dykes walked with none out. Bonura scored on Boken's fly but the activity stopped there.

PORTER IS VICTOR IN MOTORCYCLE HANDICAP EVENT

Mark Porter had a shade the better of the flying George Lannom, both of whom are from Los Angeles, in the closing session of the three night opening meet of flat track motorcycle racing at the Logan Square baseball park. Porter won the handicap and finished second in the scratch event, while Lannom won the scratch and finished third in the handicap.

The events last night were marked by strenuous racing. Ed Thorsen, Chicago, fell in the second heat of the handicap, and his machine caught on fire. Attendants smothered the flames and dragged Thorsen away unharmed.

In a two lap match race, Dick Springston, who won it, was crowded all the way and was bumped on the south turn by Tom Cox. Delbert Morrison took a bad fall in the third heat of the scratch race.

The next flat track racing in Chicago will be next Tuesday night, when a program of 18 events will be held at Logan Square.

Wyatt to Face Sorrell and Tigers Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—Inevitable Whit Wyatt is scheduled to be restored to the rank of starting pitcher in tomorrow's White Sox game with the Detroit Tigers. Whit was the winning pitcher in both of the two victories the Sox salvaged out of their first three series with the Tigers. Vic Sorrell probably will pitch for the league leaders.

The White Sox had been trying to send Stanley Bordagaray back to Sacramento ever since Jim Dykes was appointed manager, but they couldn't waive him out of the league until last night. They had him on a tryout basis at $15,000, but the Cincinnati Reds were claiming him for the waiver price of $4,000. As soon as the Reds relaxed, Frenchy rushed to a California bound train.

BY FRENCH LANE.

One of the fifteen 2 year olds named over night for the Curran Memorial stakes to be renewed at Washington Park this afternoon may solve the deep turf mystery as to which is the best juvenile thoroughbred in the central states.

Twelve of the leading stables racing in Chicago have nominated their star young horses for the race, to which 2 year old colts and geldings are eligible. Over night the speculators had some trouble establishing a favorite.

This post of honor finally went to the Fred M. Grabner pair of Our Prince and Wise Player at 5 to 2. These colts hail from Chicago. Jimmy McGee's Light Brook, which scored an impressive victory earlier in the week, was the second choice at 7 to 2. Chief Cherokee and the C. C. Van Meter entry of Stay and Race Craft was held as the third choice and quoted at 5 to 1.

Slow to Develop.

This is the sixth running of the stake at Washington Park and more than ever it will give the first real line on the caliber of youngsters that are just beginning their racing careers. For some reason or other 2 year old stars or even those with a lot of promise have been slow to develop this season.

While many in the big crowd at Washington Park yesterday were trying to learn something concerning the merits of the stylish 2 year olds that are to battle for honors today, they saw a thoroughbred horse lose his temper so completely that it cost him victory in the feature race on the program.

Sazerac Tries Biting.

The offender was Sazerac, a 5 year old from New Orleans which races for A. B. Letellier. During the running of the mile and 70 yard dash Sazerac tried to bite two horses.

He sailed into the stretch on even terms with Marmion and twice tried to bite that horse. After this feud ended he galloped on into the lead, but twenty strides from the line of finish Dogmata, the extreme outsider in the betting, came up on the inside on even terms with him.

Dogmata escaped the attack and went on to win by a neck. Sazerac finished second and Frank Ormont was third. Darkie, the early pacemaker, to all appearances did not like the distance and his strides shortened to such an extent in the run down the stretch that he was out of the money.

POLLY RITA, aided by the pace and brought out entering stretch, made up ground gradually and was drawing out at end. HATHY had her speed, saved ground after first three-sixteenths, and held on well, but was not good enough. NEEDLE, given a hustling ride, also sustained her speed well.

TAR WATER, away slowly and saving ground early, was forced to outside for room on turn, gained gradually after straightening up in stretch, and won under light urging. POLYFON, a strong factor from the start and well rated, held on courageously. PRINCE SULIEMAN, sent to front under mild pressure, had fine speed, but weakened after reaching last eighth.

LADY LOUELLA, under strong urging after a quarter and swerving out after reaching stretch, held on with determination and was up in closing stride. QUE GATO had the most speed throughout, and weakened in late stages, but barely missed. PLAYMORE lost much ground, and was going gamely at close.

STOCKS SOAR ON PEACE OUTLOOK IN STEEL MILLS

Gains Run to $6 as Trading Expands.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—Advices from Washington predicting a settlement of the threatened steel strike during the afternoon occasioned the liviest rally in weeks on the stock exchange today. Prices shot up as much as $5 and $6 a share in some instances and trading volume mounted to the highest figure since May 14, totaling 1,607,420 shares. At the height of activity in the late afternoon, the ticker was racing more than a minute behind operations on the floor.

Gains were most impressive among the standard issues, although there were some sharper movements in the more easily affected issues to lend additional color to the demonstration.

Leaders Make Large Gains.

The more eye filling markups on the board at the close of business included Allied Chemical, up 5½; Central Railroad of New Jersey, 6½; United States Steel, 3¾; Union Pacific, 3¾; American Telephone, 3⅞; Du Pont, 5; Western Union, 3¼; General Motors, 2⅝; Inland Steel, 4⅜; and Spiegel-May-Stern, 4⅝ points.

While the steel news was given major credit for the rebound, there were a number of other items of bullish import in the day's news to bolster sentiment. One of them was the announcement that J. P. Morgan & Co. and several of the other big financial houses had decided to stay in the private banking field and were ready to submit their books to state supervision. Traders were prompt to interpret this decision as meaning that the firms in question had completed any liquidation of securities they might have in mind at this time in order to start with a clean state.

Change by NRA Approved.

Relaxing of the NRA's price fixing provisions and the news of additional rains over the wheat belt were other contributing factors to the street's cheer.

Mail order and farm shares made much of the last named tidbit of news, Sears-Roebuck shooting up more than 3 points in brisk trading and Case Threshing Machine rising nearly $4 a share. Montgomery Ward finished the session 2⅝ higher and in the implement division Deere and International Harvester each rose nearly 2 points.

Motor shares had their best day in many weary weeks—reaping their share of the good news on steel's troubles. Chrysler was an outstanding strong spot, rising more than 3 points on fairly heavy volume. Auburn, Hudson, and other issues of the group met with good demand and improved their respective ratings materially.

Mining Shares Advance.

Recurring rumors of an imminent advance in the United States gold price kept the mining shares in the limelight. Dome rose to a new high and McIntyre came within a fraction of its 1934 peak. The silver shares, under the leadership of United States Smelting, were active and strong.

File Notice of Advance in "Blue Eagle" Copper

New York, June 8.—(AP)—An advance of ½ cents a pound to 9 cents for "Blue Eagle" copper was forecast in trade circles today when it was learned that a number of producers had filed notice of such an advance with the copper code authority. Whether a sufficient number of producers had filed notice to cause the authority to post the increased price could not be ascertained.

Banks Draw Up Uniform Plan of Service Fees

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A uniform schedule of service charges which most banks in Illinois are expected to adopt in the near future was made public yesterday by the Illinois Bankers' association. The charges recommended by the association are the result of several months' study and are designed to eliminate unprofitable accounts and "to stabilize bank earnings."

The schedule sets up fees to be charged for a variety of banking services, many of which in the past have been performed for customers without cost. Checking accounts having an average balance of $250 or less are to be charged a flat monthly fee ranging from 10 to 50 cents, according to the size of the account, and 4 cents for each check above the maximum allowed, ranging from 5 to 9 cents per month. Accounts with average balances of from $250 to $500 will be allowed from 10 to 22 checks monthly with charge of 4 cents for each extra check drawn.

Charges on Larger Accounts.

Accounts in excess of $500 are to be treated according to a special formula to determine the cost to the bank and the charge to be levied.

The schedule is to be voted upon at the various group meetings throughout the state which will be held in the near future. It was pointed out yesterday that many Chicago banks are already charging fees for certain services higher than those in the schedule recommended by the association. These are not likely to be lowered. The charges announced by the association were set up to apply particularly in other sections of the state.

Interest on savings accounts is also limited to 2½ per cent by the schedule. Under the plan no interest is to be paid on Christmas savings, vacation, travel, or similar "purpose" accounts. Interest will be paid on public funds only "as legally required."

Expect Voluntary Approval.

The members of the association are expected to adopt the schedule voluntarily and it will not be submitted to banking code authority in Washington. Last December a stir was caused when the New York banks announced that the code authority had approved a schedule of charges. Gen. Hugh Johnson, administrator, withdrew the approval given the schedule when the storm of protest broke.

No attempt will be made to get the code authority to approve the schedule for Illinois banks. M. A. Graettinger, executive vice president of the association, predicts that the recommendations will be accepted by the banks in the state. The association's membership includes 800 of the 880 banks in the state.

Among the numerous items for which fees will be charged are included cashing of checks, collecting bond coupons, issuing cashier's checks, safekeeping and a long list of other services.

TREASURY BOND, NOTE ALLOTMENT IS ANNOUNCED

Total subscriptions and the basis of allotment for the June 4 offering of 3 per cent treasury bonds and 2⅛ per cent notes were announced yesterday by the treasury department.

Cash subscriptions for the $300,000,000 bond offering totaled more than 2,511 million dollars. Those of less than $10,000 were allotted in full. The remainder was allotted on the basis of 10 per cent of subscription, with not less than $10,000 on any one. Those subscriptions tendering specified treasury certificates as payment were granted in full.

Subscriptions for the $500,000,000 treasury note issue amounted to more than 4,931 million dollars. Subscriptions of $10,000 or less were granted in full. Those in excess of $10,000 were filled on the bases of 9 per cent of the amount subscribed, but not less than $10,000 on any subscription.

On June 15 $174,905,500 of ¼ per cent certificates mature and on Aug. 1 $345,292,600 of 2¼ per cent notes must be met.

The treasury estimated that about $200,000,000 in income taxes would be received during the latter half of June as the second instalment on incomes of the 1933 calendar year.

Present figures indicate that the deficit at the end of the year will be about $3,800,000,000. The President's budget message to congress in January estimated that the deficit would be $7,309,000,000.

GASOLINE PRICE UNCHANGED; NEW CUTS FORECAST

Chicago's turbulent gasoline price situation settled into complete lethargy yesterday. Not one change was reported by either major or independent operators. A reduction of 2 cents to 18.3 cents in the price of ethyl gasoline Thursday was the latest revision.

However, it was said in some quarters the tranquility is likely to be short lived. Another downward revision is in the offing by major concerns, it was said, although the extent of the probable cut was not disclosed.

L. M. Foster, president of the Independent Brands Petroleum association, said his organization would initiate no further move for the present, but would follow any change posted by major concerns.

Trade Making Gain in Spite of Handicaps

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—Despite threatened labor troubles and crop damage, business as a whole still moves forward on the recovery trend in evidence for more than a year, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., in their weekly review.

Improved weather has served to stimulate retail buying in many centers and sales for the week are averaging 5 to 8 per cent higher than last week, although business in drouth areas has been hurt and volume gains there over last year have been almost wiped out.

"Retail distribution," it was said, "has taken a more decisive step forward, stimulated by the needs to combat excessively high temperatures and the growing vacation requirements, with sales 10 to 15 per cent in excess of the comparative 1933 totals."

Finds Industry Maintained.

The average of industrial operations has been well maintained, as a slight expansion in capital goods has offset slackening reported by manufacturers of consumers' products. Continuing, the review says:

"Despite the slight recession in factory activities, employment is being well maintained, and pay rolls generally are at the highest level since 1931. While the greatest unemployment continues in the durable goods industries, an improvement in this direction may become evident shortly, as nearly a billion dollars of new financing is planned to be released, now that the long delayed control bill has become a reality, and will permit the return of the investment base in the majority of future stock market transactions.

Urges Careful Planning.

"The present period, which marks the return of private leadership, is calling for all the adroit and astute planning which business executives can summon, as new forces must be brought into alignment in order to achieve the economic balance which will establish a broader and more sustained expansion.

"In addition to the necessity for further concerted action regarding production, price control, employment agreements and wages, there now appears the new need of meeting the rising living costs, which the fall will bring.

"With the devastation caused by intense heat and lack of moisture spreading toward the eastern states, prices of dairy products, vegetables, and meat are being revised upward, constituting another vital consideration of which cognizance must be taken in calculations for future business trends."

BOARD OF TRADE TO AID FARMERS BY INFORMATION

Facilities of the Chicago Board of Trade's far flung wire system and information agencies will be offered grain farmers in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa to overcome inroads made on crops by the prolonged drouth, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of cash grain men and elevator interests of the exchange.

Louis T. Sayre, a director of the board and chairman of the meeting, said the most practical aid the exchange can give lies in placing information of available stocks of seed grains for replanting in the hands of college experiment stations. Clarence Henry, special representative of the Board of Trade education committee, was named to direct the work.

Henry, who just returned from a 1,500 mile tour of the area, said the need for relief increases west of Indiana. There is a definite shortage of forage crop substitutes in Illinois and Iowa. He said soy beans, sudan grass and millets would benefit both states greatly if available supplies are located in the next two weeks, as acreage restrictions for these substitutes have been lifted.

BORDEN'S FARM PRODUCTS LOSES PRICE-FIXING SUIT

New York, June 8.—(AP)—The suit of Borden's Farm Products company for an injunction to restrain the state from enforcing the price fixing provisions of the agriculture and markets law was dismissed today by a federal statutory court.

The unanimous decision disclaimed concern with the wisdom of the state's policies and in substance said the Borden company was not discriminated against under the law, but was a member of a strong class in its field as compared with a weaker class, the independents and farmers, that the state's policy sought to protect.

BOARD OF TRADE DISPLAYS WORK OF CHINCH BUGS

Several prize chinch bugs along with samples of some of their best work were placed on display on the floor of the Board of Trade yesterday. Traders showed unusual interest in the exhibit. Although the bugs exert a tremendous influence on Board of Trade prices few traders have any first hand information on the insects. It is doubtful if most traders could distinguish a chinch bug from a mosquito. Samples of oats, taken direct from the field, on which the chinch bugs had been lunching were shown. "Is that what they do to corn?" one trader asked when shown the sample of oats.

From downstate Illinois reports were received yesterday that the chinch bugs are moving on from the dried up oats and wheat fields over into the corn patches.

Relief for spring wheat may mean havoc for winter crops. With the drouth in the spring wheat belt broken fears are being expressed in some quarters that the torrential rains will damage the winter wheat crop and cause a wet harvest.

From southern Nebraska Chicago brokers receive word that harvesting of the winter wheat has started. This is about two weeks earlier than usual. Yields are said to be running about 50 per cent of last year and 25 per cent of normal.

In Sioux City, Ia., where the worst floods in years are being experienced, the talk has turned from drouth relief to flood relief.

Clement Curtis & Co., yesterday received a report from Fort Worth, Tex., that in some sections of southern Texas corn has reached the tasseling stage and is rapidly drying up from lack of moisture. No rain is in sight and two or three more days without relief will complete the loss, the firm was notified.

Chinch bugs were discovered in two corn fields near Ashland, Neb., according to a report to Bartlett, Frazier & Co. As yet they have done no damage.

The Wichita, Kas., office of James E. Bennett & Co., reported yesterday that early wheat at Kiowa, Kas., is averaging 10 to 14 bushels an acre as compared with a prospective 15 to 20 bushels an acre two weeks ago. Later wheat will probably yield five bushels to the acre, the house adds.

There was a note of relief in a message from Emmetsburg, Ia.; "Rain most of night. Still raining. Plenty of rain." Similar reports were received from other sections of the state.

Winnipeg wheat futures closed 1 cent higher on all deliveries. Traders here heard that leading interests in that market were not disposed to sell so freely, and reported good foreign buying. This was taken by those in close touch with foreign markets to mean that the situation abroad is steadily improving, and that their price level is lower than warranted by world conditions.

BANKRUPTCY BILL IS FILED AGAINST HOTEL SHERMAN

A petition was filed in the United States District court here yesterday on behalf of three creditors, asking the Hotel Sherman company be declared insolvent and that the court appoint a trustee in bankruptcy.

The petition, filed by Attorney Joseph W. Schwartz, declares the company is unable to meet its debts. It asserts the firm went into equity receivership May 9, 1932, and that three days later an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed. This is still pending.

The petitioners inform the court they are willing to submit a reorganization plan at any time desired, and ask the court to issue an injunction restraining interference until the company has been adjudicated bankrupt.

Graham-Paige Cuts Prices of Standard Cars $20 to $50

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—[Special.]—A reduction in the factory list prices of the Graham line of standard six models was announced today by J. B. Graham, president of the Graham-Paige Motors corporation. Reductions are: standard six business coupe, $50; standard six coupe with rumble seat, $30; standard six sedan, $20. Prices of the Graham special eight, the supercharged special eight, and the custom light eight with Graham supercharger remain unchanged.

Auto Output Dips in May; Double 1933

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—Output of motor vehicles in May amounted to 336,657 units, a decrease of 11 per cent from the preceding month, but an increase of 48 per cent over May, 1933, according to an estimate issued today by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Production for the first five months of this year was estimated at 1,477,770 units, an increase of 88 per cent over the corresponding period of last year.

Sales of General Motors cars and trucks to consumers in the United States in May were 95,253 units, against 106,349 in April and 85,969 in May last year. This May's record was the best since 1931. Dealer sales were 103,844, against 121,964 in April and 85,980 in May last year. Total sales to dealers, including foreign business, were 132,837, against 153,954 in April and 98,205 a year ago.

Increase in Five Months.

In the first five months sales to consumers in the United States were 382,125, against 297,937 in the corresponding period last year. Sales to dealers in the United States were 474,078, against 327,806 a year ago. Total sales for five months were 603,395, against 384,921 last year.

The Reo Motor Car company reports having shipped 2,517 passenger cars and trucks during May, well over three times as many units as were shipped in May of 1933. Truck shipments to June 1, 1934, passed the figures for the entire year of 1933. Orders on hand indicate a continuation of steady increases over last year in shipments of both passenger cars and trucks, the company reported.

Chevrolet Has Increase.

Chevrolet reported 83,839 units were delivered by dealers during May. This total included Canadian export and domestic deliveries. In the same period last year 69,125 units were delivered. The commercial car and truck total for May was 15,134 units. In May, 1933, a total of 10,879 units were delivered.

Sales of both passenger cars and trucks improved greatly during the last ten days of May and accounted for the impressive retail sales total for the month, the company announced.

Retail sales in the first five months of the year totaled 364,872, compared with 253,263 for the same period of last year, an increase of more than 110,000 units.

Domestic truck deliveries for the five months were 68,207 units, against 34,372 units in 1933.

SOME WANT U. S. AS GODMOTHER, RFC HEAD SAYS

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., June 8.—(AP)—A warning that "without a sound banking structure we cannot sustain recovery" was given today by Jesse Jones, chairman of the board of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Addressing the West Virginia Bankers' association, Jones said:

"The completion of bank reconstruction will mean more perhaps in sustaining recovery than any of the emergency measures.

"It is not necessary to agree with all that is being done, but it is necessary to support the President in the broader sense; for while great progress has been made and we are no longer discouraged, there is much yet to be done.

"There is, however, an element among us, and a very strong one, that wants the government to be a fairy godmother. This sentiment must be watched and curbed. For if the government is to support the people, who will support the government?"

HOLIDAY CUTS CAR LOADINGS; STILL TOP 1933

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—Freight loadings in the United States for the week ended June 3 were 578,541 cars, a decrease of 7.3 per cent compared with the 624,567 cars in the preceding week, but an increase of 13.7 per cent over the 512,974 cars loaded in the like week of 1933, according to the American Railway association.

Loadings for the year to date were 12,900,673 cars, compared with 10,931,027 in the same portion of 1933, and 12,100,453 in 1932.

Loadings by Classes.

MAY SLAUGHTER OF CATTLE SETS NEW HIGH MARK

The extent to which the "worst drouth in history" has forced live stock into the packing houses over the entire country is revealed in the figures showing the numbers of animals slaughtered under federal inspection during the last month.

Cattle slaughtering established a new all time record for May, and the hog slaughter was only slightly under the largest May total since 1924, when production was the largest known. During the month packing houses slaughtered a total of 864,075 cattle, as against 717,413 a year ago and 616,063 two years ago. The increase for the first five months of this year amounted to 816,838 head, the total for this year being 3,948,493 and last year 3,131,655.

The May hog slaughter at 4,217,624 compares with 4,286,239 in 1933, which also was one of the largest May totals on record. The heavy selling of hogs a year ago was caused by high prices, whereas this year insufficient feed and high grain prices brought the selling wave. Current hog prices are averaging $1.25 lower than a year ago.

Suggests Treasury Report Include European Debts

Washington, D. C., June 8.—(AP)—Inclusion in the daily treasury report of a statment of European indebtedness to the United States was proposed today in a bill by Representative Knutson [Rep., Minn.]. Knutson said there was "so much confusion" in the public mind concerning the debts he believed it important to give the people daily information on the subject. He would include in the statement the nature as well as amount of each debt.

Railroad Credit Corp. Will Make $2,200,000 Payment

New York, June 8.—(AP)—The Railroad Credit corporation will pay on June 30 an eighth liquidating distribution of $2,200,000, according to E. G. Buckland, president. Of the distribution $1,000,000 will be in cash and the remainder in credits to railroads which borrowed from the corporation. The distribution will bring repayments to $16,200,000, or 23 per cent of the nearly $75,000,000 proceeds of the former emergency freight surcharges.

Grains Higher; World's Crop Estimates Cut

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A belief on the part of traders that the government crop report, which was issued after the grain markets closed yesterday, would prove to be decidedly bullish, and rumors that large purchases of corn would be made for relief purposes, more than offset the effect of the breaking of the drouth in the northwest. A marked change in the character of the comment on the grain situation in Europe was also a market factor, especially at Winnipeg.

Prices dipped moderately early, but rallied sharply later when commission houses took the buying side. Wheat closed with net gains of ⅝ to ½ cent, July finishing at 97¾ to 97⅞ cents. Corn was up ⅛ to ⅜ cent, with July at 56 to 56⅛ cents. Oats advanced ½ to ¾ cent, July being 43½ to 43⅝ cents. Rye gained 1 to 1⅛ cents. Barley was unchanged to 1 cent higher.

World Situation Changes.

Harvesting of the new domestic winter wheat crop is making rapid progress, and it was estimated around 500,000 bushels were hedged in the local pit during the day. Over 50 cars of new grain were received at Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas interior points, and cutting has started as far north as southern Nebraska. This development was regarded by the trade as indicating a good part of the winter wheat areas would not be benefited by future rains.

Heavy buying of wheat futures by exporters was reported at Winnipeg to be based on a drastic change in crop conditions in Europe. The French crop was estimated by a Paris authority as low as 240,000,000 bushels, or 140,000,000 bushels less than last year's harvest and about 80,000,000 bushels below average requirements. Broomhall estimated Czechoslovakia's yield at 35,000,000 bushels, or less than half of the 1933 harvest.

European Situation Serious.

In commenting on the strong undertone in the world's wheat market recently, a New York message to Harris, Winthrop & Co. said: "We have cable advices that the situation in Europe is becoming more serious than reported. Bulgaria has prohibited exports. Market news reports are not as favorable as anticipated in view of recent rains."

Drouth reports from Australia had considerable influence on the Liverpool wheat market, which closed ⅝ to ⅞ cent per bushel higher in American funds, while Winnipeg gained 1 cent for the day.

There were rumors that the American government would buy corn pledged as collateral for loans from farmers at the market price, and also permit the producer to have any profit which accrued up to Aug. 1.

Plow Up Wheat and Oats.

Numerous reports were received from Illinois and surrounding states during the day indicating farmers were plowing up wheat and oats, as the result of damage by chinch bugs and drouth, the rains coming too late to be beneficial. The prospect that large amounts of oats will be bought by the government, to be used in seeding the 1935 acreage in the drouth area, induced many smaller traders to buy futures during the day, and there was some expansion in the outside interest in this grain.

Rye showed independent strength on buying induced by a belief that heavy damage had been done to the European crop by dry weather, and that imports to this country would be relatively small in consequence.

DOLLAR LOWER AGAINST FRANC, GAINS ON POUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—The gold bloc currencies advanced slightly, while sterling declined in the foreign exchange market today. Francs gained 1 point to 6.61½ cents, which was equivalent to a fall of 0.16 cent in the dollar to a premium of 0.27 cent.

The decline in sterling amounted to ½ cent and carried that exchange to $5.06½. Scandinavian currencies, which move with sterling, were off 2 to 4 points, and the yen was down 6 points to 30.12½ cents. Canadian dollars rose 1-16 cent to a ¾ cent premium.

Accompanying the rise in the franc, Dutch guilders were 12 points higher at 67.95 cents,; Belgian belgas were up 8 points to 23.42 cents, and Swiss francs were up 6 points to 32.58 cents. German marks were 5 points stronger at 38.60 cents, and Italian lire gained ½ point to 8.67 cents.

The New York Federal Reserve bank announced the receipt of $1,954,800 gold from England and $1,408,600 gold from France, the latter representing the first arrival of gold exported from France a week ago when the franc fell below the gold point. Additional gold reached here but did not reach the Federal Reserve bank in time to be included in the daily report. Among the shipments were $1,267,200 gold from England and $2,350,190 from India.

INDICATE WHEAT CROP SMALLEST FOR 41 YEARS

Total Is Far Below Domestic Needs.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Prospects for the smallest total wheat crop in forty-one years and about 125 million bushels less than domestic consumption were indicated in the department of agriculture's monthly crop report released at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The figures are as of June 1.

Winter wheat production was estimated at an even 400 million bushels, a drop of more than 61 million bushels in the last month. Spring wheat production was estimated tentatively at 100 million bushels, and the condition of spring wheat was placed at 41.3 per cent.

Reports of conditions of rye, oats, hay, and other crops were also sensationally low, reflecting the drouth that has persisted for more than two months over most of the great producing areas.

A total wheat crop of 500 million bushels would compare with last year's total of 527 millions. Winter wheat production last year amounted to only 351 million bushels, but the spring wheat yield was 176 million bushels, or about 76 million bushels greater than present prospects for this year's spring wheat.

A total 1934 wheat crop of 500 million bushels would be 125 million bushels less than the normal domestic consumption of 625 million bushels and would, accordingly, reduce the estimated carryover from 250 million bushels to 125 millions, or approximately a normal carryover.

If, however, as is contended by B. S. Snow and other private crop estimators, the carryover figure of 250 million bushels is too large, then the prospects are—assuming there is no radical improvement in weather conditions—that by the end of this year the nation will be close to the bottom of the wheat bin.

From Burden to Threat.

The department of agriculture's estimate on winter wheat was surprisingly close to those of leading Chicago crop experts, given out a week ago. Both Mr. Murray and E. H. Miller, expert for James E. Bennett & Co., estimated winter wheat at 400 million bushels. Others were close to that figure.

The 400 million bushel estimate for winter wheat compares with the average yield of 632 millions for the five years ended in 1931. It would be the smallest winter wheat production—with the exception of the 351 millions in 1933—since 1911, when a final figure of 399,919,000 bushels was reported.

The government report placed the condition of oats at 47.2 per cent of normal as of June 1. This figure, according to Chicago crop experts, is interpreted as indicating a prospective yield of 697 million bushels, which would be even less than the phenomenally short crop of 722 million bushels last year and a little more than half the five year average of one billion 217 millions.

Hay Production Smaller.

The condition of the hay crop was placed by the government at 51.5 per cent of normal, compared with an estimate of 69.9 per cent on May 1. This indicates, say Chicago grain authorities, a total crop of tame and wild hay totaling only a little more than 55 million tons, compared with a short crop of 74 millions last year, and an average crop of 84 million tons for the five years ended in 1930.

The condition of pastures, the government reports, on June 1, averaged 53.2 per cent of normal, compared with an estimate of 66.2 per cent on May 1 and 81.5 per cent on June 1, 1933.

The condition of rye was placed at 43.5 per cent, compared with 73.7 per cent a year ago. A rye crop of 18,800,000 bushels is indicated, the smallest since 1876 and about half of actual domestic needs.

The condition of all grains, according to the report, is the worst ever reported by the government. Records go back to 1867.

Hope Lies in Corn Crop.

The hope of middle west and western farmers now lies in the corn crop. It is the only large crop that can yield anything like a normal production. The government made no report on corn condition in the June 1 report.

Although the department of agriculture reports as of the first of the month, some of its figures begin coming in several days before the end of the month and others are received several days after the first. Grain experts usually figure that the monthly report reflects the crop outlook as

MANY COMPANIES WILL REORGANIZE UNDER NEW LAWS

Expect Midland United to Act Soon.

The first rush of applications by corporations seeking debt relief under the McKeown corporation bankruptcy act let up yesterday, but indications were that a large number of other concerns will soon attempt to effect reorganizations under the terms of the law. The measure was signed at noon Thursday by President Roosevelt and before the day was out a half dozen corporations had taken the first legal steps necessary to carry out reorganizations under its terms.

Chicago banks report that a large number of corporate reorganizations, large and small, have been held up for the last several weeks pending decision on the bill. With the actual enactment behind them, bankers and attorneys set about yesterday to prepare reorganizations which would rescue debt burdened enterprises.

Midland United Affected.

One of the largest corporate reorganizations in this section which have been held up pending the passage of the law is that of the Midland United company, holding company for utility properties in Indiana and Ohio and a part of the old Insull system. It is reliably reported the company expected to take action under the law, but official confirmation of this fact could not be obtained yesterday. It is expected, however, that stockholders will be apprised of the plan of action before the annual meeting reconvenes June 14.

The first petition under both sections 77 A and B of the bankruptcy act by a company which has not already been involved in bankruptcy or receivership proceedings was filed yesterday in the federal court. The bill asked the reorganization of the Gary Electric and Gas company, a unit of the Midland United company, and was filed by Attorney Edgar J. Schoen on behalf of three noteholders of the concern. The action was taken independently, apparently, of the management's attempt to reorganize. Liabilities were listed at $8,500,000. The company recently asked holders of the $8,000,000 of bonds maturing this year to agree to an extension.

Only Two-thirds Consent Required.

In brief, the act enables corporations to put through reorganizations under the supervision of the federal court with the approval of two-thirds of the amount of the outstanding claims and a majority of the stockholders, if the latter are affected.

The petition brought under the law for the Middle West Utilities company was sponsored by an independent security holders' group and does not have the support of the bank creditors, who are attempting to work out a reorganization plan of their own for submission to the federal court.

The hearing yesterday on application of creditors for examining Samuel and Martin Insull in search of assets under section 21-A of the bankruptcy act was continued until June 29. Hearing had also been set for yesterday on the issue of whether the company is insolvent and this question was also put over until June 29. The postponements were requested because of the action began Thursday in filing under section 77-B of the bankruptcy act.

TWO ACTIONS FILED IN EAST.

New York, June 8.—(AP)—The Hamilton Gas company, operating wells and pipe lines in West Virginia and Kentucky, filed in the federal District court today a petition for permission to reorganize under the new bankruptcy acts. Assets were estimated at approximately $9,000,000 and liabilities, exclusive of capital and surplus, at $4,000,000.

A group of creditors also filed a reorganization petition for the National Department Stores, Inc., a holding company for 17 operating units.

Short Interest in Stocks Falls to 741,038 Shares

New York, June 8.—(AP)—The short position in stocks listed on the New York Stock exchange totaled 741,038 shares as of May 31, the exchange reported today. This compared with a total short interest of 910,742 shares as of April 30. The low point of the short interest since the exchange has been issuing the monthly figures was 712,868 shares on Dec. 30, 1933.

RAILROADS PLAN TO TEST WORTH OF FAST TRAINS

Makers, Lines Seek Way to Regain Travel.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 8.—[Special.]—The Boston and Maine railroad, the Maine Central railroad, the General Motors corporation through its Winton engine division, and the Budd Manufacturing company will join next in a four party research project in an effort to prove conclusively what type of passenger equipment and service will best serve to revive travel on American railroads, it was announced here today.

The plan will bring to the lines of the Boston and Maine railroad and the Maine Central railroad a streamline, high speed, Diesel propelled passenger train, capable of a speed of 115 miles an hour.

Will Study Special Service.

The train will travel 700 miles daily in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine, starting next November, and carry passengers on regular main line runs while the experts of the railroads, the motor corporation and the Budd company conduct exhaustive studies of the operation. Through these studies it is hoped there will be developed statistics which will bring even further improvement in the railroad train of the future.

The new train's daily run will start at Portland, with a nonstop run to Boston, then to Bangor, back to Boston, and finish the day with a nonstop run back to Portland.

The train will cost approximately $275,000. The Boston and Maine has applied to the Public Works Administration for a loan of $220,000, and the railroad will provide the balance of the purchase price from its own cash.

Experts to Build Train.

Charles F. Kettering, president and general manager of the General Motors research laboratories, and experts of the Budd Manufacturing company, headed by Edward G. Budd, will join in building the new train.

In announcing the project, President E. S. French of the Boston and Maine and Maine Central railroads, stated that the new train, with a carrying capacity of 150 passengers, will consist of three streamlined, "shotweld" stainless steel cars, with a Winton two-cycle, 660 horsepower Diesel engine in the forward car. The train will have complete buffet service and baggage space.

"In inaugurating this train service on a regular main line we hope to attract back to the rails a great deal of the passenger trafic in our territory which is now moving over the highways," said President French.

GRAIN INTERESTS CRITICIZE U. S. DIET SUGGESTION

Sharp criticism of the department of agriculture's diet suggestions lowering the amount of wheat consumed per person was voiced here yesterday by H. T. Corson of the National Food bureau at the opening session of the Society of Grain Elevator Superintendents' four day convention in the Hotel Sherman. Approximately fifty members are attending the meeting which will be devoted largely to technical subjects.

"Each person must eat 170 pounds of wheat annually to avoid malnutrition," he said, "while the federal agency is advocating a usage of only 138 pounds. The diet sheets put out by the government actually seem to be trying to discourage the use of wheat."

He said that while the United States is the largest producer of wheat it is seventeenth in consumption.

Nat C. Murray, crop statistician of Clement, Curtis & Co., predicted Europe will raise 300,000,000 bushels less wheat in 1934, which will raise import requirements correspondingly. The United States will get little of the business, however, because prices are above an export basis, accentuated by a short crop and government efforts to reduce the surplus, he said.

CHANGE IN PRICE POLICY DOES NOT ALTER NRA CODES

Changes in price policies of the national recovery administration do not amend any approved codes in division six, applying to the wholesale and retail food and grocery trades, A. W. Riley, division administrator, ruled yesterday.

Codes are in full effect as written and continued compliance with all provisions is required, he said. He said the minimum labor allowance in these codes does not constitute price fixing.

Marketing provisions in the motor vehicle retailing code will not be disturbed by the order, a telegram dispatched yesterday by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson to the National Automobile Dealers' association said.

Italian Cotton Industry Debates Reducing Hours

MILAN, June 8.—(AP)—The Italian Cotton association here is deliberating instituting a five day week and also reducing the number of hours per day. This is at the invitation of the government to cut down surplus production. The cut in working time amounts to about 20 per cent. Cotton brokers here say that in a year's time this would curtail the importation of American cotton to the amount of 150,000 to 200,000 bales.

Shell Petroleum Awarded Indiana Highway Contract

The Shell Petroleum corporation has been awarded a contract to fill all gasoline and kerosene requirements of the Indiana state highway department for a period of one year, beginning June 1. The contract is estimated to involve a total of 3,000,000 gallons.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Earnings of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad last year equalled $3.28 a share, amply covering dividends paid totaling $3 a share. The Tribune incorrectly stated yesterday that profit for the year equalled only $2.28 a share.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—(Special)—May domestic corporation bonds advanced sharply in active trading today THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S averages for these issues showed the widest advance since May 15. United States government bonds closed generally higher, although weakness appeared in the bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation and Federal Farm Mortgage corporation.

Second grade and speculative corporate issues showed the best gains. High grade loans were firm, but trading in them was comparatively quiet as buyers concentrated in the low-priced railroad, industrial, and utility liens. Many advanced 1 to 2 more points.

Sales Total Larger.

Sales totaled $13,482,000, compared with $10,382,000 on Thursday. Of the total, the turnover in government issues was about $1,400,000 compared with $2,500,000 yesterday.

Settlement of labor difficulties in the steel industry appeared more likely and business news was better. There was decided improvement in sentiment concerning the low-priced obligations of many of the carriers.

German Loans Weak.

In the foreign group, German issues were weak, the losses ranging up to 4½ points and uncovering new lows for the year in several instances. Prices of United Kingdom, French government, and Dutch East Indies loans showed fractional variations.

In the Latin-American list, Argentine bonds resumed their advance, many gaining a point or more with resultant new peaks for the year. Colombian government loans closed lower.

New York, New Haven & Hartford.

Investors' Guide: I want to buy New York, New Haven and Hartford bonds, 4s, due 1957, and would thank you to let me know by return mail what data you have on them—T. M. J.

Answer: New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company operates about 2,000 miles of track in the heavily industrialized section of New England. Its main line runs from New York City to Boston. The bulk of its traffic is manufactured goods, with products of mines, principally coal, running second. Passenger trafic, principally commuter business, furnishes a larger proportion of revenues than with most roads.

The company incurred a deficit in 1932 for the first time in its history, covering only 98 per cent of charges. In 1933 only 71 per cent of charges was earned. Charges were covered 1.59 times in 1931, 2.02 times in 1930 and 2.39 times in 1929.

Some improvement has been shown in 1934. The company reported a profit in March of $147,000, against loss of $880,000 for March, 1933. Loss for the first quarter was $1,095,000, against loss of $2,370,000 for the first quarter of 1933. The rate of gain was narrowed in April. It was estimated on May 8 that loss for the month was about $100,000. This, however, represents about a $600,000 improvement over April, 1933, the result of a 14 per cent gain in gross.

The company has no major bond maturity prior to 1940. On March 31, 1934, current assets were $17,675,000 and current liabilities were $31,167,000. The unfavorable current position is not regarded as important at present because of the large amount of unpledged securities available as collateral for loans.

In view of the current failure to cover fixed charges and the decidedly junior position of the 4s, due 1957, they are currently regarded as speculative.

Standard Oil Export.

Answer: Standard Oil Export corporation's assets consist almost entirely of stock of Anglo-American Oil company, the largest petroleum distributor in Great Britain. The export corporation is operated as a service corporation and not for profit. It handles all the export business of Humble Oil and Refining company, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Standard Oil of Louisiana, and Carter Oil company.

Its 764,935 shares of $5 cumulative $100 par preferred stock are guaranteed jointly and severally as to principal and dividends by these companies.
